On Tuesday of last week Freddie Muth was decoyed from school by a note sent to the teacher that his mother was sick, at her home in Philadelphia. A man named John J. Kean took him in charge near the school building and carried him off. Four hundred detectives worked on the case until Monday of this week, when they found the kidnapper and the boy unharmed at 427 North sixty-seventh street, Philadelphia. Kean had embezzled money and hoped to get enough out for the Muths to replace the money. Kean had also stolen $20,000 or $30,000 from the old Harlem Bank in New York some 12 years ago.

We can now understand how nothing is wasted in the packing house except the squeal. We have eaten every one of the "by-products" in canned form, tail, hoof and hide. Some enterprising graphone man ought to make a record of the awful din from the death-wheel to the man who does the throat-splitting in the packing house and the "squeal" would be preserved.

It was understood that you had to keep off the grass, and we don't blame uncle Munk for rescinding your franchise. But you can

In New York City, on Tuesday Morning at 1:30 a married woman returning home from a party, was halled by an Italian who drew a knife with a six inch blade and made a slash at her ear in order to secure her diamond ear ring. He cut her ear nearly off and split her cheek. She screamed and the police nabbed the Italian. The woman fainted twice, and will recover, with scars for life.

Mr. Dale W. Starbuck was married to Miss Mabel Jeter, Niece of Judge Adams, in Greensboro a few days ago. We remember "Dale" as a small boy and page in the Senate of the General Assembly in 1895, and wish him and his bride much happiness and success in life.

Governor John M. Pattison, of Ohio, died at 4:20 Monday afternoon. Pattison was born June 13, 1847. Lieutenant Governor Andrew L. Harris, who now becomes Governor, was Lieutenant-Governor both times President McKinley was elected Governor of Ohio. Harris was born November, 1845.

A livery stable burned down in St. Louis on last Sunday. Fifty horses were also burned to ashes.

The Baptist of Mt. Airy, N. C., are going to build a neat new church house.

Sudden Death of Mr. Dee Davis.

Last evening Dr. A. P. Davis received a telegram from Kimball West Va., stating that his brother Dee Davis, had accidentally fallen from a house and died from the effects, and that the remains would be shipped upon the next train and he will probably arrive to-day. The deceased was at one time jailor of Forsyth county. Later he was granted license to practice law and located at Jefferson, Ashe county. He moved from there to W. Va., where he has practiced his profession. The age of Mr. Davis was about 45 years. He leaves a family.—Republican.

The protracted meeting at First Baptist Church closed on Wednesday night, with 27 conversions—13 of whom connected themselves with the Church on Sunday morning. Pastor Brown was ably assisted by Rev. Mr. Jenkins of Statesville.

The work of erecting the new store house of the Wall-Huske Hardware Company is being started. This will be the first store house in the city to extend across an entire square, as this will run from Main to Liberty.

A negro from Fort Worth, Texas, entered a girl's room, caught her by the hair and she screamed. He was captured, and the girl being in session he was sentenced to 999 years imprisonment.
