Dear GUIDE:—Allow me a few lines in your paper, which I enjoy reading so much, and which is such a welcome paper in our home.

Mrs. A. A. Williamson, 718 Buxton St., who was bitten by a snake 6 weeks ago, is slowly improving. Dr. Kapp says she will get well now.

Mrs. Jennie Obryants baby died last night, September 23rd. Sorry for them as it was the only child.

MA'S BAD BOY.

A. C. Brandom, 17, and Grace L. Disher, 14, were married at the home of the bride in this City Tuesday night. If taking an early start amounts to anything, this couple should get along well.

Shame to the South.

Unlike other sections of the country, where the principle seems to be to shoot all negroes when one of them has excited public fury in the south the unwritten law declares death for the guilty alone; pacification and protection for the innocent. Atlanta, with its reckless rioting, its bullets for every black face and its stones and sticks for all black bodies, has reproduced Chicago scenes in the south, overthrown whatever of justice there may have been in lynch law, and applied a cleaver to that bond of confidence which the innocent negro of the south felt in the justice of the white man of this section. No wonder patience and self-control were lost; but in the losing of these virtues and the resulting desperate rioting, however great the provocation, Atlanta brought shame to the south, and has set a fuse that is more than apt to cause a most harrowing explosion.—Memphis Commercial-Appeal.

Johnie Joyce was thrown from a mule out near Stonville last week. A clap of thunder frightened the mule and it ran away.

Hillery Church and Miss Lizzie Hire were married in Salem on Wednesday night.

A few days ago we hinted to a good old negro in our city that the papers were talking about the possibility of the negroes being some day sent away from the South. The old man studied a few minutes and then brightened up in this language: "No sir, boss. The negro is not going to leave. He will die right at your gate. He don't think nothing about leaving, and he aint going to do it."

Beats His Wife to Death.

Chatham, Va., Sept. 20.—William Nance, a prominent farmer of Pittsylvania county, has been arrested and is in jail charged with the murder of his wife.

The details of the crime are brutal and shocking. Nance went to his home in an intoxicated condition, beat his wife with his fists, stamped her in the face and finally ended by striking her a blow with an iron rod, which crushed her skull.

This occurred last night, but it was not known until this morning about eleven o'clock, when the woman was found in a dying condition at her home. She lived but a few minutes after being found.

The coroner's jury verdict places the blame for her death upon her husband. He claims that he was so drunk that he did not know what he was doing.
