Coleman Property is Bought by This Combine to be Incorporated.

The result of some business organizing came to light this afternoon when it was announced that a number of business men of means had gotten together and would form a Real Estate, Loan and Trust Company, to deal in land, buy, sell, build, lease and improve lands, the same to be incorporated with the following gentlemen, subscribers to the concern: J. W. Cannon, B. E. Harris, E. F. White, W. W. Flow, Z. A. Morris, W. M. Smith, C. W. Swink, J. C. Wadsworth and W. A. Wilkinson.

The Coleman property which was sold at public auction some days ago was opened today for final bids and the closing of all bids and the above named gentlemen bid the property off as a whole something for over $15,000.

RUSSIANS' BAD MOVE.

The Baltic Fleet Fires on Fishing Boats Friday Night.

London, Oct. 23.—The steam cutter Maggie, was fired on by the Russian Baltic fleet Friday night. Her captain, on her arrival in the Thames tonight, said:

"Friday night there were about 40 vessels fishing in latitude 55 degrees 15 minutes, and longitude 5 degrees and 6 minutes. It was a misty, drizzly night. We spread over an area of some miles. Our admiral had just previously signalled by rockets and colored light the fishing direction for the night. Whether that had anything to do with what followed I do not know. The who thing is a mystery.

"Presently, through the mist there appeared the lights of many vessels, big and small. Knowing that the Baltic fleet was en route, we naturally assumed that they were Russians, but I cannot say for certain. They were signalling one another, and with powerful search lights spied out every one of our fleet. Suddenly some of the warships started firing at about twenty boats, which were nearest to them. We at first supposed they were blank shots, and the boatswain of the Tomtit which was close in, held two big fish out at arms' length. Some say he was offering them to the Russians in fun and others that he meant to acquaint the Russians with the fact that we were peaceful fishermen and not disguised enemies. In any case, there was no mistaking our occupation, for we were close enough for the Russians to see that our men were all engaged in getting fish. When we realized that the Russians were firing shot and that men were being wounded, all became terror and confusion. Nets were cut away. Steam was gotten up, and the trawlers hurried away as fast as possible.

One trawler, the Wren, is missing, and it is feared she has been sunk.

HULL'S VIGOROUS PROTEST.

Mayor Demands Prompt and Vigorous Action to Protect Fishermen from Further Outrages from Russians.—England's Demand will Soon be Given Out.

Hull, England, Oct. 24.—The latest reports of the affair shows that four Russian vessels were concerned in the attack on the fishing fleet in the North sea and that these together fire three hundred shots at the British vessels at a range of about a quarter of a mile. The mayor of Hull has telegraphed Premier Balfour that the greatest indignation prevails as a result of the unprecedented and wanton attack on Hull fishermen and the result of loss of valuable lives. He says: "We appeal to the government to take speedy and strong measures to insure full redress and complete security against further Russian outrages."

Strong Fleet Eager for Orders.

Portsmouth, October 24.—A strong fleet of cruisers, including the Goodhope, Brake, Mariessus, Eclipse, Powerful, Cumberland, King Alfred, Europe, Spartate, Canopus and Imperious and several torpedo destroyers, is here ready to sail with a few hours notice. Great eagerness is noted among the officers and crew for orders.

Russian Embassy Issues Statement.

The Russian Embassy has issued the following statement regarding the North sea incident: "Admiral Rodjestvensky undoubtedly is not responsible for the order to fire, as he had gone ahead with the first section of the fleet. The fact probably is that the fleet did not see the lights of the fishing fleet and mistook the rocket fired from one of the trawlers for hostile signal. The fact that the fleet steamed away after firing is probably due to the fact that it was believed no damage had been done. We are compelled to await orders from St. Petersburg before we can explain matters fully and no such orders have been received."

Lord Landsdown, who heard of the incident at Wiltshire, his country home, arrived at his office at 2.15 this evening and it is believed that the formal demand of England will be made before night.

Echoes of the Big Rally—Other Interesting News Items for this Evening.

Mt. Pleasant, Oct. 24.—The great day is now recorded as a bit of interesting history for the town, and 'tis but just that we say the people here appreciate the many nice things which have been said about their efforts to make the day a success, both socially and politically. And, also, the substantial aid lent by others which is duly acknowledged and appreciated. We will look forward for more of these days. The are worth the price.
