THE GRAPE BLACK ROT.

This disease prevails in all parts of North Carolina. In most sections of the State it is so bad that the grape crop is practically ruined unless proper measures be taken to prevent the disease.

The Black rot is easily recognized from the accompanying illustration showing its most conspicuous characters, blackening, drying and final shrivelling of the grapes in the clusters. Often all of them shrivel and dry in this way. Though the disease is seldom noticed until the grape is badly shrivelled, it may be seen earlier as a brown or black spot on the berry. Before its appearance upon the fruit at all it may be found as brown spots, one-eighth to one-half an inch in diameter, on the leaves or twigs. Very close examination of the diseased spots on twigs, leaves, or fruit, reveals the presence of very small pustules in great numbers.

These pustules are the fruiting bodies of the fungus which is the cause of the black rot, and from these pustules issue immense numbers of spores which serve to spread the disease.

This disease can be prevented. If you saw black rot on your grapes last year it will almost certainly be there again this year, unless you take steps to prevent it. Prevention is simple and sure. It consists in spraying your vines with the Bordeaux mixture, consisting of six pounds of bluestone, four pounds of lime and fifty gallons of water. The first application, killing the spores that are wintering on the bark and trellis, should be made before the buds open; the second, immediately before the blossoms appear; the third, just after blossoming; the fourth and fifth at intervals of ten to fourteen days thereafter.

The cost of six sprayings for an acre of grapes is about fifteen dollars, including material and labor. The grapes saved will in value far exceed this cost.

Now is the time of year to get your spray pump ready if you have one; to buy if you need to; to prepare for the spraying needed during the coming spring.

If you need further information regarding spraying mixtures, how to prepare them, spraying pumps, where to buy them, and what crops, and when to spray, write to the North Carolina Agricultural Experiment Station, West Raleigh, N. C., for Bul. 193, "Spraying Mixtures and Machinery, When and How to Spray."

OLD APPLE TREE ON BROADWAY

Rector of Grace Church Tells The Legend of Mynheer Brevoort in His Plea for the Old Landmark at The Band.

Rev. Dr. W. R. Huntington, rector of Grace church, in his protest recently before the Public Service Commission made mention of the old apple tree standing on the church land near the corner of Tenth street and Broadway—one of the few remaining monumental trees of New York. There is nothing monumental about its size. Many who walk past it daily may not even be aware of its existence. But there it stands nevertheless, visible at all times, and for one week of spring fine with apple blossoms, shaking its outdated odor over the ancient way. Still, it is lost in all the shabby and garden work of the church-yard, and passed by as if it were some ordinary fancy stuff of the garden. It does not occur to men that here is the strange and unusual sight of a common country apple tree. So the oddity goes unnoticed. Yet in its modest way it is a monument.

A legend, to which Dr. Huntington referred in the course of his remarks about the Grace Church site, is the reason for the tree's presence. The tree keeps green the memory of one Mynheer Brevoort, Dutchman and farmer. Brevoort's acres, spread about where the church and its buildings now stand, lay pleasantly near the city. Across the dip to the south he could see the oncoming houses, a scattering on the edge of the hill beyond Canal street.

One day a gang with rods and chains came past old Brevoort's door. South of here, the way northward had immemorably turned toward the North river and passed the little group of farms that swelled later into Greenwich village. Now the plan was to lay out a straight route. The chain came clanking up, length by length, to the Brevoort gate, where the long lane ended.

"Keep off my land!" shouted old Brevoort to the surveyors, confronting them with his dog and stick. Just what he said the vestrymen of the Grace Church of today are hardly certain. But that it must have been the most forcible Dutch at the old settler's command seems certain. It shook the courage of the surveyors. After listening to him a while they picked up their detested implements and marched off through the next man's field to the left, skirting the Brevoort fence all the way, but always on the safe side.

The result was a knee in the would-be straight course of Broadway at Tenth street, where now a man is stationed to grease the trolley slot, and at which teamsters tug their reins and speeding automobiles slow up. The plans of New York for a straight main thoroughfare were unmade by old Brevoort's threatening stick and tongue.

But it turned out later that the Grace Church estate came into possession of a nicely rounded parcel of land, thanks to the former owner's stubborn resistance. In gratitude the churchmen planted to Brevoort's memory, right at the angle, a tree; the tree of guarded and cross-grained branches.—New York Sun.

Mrs. Sousa Saved the Cash.

John Philip Sousa had all the funds of his band on deposit in the New Amsterdam National Bank. The manager of the organization reached New York on Wednesday evening from Nashville, where Sousa and his band were playing that night, and hearing of the closing of the bank, telegraphed the news to the conductor, adding: "We had $29,570 on deposit."

Sousa telegraphed this reply: "Sorry it isn't an even $30,000; easier to remember."

The best part of the story, however, lies in the sequel. The manager hurried to break the news to Mrs. Sousa, who knows all her husband's business affairs and has his power of attorney. She told the manager that she had heard rumors of the New Amsterdam's growing troubles and had withdrawn all but a few dollars of the Sousa band money at 2:50 that afternoon.—New York Times.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh quires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

No Case on Record.

There is no case on record of a cough or cold resulting in pneumonia or consumption after Foley's Honey and Tar has been taken. It stops the cough and breaks up the cold quickly. Refuse any but the genuine Foley's Honey and Tar in a yellow package. D. D. Johnson.

"Fools and children tell the truth," quoted the Wise Guy. "Yes, and generally at the wrong time," added the Simple Mug.

What Everybody Wants.

Everybody desires good health, which is impossible unless the kidneys are healthy. Foley's Kidney Remedy corrects irregularities and cures all forms of kidney or bladder disorders. Take Foley's Kidney Remedy at once and prevent Bright's disease and diabetes. D. D. Johnson.

Keeping Open House.

Everybody is welcome when we feel good; and we feel that way only when our digestive organs are working properly. Dr. King's New Life Pills regulate the action of stomach, liver and bowels so perfectly one can't help feeling good when he uses these pills. 25c at all drug stores.

When a man boasts of his honesty it is apt to become pure affectation.

A Night Alarm.

Worse than an alarm of fire at night is the rattling cough of croup brought down to the household. Careful mothers keep Foley's Honey and Tar in the house and give it at the first sign of danger. Foley's Honey and Tar has saved many little lives and it is the only safe preparation for children as it contains no harmful ingredients.

A LITTLE NONSENSE

Poor Old Ping.
Old Pegasus must do his bit
Between the shafts of alleged wit
Each mortal day.
The while some cruel jokesmith swears,
Poor Pegasus unceasing trots
Away.

They keep him always on the go.
He never hears a welcome "Whoa,"
The only call he knows, I wis,
And tries to answer to, is this:
"Giddap."

Sophistry.

"Dear, I only play poker for fun."
"But you bet, don't you?"
"Well, there wouldn't be any without a little betting."

Strictly Biz.

"You have never started a foreign war?"
"Not me."
"Nor denounced an international marriage?"
"No," explained the practical politician, "them kind of shiners won't get no new courthouse fer Plunkville."

Anything to Oblige.

"Yes; he gets a new trial."
"But wasn't he convicted fairly on the first trial?"
"Of course."
"Then why give him a new trial?"
"Well, you see, he doesn't want to go to jail."

Beats Luck.

You will not count on luck
If you are wise.
You'll rather use your pluck,
And advertise!

Other Animals.

"Doe," declared the bibulous patient, "I can't sleep."
"Try counting sheep."
"But, Doe, I don't see no sheep."

Pertinent Inquiry.

"War with Japan is inevitable."
"In which magazine?"

Assisting Talent.

"Yes, sir," asserted Mr. Hoptoad, "I've discovered workin' in a beer-hall a young feller who kin, at one and the same time, play on a pianer with one hand and a organ with the other."

"Going to assist him to a musical education?"
"That's my idee. I believe that feller kin be taught to operate a drum with his feet."

How to Succeed in Life.

"I'm making money hand over fist!" said a young merchant who started in business for himself three years ago, and met with indifferent success up to January. "How do you account for it?" several friends simultaneously inquired. His reply: "An old woman down Cape Cod way told my father fifty years ago that if he wanted to succeed in life he must always eat a herring one minute after the old year was buried and the new was born—that is, one minute after midnight, I found this advice in the old man's papers (he had never mentioned it to me), and followed it to the letter. I ate my herring at 12:01 a. m. January 1, and have been doing a big business right along ever since. What a pity my father didn't put me wise long ago. I'd be up among the millionaires by this time."—New York Press.

Every Person in Concord to Know

What Vinol is and How it is Made.

For some time we have recommended Vinol to the people of Concord as the best cold liver preparation and tonic reconstructor we have ever sold. To prove the reliability and genuineness of this successful remedy and that it is in no sense a patent medicine, the people of Concord will find on every package of Vinol not only a statement of the ingredients Vinol contains, but an illustration in colors showing just how Vinol is made from fresh cods' livers and peptonate of iron, which is a needful constituent for the blood.

This proves in a very convincing manner to the people of Concord the origin from which Vinol derives its wonderful curative power, and that it is a real cod liver preparation made by a scientific process which eliminates the useless oil and retains all the active medicinal principles.

As a body builder and strength creator for old people, delicate children, weak, run-down persons, after sickness, and for chronic coughs, colds, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles, Vinol is unexcelled.

Try it on our offer to return your money if it fails. Gibson Drug Store, Concord, N. C.
