TUESDAY'S ELECTION

Tammany Elects Gaynor Mayor of the City of New York—Battle Defeated for District Attorney—Draper in Massachusetts Gets a Reduced Republican Majority—Johnson Defeated in Cleveland.

New York, Nov. 2.—Tammany elected another mayor of Greater New York today but lost its grip on city finances. William J. Gaynor of Brooklyn swept the five boroughs to victory as mayor by at least 70,000 plurality, defeating Otto T. Baerard, Republican-fusion, and William Randolph Hearst, independent. He failed, however, to carry his ticket with him and the Republican-fusion forces will control absolutely the board of estimates and apportionment, which will disburse approximately a billion dollars during the administration. This is more than half a defeat for Tammany, for the control of the board of estimate was one of the principal issues of the campaign.

In addition the Republican-fusionists elected Charles S. Whitman district attorney of New York county, who defeated George Gordon Battle, the Democratic nominee, by at least 13,000 plurality, and John S. Shea for sheriff over Christopher D. Sullivan (Democrat) by approximately 10,000.

Few Violations of Law.
Although many arrests were made for violation of the election law, the greater part of these were found to be due to clerical errors or misunderstandings. The professional repeater and the guerrilla were chiefly notable by their absence. Credit for this satisfactory state of affairs was given largely to the new signature law. Under this law every voter after receiving his ballot is compelled to write his name and have it compared with the signature which he made at the time of registration.

If ever a New York election was well watched, it was today's. Every polling place had its full quota of watchers, including nearly two thousand college students from Columbia, Yale, Princeton and other nearby institutions, who were distributed throughout the greater city.

Governor Draper, the Republican governor of Massachusetts, was elected by a very reduced majority. His majority of two years ago was reduced from 60,000 to 10,000.

Tom Johnson was defeated for mayor of Cleveland by the Republican nominee, Herman Baehr.

In the Virginia State election the Democratic ticket headed by Judge Mann, is elected by splendid majorities.

Maryland is very close on the constitutional amendment proposition. The vote in the city of Baltimore was strong against the amendment.

ATLANTA REACHED TODAY.

Tourists Spend Last Night of Trip at Commerce Ga., and Wheel Into Atlanta Today—Some Cars Failed to Make Trip.

Atlanta Journal, 3rd.
Commerce, Ga., Nov. 2.—The tour began arriving here at 3:50 o'clock. It was a grand reception, a salute by veterans in uniform, and a parade by the school children. A Knox car of Kelly is reported to be in minor difficulty near Fairplay, S. C., on account of a bad carburetor connection. The Winston-Salem E. M. F. car is down with a broken rear axle near Bowersville, but the party is making a valiant fight to get a new one placed and come in tonight.

Jacques Futrelle's and the Jackson car had not returned when the moon control station was abandoned at Anderson. His daughter, Miss Virginia was picked up by Mrs. DeGeiers' Thomas car and brought on through to Commerce.

The White Star car, No. 29, which was withdrawn from the contest with a perfect score after it hit an obstruction in the road, is being towed into Commerce by Mrs. Cuno with her helper car.

New Pastor for Salisbury.

The vestry of St. Luke's Episcopal church, at a meeting held last night unanimously called Rev. T. A. Chestnut as pastor to fill the place of the late beloved pastor, Dr. F. J. Murdoch. Rev. Chestnut was sent to Salisbury by the Rt. Rev. J. R. Chambers, bishop of the North Carolina diocese on October 1st to supply St. Luke's until December or until a minister could be secured. He gave such satisfaction that on October 15th the final call was extended him resulting in his acceptance at the meeting last night.

JAIL SENTENCE IN THE GOMPERS CASE AFFIRMED.

Court of Appeals of District of Columbia Also Makes This Decision in Cases of Mitchell and Morrison.
Washington, Nov. 2.—The Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia affirms the jail sentence imposed on Messrs. Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison for contempt.

In stating the decision, Justice Van Orsdall said:
"Individual interest dwindles into insignificance compared with higher principles involved here. The fundamental issue is whether constitutional agencies of government shall be obeyed or defied. The fact that the defendants are officers of organized labor lends importance but it should not influence the result. If an organization of citizens may disobey court mandates individuals may do so."

The decision in concurring in by Justice Robb. Chief Justice Shepard dissented.

The decision which was affirmed was made by Justice Wright, of the Superior Court, against the defendants for violating an injunction in the Buck's stove and range case. The sentences were, Gompers, one year; Mitchell nine months; Morrison six months.

BOILER EXPLOSION.

One man is Dead and Others Are Fatally Injured in Boiler Explosion at Selma.

Selma, N. C., Nov. 2.—As the result of a boiler explosion today at Chas. Creech's gin, near this place, one man is dead, two fatally injured and one seriously wounded, while several are slightly hurt.

A peculiarity about this explosion is that it completely demolished the adjoining building, passing through it and causing the roof to fall in. The havoc wrought almost passes human conception and was a sight from which spectators turned their eyes in horror.

L. S. Parrish, a farmer and patron of the gin, was instantly killed, Walter Stancill sustained a fractured jaw bone and injuries at the base of the skull. Dr. J. B. Person stated that cerebral meningitis was almost inevitable in this case. Dock Bratton, the engineer, was scalded seriously, probably fatally. Haywood Ellis sustained several scalp wounds, which are not thought to be serious.

The accident is believed to be due to negligence, as the engine was gauged to 100 pounds and carried 150 pounds. Although the property was completely wrecked, there was no insurance.

SHERIFF JULIAN VERY ILL.

Little Hope is Entertained for the Recovery of Prominent Citizen of Rowan.

Salisbury, Nov. 2.—Ex-Sheriff D. B. Julian, one of Rowan county's most prominent citizens, is at the point of death, having been stricken suddenly several days ago, from which he has not recovered. He was for twelve years an efficient sheriff in Rowan and during his term of office was one of the most prominent officers in the State. Little hope is entertained for his recovery.

Ambassador Bryce to Visit Greensboro.

Information was received today from Col. Benham Cameron, president of the National Farmers' Congress, which assembles in Raleigh on Thursday of this week and comes to Greensboro on Friday, that the Hon. Jas. Bryce, British Ambassador to this country, will come to Greensboro with the delegates and spend the afternoon here, making a short talk at the Auditorium or some other suitable place. He will be brought to Greensboro by Mr. A. H. Westfall, general superintendent of the Southern Railway, in his private car.

Mr. Bryce is one of the prominent men of the world and is a thorough student of American conditions, being the author of the "American Commonwealth," the most notable book ever written dealing with American government and institutions.

Pella Meant to High Point Enterprise.

Mr. Pella, of The New York Herald, in his speech at Lexington Saturday, said a line trips to North Carolina and its hospitality. It was not done as a matter of form, but anyone who heard Mr. Pella's speech could tell that he meant every word of it.

THE NEW LOCKE COTTON MILLS.

This is how the Locke Cotton Mills will look when completed. Certainly there will be none more attractively to look upon and few more splendidly equipped. The accompanying cut shows how the present mill will look complete and the work of building is to this end. The restoration of Mill No. 4, burned last year, is completed and machinery is being placed. Mill No. 1 and "Paradise" will have to give away in this plan, but these will now stand until spring. In the mean time the east end of the restored No. 4 will be temporarily closed and the machinery set going. The resumption of work a few months later will be to build in the gap and carry out the plans for a complete plant as shown here. In this cut the Buffalo Mills are included which shows the complete Locke Mills grouped and to most splendid effect. This plant will be one of the most valuable of the State's possessions in Cotton manufacturing and one which will add very much to Concord.

STATESVILLE TO HAVE DEPOT. FEMININE FLORAL FAVORITES.

Wins in Its Fight for a New Passenger Depot—The Order of the Corporation Commission.

Statesville, Nov. 2.—Statesville has won in her fight for a new passenger station, as was expected. As a result of the hearing of the testimony in the matter by the Corporation Commission, which visited Statesville October 5, at which time the Southern did not dispute the facts, the commission has ordered the Southern to build a new station here. The formal order of the commission says:

"After careful consideration of the evidence and the conditions as they appear, the commission is of the opinion that the accommodations asked for in the petition should be granted; that the public necessity demands it, and the revenues received by the defendant company at Statesville justify it.

"Therefore, it is hereby ordered by the commission that the Southern Railway erect a passenger depot at Statesville, North Carolina, with accommodations commensurate with the business and revenue at that place.

"It is further ordered that the plans and specifications be submitted to the commission for its inspection within sixty days from this date. Provided, however, that before approval of the plans so ordered, it shall appear to the commission that the city of Statesville has extended its sewer line so that the toilets which the defendant company will be expected to provide in said station can be connected therewith."

WHISKEY WAGONS.

Hauling the Stuff Into This State Over the County Roads.

Greensboro Record.
It has been evident for some time that a regular organized system of bringing whiskey into Greensboro exists and the question is how to put an effective stop to it. Policemen, deputies from the sheriff's office and constables have been on to the game for some time. They have traced the matter far enough to know who is sending the liquor here and where it comes from, a point just across the Virginia line, but catching these wagons is another matter.

The fact first leaked out through shadowing some of the negroes here and it is certain that these wagons have dates in Greensboro and that those who buy know when they are coming. That wagon captured yesterday morning was expected and some of those who had bought liquor were on the lookout, but when they got around the seizure had been made.

The men in charge are of course smart; they seldom come on days when a big crowd is around, like circus day, for instance, for it is dangerous. Too many people are apt to do too much talking and talking leads one into trouble. These wagons never come into town during the day and seldom reach here before two and three o'clock in the morning, but they do travel the country roads in the day time, but they are very careful. As stated yesterday, the country north and northwest of Greensboro is being deluged with liquor. Some of those who buy it say they send orders away for it, along with the money, and instead of being sent by express it is delivered by wagon. This is a ruse and is in violation of the law. Those who buy, however, are careful not to tell from who the alleged purchase is made, but the net is getting out of the bag and now that the officers have a fairly good insight into the matter it is thought they can break it up or at least stop much of it.

Mrs. Taft Has Made Goldenrod Popular—Mrs. Knox Loves Violets.

New York Press.

Ever since Disraeli made the Primrose League illustrious in social political annals, ambitious women have endeavored to have some flower identified with their names. Mrs. Taft has produced a big vogue for the goldenrod. She had it embroidered on her robe for the inaugural ball, and she keeps great bowls of it all ways in evidence on the veranda of her summer home in Manchester, Mass., and in the White House. When she returns to the historic mansion in Washington she will find massive bowls of the most perfect specimens of the goldenrod which floriculturists can produce, and will see the national flower banked in snow profusion in the back-ground of Mrs. Roosevelt's Dutch garden. Mrs. Cummins, wife of the Senator from Iowa, had established the deep red carnation before the late President McKinley's preference became known. Whenever Mrs. Cummins gives an entertainment her house is filled with the fragrant scarlet flowers, and she invariably wears one in her hair and another caught in the accessories of her corsage.

Mrs. Philander C. Knox, wife of the Secretary of State, is deeply in love with violets. No one ever enters the Knox home in Washington without being greeted with their delicious odor. Exquisite cut glass bowls of white and purple double Parma violets always sit on the table in the library hall, and in the drawing room and library. Mrs. Knox takes delight in her violet bed, and each year she plants new seeds obtained with the greatest care from plants which she brought from the Riviera some ten or twelve years ago. All her close friends get a box of her violets several times a season and they look forward to the treat with keen expectation. Mrs. Knox has a whole corner of the great greenhouse in the Valley Forge farm set apart for violet culture. She reads tones on the subject and has a pretty collection of books on "violet facts and fancies," and all the legends connected with the modest little flower.

Hook Worm Recognized.

Mourou Journal.
Old man Rockefeller has given a million dollars to organize and thoroughly fight the hook worm disease. That settles the status of this newly discovered parasite as a real thing, for the old man never puts his hand to a thing without knowing exactly what he is doing, and with all the millions he has given away, every arrangement was made before hand that every dollar should be as carefully and effectively used as if it were a cold blooded business proposition. Old man John's official recognition of the hook worm gives that gentleman a standing among the practically minded folks that it has never before enjoyed. It is interesting to note that among the men selected on the board there are four native North Carolinians, Walter H. Page, J. Y. Joyner, E. A. Alderman, and Dr. Frank Houston, the latter a native of Monroe.

Mr. Fisher to Travel.

Mr. Julius Fisher who has been with the Parks & Company stores for a number of years, will leave about the 15th of this month to travel. Mr. Fisher will represent a New York house, selling novelty goods.

There isn't always such a lot of difference between making a fool of a man and merely spoiling him.

WHERE WILL COTTON STOP CLIMBING?

Up and Still Climbing Seems to Be the Determination of the Boosters of Cotton—Prices Expected to Be Yet Higher—Mills Curtailing in Their Production.

Where will cotton stop? It is an interesting and pressing query, in which depends a great deal. The market continues strong, prices seem destined to go yet higher and the consumers of the raw cotton are facing conditions which are anything but pleasing. One man said this morning that cotton would be 16 cents by Saturday. Another said the end is nowhere in sight, "these fellows can put cotton to any price they want so long as the mills buy and grind it up." The mills are curtailing. Their policy, a forced one, is to use as little cotton as possible. As long as the mills buy and make into cloth so long is there a market for the staple, no matter where the price goes. So that all the mills are cutting off everywhere possible. Manufacturing plants are running, but taking advantage of every opportunity to curtail. Many of them are shutting off one or two days in the week, while others, running six days, still find many ways of cutting off their productions. The more cotton mills buy the more goods they make and perhaps hold on high price cotton, and would bear the loss if there is a decrease in the price. How much curtailment there will be depends on present prices, for the mills cannot consume raw cotton at present prices and with the manufactured goods at prices offered. The mills say they must curtail. The farmer is getting the advantage of the present prices. He is selling at high market, but the remainder of the folks are suffering, and it will if the mills curtail to any extent worth while.

The market went to 15 cents this afternoon, that price making a rise of 15 points.

WATKINS JURY LOOKED OUT.

Judge Adams Doesn't Even Trouble to Call the Twelve Men Into Court But Goes on With Other Cases.

Asheville, Nov. 2.—There was nothing doing today in the Watkins jury, the jury that has been wrestling with a verdict in the case of E. C. Watkins charged with murder in the second degree for the killing of John Hill Bunting.

When court convened this morning no few persons in the court room looked for Judge Adams to again call the jury in and inquire as to whether or not it had arrived at a verdict. This Judge Adams failed to do. The court, in fact, never once referred to the jury. He simply started in with a resumption of the trial of the Brigman murder case. The jury tonight stands as it did Saturday night—six for conviction and six for acquittal.

Sale of Salisbury's Water Works Bonds.

Salisbury Post.
The water works bond amounting to $20,000 were sold at noon today at a special meeting of the city aldermen held in the city hall. They are 5 per cent bearing bonds and are secured by a mortgage on the water works plant. The bonds were bought by E. H. Rollins & Sons, of Boston, Mass. The purpose of the sale is to make improvements, extension, etc. The bonds brought a premium of $356.20, bringing $1,047.81 per bond of $1,000. The contract of the sale is par, accrued interest and premium which amounts to figures given.
