UNION'S COUNTY PHYSICIAN.

Down in Union county they have small pox; they also have a county physician who is driving ahead in effort to stamp it out. His name is Stewart and he is a doctor who not only doctors but he seems determined to prevent and kill disease. In the last issue of the Journal Dr. Stewart has this card:

"Small pox at Geo. Lockart's, Monroe township. Alleged to have been exposed: Curtis Allen, Walter Rivers and wife, Geo. Winfield, Doc Evans and wife, Harriet Crowder, Lisie Jones, Buck Haley, Tom Perry and wife, Sol Richardson and wife, Polly Cuthbertson, Will Cothran, George Autrey and wife, Edmund Gaddy, Chas. Alsobrooks, Lucy Crawford Steele, Manda Crawford, Mag Bennett. The law requires all these to go to a doctor to be vaccinated within five days after exposure. Several have come up and been vaccinated. The others will come as fast as the sheriff can find them.

"Small pox at Cy Moore's and on John Duncan's place, in Goose Creek township. Cy Moore went in to see some cases of 'bumps' and now Cy has the small pox. Cy neglected to comply with the law requiring him to be vaccinated within five days after exposure. As a consequence, he has endangered the public health and put the county to the expense of looking after his case."

You may get a man out of Cabarrus, but it is hard to get Cabarrus out of the man. This truth is impressed on us by reason of the fact that a Cabarrus "boy" now living elsewhere, said to us a few days ago, "Line up with us and let's beat Manning." Now ain't that Cabarrus for you—beat some one; could have told a mile off that this good friend was reared in Cabarrus, where the spirit of beating some one is bred in the bone and runs in the blood. But, why beat Manning—Justice Manning of the Supreme court bench? The man chosen to run against Mr. Kitchin's appointee is one of the very ablest men in the State-wise, learned and clean, he would be an ornament to the exalted position, but if there is no other reason than to "beat Manning"—why? Is not the verdict of those who know him best to effect that Justice Manning is able, in every way worthy. Speak softly. It's the same old row. And, if allowed to run its course it may mean an entirely different colored horse. Remember the advance of Marion Butler on the Senate. We never were very strong on the Cabarrus brand of politics and get further from it every day we live; electing men only to beat the other fellow is sure death to political bees. We have for one decided that when there is nothing else at stake but beat somebody to visit the fishing pool on election day.

It is an off day that Editor Poe, of The Progressive Farmer, does not make a forward move in his splendid work. His paper is today one of the best farm papers ever printed and grows better with time, for into it a man of rich talent and large energy is putting all. And the result is that today Clarence Poe is one of the State's most valuable workers, and every farmer who is interested in the upbuilding of the South and dear old North Carolina should link up with Poe and have a hand in his good work. We would like to see every one in Cabarrus really interested in the agricultural world reading The Progressive Farmer. Whether one lives on the farm or on a city street makes no difference. The paper Poe publishes

What sort of notoriety does a man desire in this day to refer to General Robert E. Lee as a traitor? Of course no one will take him seriously, and only a handful of narrowminded will pause long enough to read his words with serious consideration. Heyburn is a ass—net.

Reclaiming Piedmont Swamps.
Charlotte Observer.
Some weeks ago The Observer took pleasure in noting a progressive movement among the citizens of certain sections of Lincoln and Catawba counties in the matter of creek dredging for the purpose of reclaiming valuable lowlands. Our readers remember that we gave an account of a dredge boat which had been built and put to work, and stated that much good was expected from the results. We are glad to note that so far the expectations of the promoters have been realized and that the good work is still going on with prospects of even larger results. The men behind this work are pioneers in reclamation of heretofore uncultivated swamp lands in the hill section of the State. They have demonstrated what can be done in reclaiming such lands as is shown by the following, which we find in The Newton Enterprise, on the progress made by use of their dredge-boat along the one creek where they have tried thus far: "The dredge-boat reached the Bost Bridge, two miles west of Newton last Saturday. By the first of March it expects to reach the Battle bridge in the outskirts of Newton. This will be making over a mile a month. They will have plenty of spectators when they get down to Battle bridge. The work is now going on night and day. A great deal of the low land up the stream will be put in corn this year."

If this can be done by private enterprise in Lincoln and Catawba counties, it can be done in every other part of the State, and when it is undertaken the results to follow will, we believe, far exceed expectations.

High Point Bank Adds $35,000 to Its Capital Stock.
High Point, Jan. 19.—The stockholders of the North Carolina Savings Bank & Trust Co. held their annual meeting today. The president and treasurer's report were read and all other routine business was gone through with. The institution has had a very prosperous year and shows quite an increase over the year before. It was decided to increase the capital stock of the bank to $135,000, the present being $100,000. The entire board of directors of the past year were elected with the exception of A. E. Alexander, who was elected in the place of a retiring member. The old officers were re-elected.

Gibson Drug Store
The enterprising druggists rather than await the ordinary methods of introduction, urged the Dr. Howard Co. to secure a quick sale for their celebrated specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia by offering the regular 50 cent bottle at half-price.

The wonderful success of this plan was a great surprise even to them and today there are scores of people here in Concord who are using and praising this remarkable remedy.

So much talk has been caused by this offer, and so many new friends have been made for the specific that the Dr. Howard Co. have authorized the druggists to continue this special half-price sale for a limited time longer.

In addition to selling a 50 cent bottle of Dr. Howard's specific for 25 cents they have so much faith in the remedy that they will refund the money to anyone whom it does not cure.

When your head aches, your stomach does not digest food easily and naturally, when there is constipation, specks before the eyes, tired feeling, giddiness, bad taste in the mouth, coated tongue, heart burn, sour stomach, roaring or ringing in the ears, melancholy and liver troubles Dr. Howard's specific will cure. If it does not, it will not cost you a cent.

A Comeback.
Cleveland Leader.
"Why do so many otherwise clever women write silly letters to men?"
"They're probably making collections of the answers they get."

HAIR TELLS CHARACTER.
Color of Hair Said to Indicate a Person's Temperament.

Many people believe that blonde or light hair denotes affection and dark hair constancy. A person without hair is not devoid of character, far from it. The disposition of the average hair-headed man is to show such emotions for the welfare of others, that he neglects himself. A good cause boldness, Prof. Subourant, of Paris, France, investigated a noble wife. Her husband was causing it to become nearly bald in five weeks' time. To get the scalp of these dangerous worms it is necessary to apply hair-removing.

This Will Interest Mothers.
Mother Gray's Sweet Powders for Children, a certain relief for feverishness, headache, bad stomach, teething disorders, more and regulate the bowels and destroy worms. They break up colds in 24 hours. They are so pleasant to the taste and harmless to milk. Children like them. Over 10,000 testimonials of cure. They were first sold by all druggists.

Boys Live the Simple Life.

New York World.
Four Alton, Ill., youths, sons of well-to-do parents owning steam heated homes, have reverted to the simple life of tent dwellers and are thriving on it, despite zero weather and the necessity of cracking ice from the basin before they can wash. They have slept in tents for 16 months, missing only two nights.

The "aborigines," as their high school chums have nicknamed them, are Harold Cradle, 17 years old; Winfrey Gregory, 18; George Herne, 22; and William Herne, 17. The tent, which is 18 feet by 14 feet open at both ends, is pitched in the backyard of the home of Capt. W. G. Hill, grandfather of Curdie and Gregory. All but George Herne are high school students.

So accustomed have they become to the purity of the open air, they say, that even the best ventilated home seems to them stuffy and hot, and they believe they would stifle in the ordinary bed room. Their health makes them wholesomely sleepy and they retire at 9 p. m. At not later than 6 a. m., and often earlier, they leap from their cots, dress with rapidity compelled by the cold, splash their hands and faces in the icy water and rush home to breakfast in a glow of youthful wellbeing.

One night they were driven into the house by high wind, which blew away the tent. On another night the wind drove snow into the tent such quantity that it was converted into an igloo and they beat a retreat. These were the only two occasions that they did not sleep in their tent.

At night when they are ready to retire hastily disrobe in the cold air and don flannel pajamas. Over their heads and ears they draw warm night-caps. The cots are well covered with blankets, and Jack, a black dog, takes turns sleeping with them in the capacity of mascot and warming pan.

Before undressing they sprint about the yard and take calisthenic exercises to generate enough heat to keep them warm until they are tucked under covers.

At The Theaterium—'Poor Jane is Unwilling to Work.'

Poor Jane is happy at home, doing just as she pleases and following her own sweet will, when a letter comes to her father announcing that there is an opening for her as domestic in a family nearby. The father, only too glad that the family's meagre income can now be augmented, hurries his daughter off to get her hat, while he gets ready himself to accompany her to her new employer's. The girl starts out with very bad grace, but on arriving at the home of her new mistress, the father speaks in his daughter's behalf, with the result that the lady of the house tells Jane to take off her hat and start in. After giving the new maid instructions, the mistress goes out to do the marketing, leaving the girl alone in the house; the latter, angry to find that she now has to work whether she wills it or not, catches sight of the ladies' pet parrot, which she immediately begins to tease and torment until the infuriated bird takes a nip out of her finger. The girl, only too glad of an excuse to find fault with her place, goes screaming to her mistress, who just then returns from her errand. The woman, seeing her poor bird stretched on the floor almost senseless from the girl's harsh treatment, chases the new maid out of the place, calling to her never to come back. As she rushes down the street she meets her father, but he has no sympathy for the wounded finger, but hurries her off to a milliner and tries to get her a job there, which he succeeds in doing, but here, too, misfortune awaits her, for hardly has she made a dozen stitches in a "Paris creation" before she pricks her finger and arouses the whole establishment with her cries of pain. The milliner, disgusted, takes the work out of her hands and tells her to get her hat and leave. Her next position is in a cafe, to which place she is literally dragged by her worn-out parent. Here she loads down the first beggar that comes in with all sorts of expensive dainties and after breaking several dollars' worth of crockery the proprietor hustles her off the premises. The father not to be daunted by all these mishaps, puts her to work in a laundry and the "rough house" she causes there cannot be expressed in mere words, one must see the picture showing the head laundress (who is rather inclined to embonpoint) being pitched headlong into a tub of suds, to appreciate the situation.

Electric Road for Whiteville.

Whiteville News-Reporter.
We have great news for our readers today. Last Tuesday at its regular monthly meeting, the town council of Whiteville granted I. J. Carrington, of Pennsylvania, J. R. Hufford, a practical electrician of this State, a right of way through our streets for the purpose of constructing an electric street railway and also operating an electric lighting plant. The name of the new corporation is the Whiteville Light & Power Company. It is conditioned that work is to begin by April 1st, 1910, and the road must be completed by January 1, 1911, but it is the intention of the company to rush it to an early completion. A lot has been purchased near the line of railway at Vineland for the power house. Mr. Carrington is a millionaire of Pennsylvania, and is greatly enthused over the future of our town and county.

Night Rider Confesses Attempts to End His Life.
Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 18.—Frank Fehringer, self-confessed night rider and star witness for the State in the first trial at Union City of alleged murderers of Capt. Quentin Rankin, attempted suicide in the jail at Dresden, Tenn., this afternoon by taking poison. He is dangerously ill tonight. He left a note saying that family and friends had deserted him. Fehringer was under arrest charged with drunkenness and shooting up the town, but would have been released soon, as the grand jury had failed to indict him.

Invisible Dogs.
Country Life.
The coat of a red setter normally stands out fairly clear against heather of the ordinary hue. When, however, it gets soaked with rain it darkens very much and blends very closely with the heather. The Gordon setters are perhaps the worst in this regard of assimilating with the color of heather and so being liable to get a charge of shot.

His Practical Mind.
Exchange.
Sculptor (to his friend)—Well, what do you think of my bust? Fine piece of marble, isn't it?
Friend—Magnificent! What a pity to make a bust of it! It would have made a lovely washstand.
