Fire Dept. Favors Extended Area Phone Service

The local Fire Department is a non-profit organization operated solely on donations and money received from various fund drives sponsored by the members and their wives. The department is run by volunteers who receive no money for their time or service. These services are offered free to all citizens in the district. Our entire community receives a benefit from their protection.

One of the large expenses in the operation of our department is the cost of a direct telephone line into Mocksville where all fire departments in the county are centrally dispatched. Central dispatching of needed equipment is more efficient for the whole county and is required by rule of the State Insurance Commission. The compliance with this rule by our local department has caused a decrease in fire insurance rates for those people within a four miles radius of a fire station. To give this service to citizens costs the Departments approximately $40.00 per month or $480 per year.

If "extended area phone service" to Mocksville is approved it will mean a substantial saving to the Fire Department. A Saving to the Fire Department is a saving to the entire community. Please remember these facts when you have an opportunity to cast your vote on "extended area phone service" for Cooleemee and Mocksville, Richard Beck, President Local Fire Department.

3 Hour FIA Race Added

The biggest addition to the 1962 Daytona Beach racing schedule will be the first annual three-hour FIA Grand Touring and sports car race scheduled for Sunday, Feb. 11, with world championship points to be awarded the car manufacturers.

The three-hour classic, which is expected to attract many of the top International world championship drivers, is scheduled for 2 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 11, with the finish time set for 5 o'clock. The race will be staged over the 3.81 mile sports car course that includes practically all of the two and a half mile high banked track plus the twisting infield roads. The event, however, will be run counter clockwise or different from the usual sports car races.

Stirling Moss of London, rated as one of the world's greatest drivers, recently inspected the course and at least temporarily entered the big speed classic that is expected to attract all of the top grand touring cars plus all the bigger sports cars. The starting field will be limited to 60 cars with 40 positions reserved for the grand touring classes.

Cash prizes of approximately $15,000 are being posted by Speedway President Bill France for this event with the overall winner assured of $4,000. The first overall winner gets a cash bonus of $2,000 plus a $1,000 for being first in either the grand touring or sports car category and an additional $500 for being first in class.

Slated along with this big Federation Internationale de Automobile classic for the same week-end will be a special program for Formula Junior cars and drivers with two 10-lap heats over the 1.63 mile course to determine the starting positions for a 40-lap feature. These events are scheduled for Sunday, February 10, along with the 25-mile American Challenge Cup race for the Grand National 1961 winners. The winner of the Formula Junior feature will also be awarded the Count Lurani trophy along with first place cash award.

Much interest has been shown in the FIA three-hour Daytona race with inquiries being received from throughout the world. Additional information for drivers may be obtained from Houston Lawing, race secretary, Daytona International Speedway, Daytona Beach, Fla.

The three-hour event will be a LeMans start with the green flag being dropped from a count down starting at 1:55 p.m. Cars eligible will include Grand Touring cars, Classes 7-15 (over 1,000cc) as defined in appendix J of the International sporting code and sports cars of classes 7-12 (over 1,000cc) as outlined in appendix C of the International sporting code.

The race will be similar in entries and status to the 12-hour Sebring endurance race scheduled for March with world championship points being awarded to manufacturers.

Drivers will be limited to 2 for each car, but drivers may be switched from one car to another within teams.
