hear that the President is considering asking Congress to raise income taxes, Controls on installment credit are also under very serious discussion. Not too far down the road could well be Federal controls on wages and prices.

The emergency measures may be required in the future. However, they should not be considered unless we are sure that we have taken whatever steps are required to avoid them. Certainly, one of those steps is to assess our domestic spending and determine how much farther we want to get into new and costly welfare programs. A debate on this question occupied the attention of the House last week as the second supplemental bill for the present fiscal year was brought up. Briefly, this was legislation to provide more money for government programs between now and next June 30th when the present fiscal year ends. Bills of this kind are necessary because spending estimates have been too low. In this case, we were talking about $2.5 billion more than had been planned.

Much of the money in the bill would be used for nine new programs that the Congress authorized last year. The

A TIME FOR BEAUTY

When winter months have passed away
And lovely spring appears,
And breezes whisper soft and gay
That bring a lot of cheers,
It's time for beauty to adorn
The woodland and the sod,
Along with glories of the morn...
The handiwork of God.

It's time to watch the roses bud
And spread their petals fair,
While skies send down a sunny flood
Of mellow light and air;
And maybe are the day is o'er
The clouds above may stand,
And from the bounty of their store
Send rain upon the land.

It's time for beauty — spring is here
And grass is growing green;
A blessed season of the year
That brings a wondrous scene,
With flowers blooming in the lawn
And blossoms on the trees,
When songs of birds at early dawn
Are wafted on the breeze.

It's garden time — it's time to plow
And cultivate the soil;
It's time when farmers have to bow
To honest, earnest toil;
For if our tables furnish meals
To keep us all alive,
It comes from gardens and the fields
Where crops must grow and thrive.

It's time for love to fill our souls
And make us sweet and kind;
It's time to seek what heaven holds
That blesses heart and mind;
It's time for beauty we must show
In character and face,
And let the world about us know
God fills us with His grace.

need for some of the programs is questionable and in some cases, justification is highly controversial. It is in this legislation that we faced again the financing of the Federal rent subsidy plan and the National Teachers Corps. Many of us have felt that the plan to offer Federal rent subsidies is unsound and, in the long run, dangerous. The plan has very few standards and it is clear that the authors of the plan see nothing wrong in helping families pay their rent even though the family income may be as much as $9,000 or $10,000 per year. Frankly, I think that this proposal is fuzzy-minded. However, pouring millions of dollars into it when the fires of inflation are burning so brightly and rising war costs are with us makes it a primary example of a program which certainly should not be given funds.

The same serious questions arise, in my mind, about the Teachers Corps.

These programs and so many others that are now crowding the Treasury for money lead us to a sobering conclusion. That is the requirement to establish some kind of priorities so that needed and desirable programs will be properly financed and others will be put on the shelf. It is certainly the responsibility of the White House, the Congress, and the American people to discipline themselves to meet this problem. We are in for a serious collision with the reality if we go on behaving as though we can conduct our affairs on a "business as usual" basis.

One of the big question marks on the horizon is whether so many of those welfare programs intended to help poor people will not contribute just the opposite consequence.

Increases in the cost of living—inflation—are probably the most cruel of all forms of taxation. Inflation certainly hits hardest the country's poor and middle-income families. This is particularly true in times like these when the increases in living costs are occurring so strongly in the price of food and everyday necessities.

If we really want to protect the best interests of the poor people of this country, we are going to have to start by assuring that we have a sound and stable economy and we cannot do this if we insist upon fueling the fires of inflation with more unnecessary Federal spending.

Parents can often prevent accidents in the home and save their children by thinking ahead and removing attractive, dangerous gadgets.

Has Openings For Nurses

Nurses - want to have the opportunity to fly almost anywhere in the free world? If you can qualify, you might find yourself spending two days in Germany, Japan, Rio, Puerto Rico, or Hawaii. This is some of the opportunities a Flight Nurse has with the North Carolina Air National Guard at Charlotte, besides being paid to make the trips.

The 145 Military Airlift Group has increased its mission of flying military patients to hospitals throughout the Military Airlift System thus making it necessary for the adult to take in and train Flight Nurses. The unit needs 4 additional nurses immediately. To qualify, a nurse has to be a graduate of a 3 year nursing school, be at least 20 years of age and not over 35, have no dependents under 18 years of age, be a citizen of the U.S., and meet the physical qualifications.

If a nurse meets these qualifications, she will become a commissioned officer and will attend a 3 weeks officer orientation course at Gunter AFB, Alabama, then 6 weeks of Flight Nurse School at San Antonio, Texas.

If present rates continue, more school children will die from Cancer than from any other disease in 1966. The American Cancer Society says that many of these deaths can be prevented through earlier diagnosis and prompt treatment. To help save more lives of children — and also adults — contribute to the Society's 1966 Crusade against Cancer.
