DAVIE BOYS GRADUATED FROM CAMPBELL COLLEGE

LIBRARY NEWS

The first Print and Drawing Traveling Show of the Associated Artists of North Carolina is now on exhibit at the Davie County Public Library, and will be shown until June 20.

This show was selected from the first Print and Drawing Show of the Association which was held at Eastern Carolina College in March of 1965. Since then it has been traveling throughout N. C., primarily to colleges, libraries and art centers. The choice of material for the traveling show was made from a larger exhibition by Mr. Lettario Galipai of New York City. Mr. Galipai is a famous printmaker and teacher at New York University and Brandeis University, and has his own studio, in addition.

Artists represented in this collection either are or have been residents of North Carolina. Many of them are teachers in college art departments. There is represented here the work of one talented student at A. and T. College, Marvin Outerbridge, whose piece is entitled "Banjo Solo."

This show is selected not only because of artistic merit of individual pieces but also to include a great variety of the printmaking and drawing techniques such as the difficult silverpoint and other. Viewers will want to note the work of Sue Moore in "Composition," number 6 in the exhibit, and Marilyn Gordley's "The City," number 5 in the exhibit.

Styles range from the most representational to Pop Art. Many items are not prints, but drawings and collages.

One of the prize winners is an ink drawing with collage by Walter Thrift, and is entitled "Plateau Canyon, No. 2". This drawing will leave here to become the property of the North Carolina Museum of Art as the gift of the North Carolina Print and Drawing Society.

Except for prize winners, the works on exhibit are for sale.

Mrs. Peter Hairston, of Davie County, is now serving as president of the Associated Artist of North Carolina.

James C. Ridenhour, who for many years, was called "Doc" by his friends died last week and his funeral was held Sunday. Mr. Ridenhour will be missed in and around Cooleemee where he has spent the biggest part of his life working and raising a large family.

He not only worked in the mill, but always had other jobs while he was off at his regular work, either farming, carpenter work, and about anything that needed to be done. "Doc" was an excellent gardener and raised a lot of corn and vegetables.

Not only was he a hard worker for his own benefit, he was constantly doing things for other people. He rarely ever turned down anyone who needed help even after his health began to fail. He would still help his friends and neighbors, even though he did not feel good, he would not turn anyone down that needed his help, that is why we think of him as a fine unselfish person.

"Doc" liked to come to the Shopping Center, when he was able, and talk about his garden and have a little fun with his friends around the local hardware store.

Everybody knew and liked "Doc". He will be missed around this community for a long, long time because of his unselfishness and a willing heart to help other people.

DAVIE SCHOOLS SET UP FOR SUMMER SCHOOL PROGRAMS

Mocksville Tax Rate Is Increased

MOCKSVILLE -- Town residents will be paying more taxes next year due to a previously approved bond issue for more services.

The Mocksville Board of Town Commissioners adopted a 1966 tax rate of $1.12 per $100 valuation. This is an increase of .12 cents per $100 valuation.

The increase, it was explained, was necessary to pay off the previously approved half-million-dollar water bond issue.

Increase of the tax rate was the first in four years, being held previously at the $1 mark.

Cooleemee Civic Club

Mrs. Charles Isley was hostess to the Cooleemee Civic Club at her home on Grove-Street Tuesday evening, June 7.

Mrs. Robert Stewart presided over the business session after which Mrs. John Barber, a former president, conducted an impressive installation service using the theme, "A Garden for Tomorrow." Officers installed for the '66-'67 year were: Mrs. Fred Pierce, President; Mrs. John Jerome, Vice President; Mrs. J. A. Boyce, Treasurer; Mrs. Craig Snead, Recording Secretary; Mrs. J. C. Sell, Jr., Corresponding Secretary and Publicity.

Following the installation of officers Mrs. Robert Stewart, retiring president, was presented an arrangement of artificial fruit as a token of the club's appreciation for her year of service.

Worser Days, Better Times

An anthology of North Carolina Negro folklore compiled and written by J. Mason Brewer, Professor of Humanities at Livingstone College, Salisbury, North Carolina, was the source used for the evening program. After presenting an interesting resume Mrs. Isley introduced Mrs. George Miller and Mrs. W. N. Hasty, who continued the program with a dialogue based on anecdotes taken from the book.

Although primarily humorous, the anecdotes provide a unique insight into social and religious customs prevalent throughout North Carolina. An interesting observation by Dr. Brewer, himself a Negro, is that these customs vary from state to state. He traveled over 6000 miles visiting practically every town in North Carolina, and spent three years writing the book.

During the social hour club members drew numbers and then chose a bag, containing a hat of unknown origin, with the corresponding number. As each member modeled her new hat votes were taken as to who looked most stunning. Top honors went to Mrs. Grafton Cockrell. Mrs. Fred Pierce, fetching in a pink bonnet with plumes, gave a spontaneous rendition of "O You Beautiful Doll!" while gazing in a mirror, and Mrs. Frank Seders, flapper hat balanced precariously, danced a fast Charleston to slow music.

Beautiful arrangements of magnolias, roses and gerber daisies were used throughout the living room, dining room and den.

Candlelight and an imported linen cloth accented the dining room where dainty sandwiches, sausage rolls, cheese sticks, Queen Elizabeth cake, pound cake, watermelon pickle, mints and scuppernon punch were served.

Assisting Mrs. Isley for the last meeting of the year were Mrs. Buddy Alexander, Mrs. Robert Stewart, Mrs. Fred Pierce, and Mrs. Edgar Hoyle.

W. B. Brogdon of Washington, D. C. was in Charlotte on Wednesday to attend the wedding of his sister, Mrs. Nell Brogdon Pierce, and her two children, Ann and Larry Pierce returned home with him to spend two weeks.
