Library News

A short report to you, the patron, on a few of the library activities for June—see if you realized how much is being done to serve you and your families!

During June:

1. On Monday night, the 25, a charming film, "The Red Balloon," was shown to about 100 people.

2. A total of 9 films were shown in the library.

3. Over 100 children and teachers from the Head-start Program were welcomed to the library to see a film and get acquainted with the library.

4. Sixteen Home Demonstration Clubs of the County came to familiarize themselves with the library, held their meetings here and were shown through by staff members. Some of these had to come during the evening hours. They were also shown where to find special groups of books set aside for them, and included on their club reading list.

5. The attendance at story hour is greatly increased over previous summers, and is continuing to increase as the summer progresses.

6. June always brings in increased book circulation and this month 5,261 books have been borrowed from the Main Library alone.

These are in addition to routine work. Come to see us! Things are buzzing at your Davie County Library!

To Attend School

Richard Beck of the Central Carolina Bank and Trust Co., Coolee, will attend the Carolina School of Banking, Chapel Hill, North Carolina on July 10-15.

Named As Band Director At Fayetteville

Paul Reichle has resigned his position as band director and director of music at the Davie County High School to accept a similar position with the senior high school in Fayetteville.

Mr. Reichle has been in charge of the music department of the local high school ever since consolidation in '58. Under his direction both the band and glee club placed high in various state contests.

Mr. and Mrs. Reichle and family will move to Fayetteville in the near future.

News From The Governor

Governor Moore, Honorary State Chairman of the U. S. Savings Bonds Program, joined with President Johnson today in urging citizens to "Put a small part of your prosperity into U. S. Savings Bonds."

Governor Moore was quoting from the President's special Independence Day message, prepared for newspaper, radio and television release, which asks the American people to "invest a few dollars each month in the front lines of battle for a stronger America and a safer world."

"Even while we celebrate Independence Day," the President's message said, "there is no real holiday from responsibility. We must go on with the work of building peace, enlarging our prosperity, guarding against inflation and recession. If only half of the 76 million employed Americans bought just one $25 Savings Bond a month for only one year, they would meet most of the special cost of the struggle that we are making for peace in Viet Nam this year. Think about how much more meaningful your holiday enjoyment would be if you could honestly say, 'I have pledged to do my share as an American. I will buy U. S. Savings Bonds on a regular monthly basis.'"

MOVE TO TATUM FARM

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Tatum, Jr. and children, Kathy and Carl III, have moved to the Tatum Farm where they are building a new home. Temporarily they are living at the A. E. Tatum homeplace now owned by Miss Annie Pearle Tatum.

For the past seventeen years since graduating from the University of North Carolina at Raleigh, Mr. Tatum has been teaching vocational agriculture in the Ramsey High School. He is now employed in Davie County. Incidentally, his father, the late Carl Tatum, was the first vocational agriculture teacher to teach in Davie County.

We welcome the Tatums to our community.

"Lassie" Sequences Filmed In Western North Carolina

Pisgah National Forest, the Biltmore Estate, and two N. C. teenagers will be seen on the "Lassie" television series of CBS this fall. Lassie, her stand-in, and a location unit of 35 visited Western North Carolina in May to film sequences at Sliding Rock and Looking Glass Falls near Brainerd, and on the Biltmore

Estate at Asheville. The directors selected Toni Bergamo of Asheville and Dave Drake of Hendersonville to appear in the North Carolina sequences with the famed canine star and a supporting cast from Hollywood. As stand-in for Hilarie Thompson of Hollywood, Miss Bergamo plunged down Sliding Rock in the Davidson River.

New Theatre In 2nd Week

The Harlequin Stock Theatre is now enjoying its second successful week with its smash production of "The Fantasticks." Noted for its "zest and exuberance," this light-hearted musical comedy is being presented through July 10 at the James G. Hanes Community Center Theatre. This attractive theatre marks one of the main points of advancement made by James H. Walton in his venture to bring professional theatre to the Piedmont. Walton, Managing Director of the Harlequin and the Tanglewood Barn Theatre in Clemmons, North Carolina, for its entire duration, is proud to offer the comfort of an air-conditioned theatre to North Carolina audiences. The Community Center theatre is noted for the fact that every seat in the house is in excellent view of the stage: Another feather in the Harlequin's cap is the fact that the capacity crowd on the opening night, Wednesday, June 29th, was larger than any of the opening night during the seven years that Tanglewood was in existence. Although each of the performances of "The Fantasticks" draws a great number of interested and interesting patrons, it will probably always be possible to reserve good seats several hours before the 8:15 curtain.

The lobby of the theatre has been decorated in keeping with the Harlequin theme. A local Winston-Salem committee headed by Miss Frances Griffin has provided an extra flair to go with the already attractively decorated chairs and couches for lounging before the show or during intermission. Exquisite diamonds of color have been fitted side to side on the front wall and catch your eye as you leave your car to enter the front door. The rainbowed diamond shapes have been assembled so as to retain the smart color-scheme of the lobby's accommodating furniture.

Perhaps the most striking feature of the theatre's lobby is the Harlequin Booth. Covered with the black and white diamond design which clothes the harlequin himself, the booth sports a cafe curtains on either side and a black band across the center on top of which sits the Harlequin; symbol of professional theatre in this area.

The Harlequin's new quarters boast more than comfortable air-conditioning and perfect seating. There is another aspect of the Community Center which adds variety to an evening at the theatre. The Art Gallery, adjacent to the theatre, is the perfect place for the "coffee" which is held after every performance. This time affords the audience the opportunity to mingle and visit with each other and, as was experienced opening night, with the actors who are anxious to meet and chat with as many residents of this area as possible.

The Harlequin's summer schedule includes eight additional plays to be presented throughout the summer. The next exciting play offered by the professional stock company will be F. Hugh Herbert's "The Moon is Blue" which will open on July 13th and runs through Sunday night, July 17.

Places & Events

A mountain resort with a distinctive Scottish atmosphere is being developed near Linville by Julian Morton, Jr., and his mother, Mrs. Agnes MacRae Morton. It is named "Invershiel" for a town near the ancestral home of the MacRae clan in Scotland, and will include a village with 16th Century Scottish architecture.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Dedmon, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Dedmon and daughters, Mrs. and Mrs. A. T. Trexler, Jr., and niece are vacationing this week. They plan to attend several baseball games in Atlanta, Ga. and spent the remainder of the week at Carolina Beach.

JAMES T. BROYHILL

N. C. Angus Meeting At Lexington

Linwood Farms of Lexington, North Carolina, owned by L. M. Grimes, Jr., was the scene of an evening of interesting (Angus beef cattle demonstrations and discussions recently.

Area farmers in attendance at the event observed the Linwood Farm herd, and the Angus steers being fattened on pasture, and judged a group of young bulls. Following a picnic supper they watched "Be A Better Angus Judge," an educational beef cattle motion picture produced for agricultural groups by the American Angus Association, St. Joseph, Missouri.

The winner of each contest won a prize of $2.00. The winner of the Baby Contest was Steve Foster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Foster. His prize was $2.00. Second place winner of $2.00 was won by Kathy Lynn Steele, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Steele of Woodleaf. The pie-eating and Greasy Pole winners collected $5.00 each.

The Horse Shoe Contest was won by M. L. Lankford, the prize being a grill with rotisserie. The greasy pole was the prize for the one who caught it. Adding a musical atmosphere to the air was bands from the local area, also creating a lot of excitement was the appearance of Army jets overhead as the festivities began.

During the afternoon, following the showers of rain, the crowd assembled in the Coolee School auditorium to welcome Representative James Broyhill, who made a short talk on Independence. He also drew the lucky number for the Honda being given away by the Jaycees.

The winner was Mrs. Sue Cuthrell. Mrs. Broyhill and daughter, Marilyn accompanied him there. They were abated to be at East Bend in Yadkin County that night, after appearing in Faith, Oakham and Mt. Pleasant.

Mr. Blackwood wishes to state that the Coolee Jaycees are very grateful to all those that helped make this celebration such a success. Your cooperation is greatly appreciated.

Oratorio Climaxes Churches Music Conference At Ridgecrest

Ridgecrest - A 300 voice oratorio choir presented Mendelssohn's "St. Paul" to climax the 26th annual Southern Baptist church music leadership conference at Ridgecrest (N. C.) Baptist Assembly.

The oratorio was presented July 5, the final night of the conference which brought a record crowd of more than 3,000 delegates to the Ridgecrest music week. Conductor for the performance was John N. Sims, teacher in the school of church music, Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville.

An Easter cantata recently published by Broadman Press, Mary E. Caldwell's "O! Time and Eternity," was also presented during the week. A choir of 150 conference delegates was chosen by auditions to present this new work. E. Paul Green, division of fine arts, Houston Baptist College, Houston, directed the cantata which uses the four seasons of the year to treat total pictures highlighting the life, crucifixion, death and resurrection of Jesus Christ.

The conference pastor, Dr. Kenneth Phelan, urged the assembled musicians to use creativity in the presentation of the Christian message. He said that today's church is often guilty of doing things in established patterns while other methods might be more effective. Saying that Southern Baptists are to a large extent pastor-oriented, he said, "The hope of the church in the 20th century is in the informed and inspired laymen." Dr. Chaffin is Billy Graham associate professor of evangelism, Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville.

Throughout the music conference, classes were led by outstanding musicians from across the nation. Subjects ranged from the basics of singing to composition and philosophy of church music. Several visiting choirs and choral groups of conference delegates presented readings of recently published works.

The church music leadership conference was sponsored by the church music division of the Southern Baptist Convention. The conference was held at the Ridgecrest Baptist Assembly, Ridgecrest, N. C.
