Who Are These Young Coolee Boys?

In Our Book A Great Lady

In a recent issue we carried the story about the retirement of Mr. A. T. Lewis, who has been the Maintenance Supt. of the Coolee Division of the Burlington Industries for the past thirty years. We gave something of his record of achievements, and the contribution which he had made as an interested and active citizen of our community.

There is another item which we would like to add. He had the wisdom to select, and to have the good fortune of his choice accepted by Miss Maude Huff, of Spindale, North Carolina to share his successful career. And in sharing his career she contributed much to it, and made her own place in the life of the community. Domestically inclined, she devoted much time to her home, providing a base from which her husband could devote himself to his work, and to the rearing of their children. Handy with the needle, she made most of her own clothes, and topped her care of her daughters by making their wedding gowns. She was, as all good wives and mothers are, the influence which makes a house a home.

But she moved out into the community to share her life in many aspects of community service. She has been the president of the W. M. U. of the first Baptist Church, a former teacher, and the head of many worthwhile projects in Coolee. She has also found time to touch many individual persons, in an overflow of sympathetic and compassionate interest in their well-being. The many parties and presents given to her attest to the appreciation of her fine community service, and to the deep affectionate regard in which she was held by her many friends in Coolee.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis plan to retire in Rutherford county, where they have built a new home. The Journal joins with the many friends in Coolee, in expressing appreciation of what they have meant to this community; and to assure them of our continued affectionate regard, and our wish for every happiness in the many years which lie ahead.

S/Sgt. Swisher In Sac Bomb Competition

SPOKANE, Wash. — Staff Sergeant Robert L. Swisher, son of Mrs. Louise Swisher, of Route 5, Mocksville N. C., is providing vital maintenance support for the Strategic Air Command's (SAC) 15th Combat Competition which tests electronically the same deadly skills SAC combat crews are using to fight Communist aggression in Southeast Asia.

The week - long trials, which began October 2 at Fairchild AFB, Wash., feature the 37 top B-52 Strato Fortress and B - 58 Hustler bomber crews of the command.

Sgt. Swisher is a bombing-navigation systems technician selected to represent the 410th Bomb Wing at K. I. Sawyer AFB, Mich.

The coveted honor of being chosen to support their unit's entry in the "world series of bombing" is awarded to maintenance personnel on the basis of technical skill, proficiency and consistent outstanding performance. Maintenance crews work around the clock if need be to insure that all systems in their aircraft are in peak condition to meet the grueling challenges of the two night-time, 2,500-mile round robin missions required in the competition.

The accuracy of the simulated bomb releases are computed electronically by the mobile sites from their record of release signal and the score is combined with navigation points earned from a possible total of 750 per competition. An umpire flies with each B-52 crew to check compliance with competition rules and procedures. The crew amassing the highest number of points in combined bombing and navigation for both missions will be the winner of the Fairchild Trophy.

Sergeant Swisher attended Mocksville High School. His wife, Wilma, is the daughter of Mrs. Sadie M. Gladden of Springer, Oklahoma.

Hasty COMMENTS

By Mary Alice Hasty

And now the shadows grow longer and the memories stir. We loosened the last lingering thread of Summer gently and reluctantly. Freedom and abandon, scanty clothes and cool drinks sipped in the shade gave way to hard-soled shoes, restraining garments, and the discipline of meeting a school schedule, and yet the loosened thread lingered.

It lingered as long as the evenings were still light after supper and the children had to be coaxed inside to bath and bed. But the shadows grew longer and the fading sun's rays could no longer halt the increasing nip in the air, so Summer slipped away. And with it, reluctance.

For many people Fall is a sad season — a kind of dying after the advent of Spring and the ripeness of Summer, chilled, but lacking the invigorating cold of Winter with its future promise. A sad season for many, but not for me.

Fall is the happy memory of school with the classroom smells of freshly sharpened pencils, new books, apples, ham biscuits, roasted peanuts and all the goodies packed in the children's lunch "pokes."

Fall is the memory of sitting on the front steps of any one of the houses in the neighborhood on Main Street and playing One Potato, Two Potato, until time to go in for supper—supper-time and the radio in the kitchen giving out with Amos 'N Andy, Lum and Abner, Easy Aces, Bob Hope, Red Skelton, Bing Crosby and the Kraft Music Hall, Fred Allen, Jack Benny, Fibber McGee and Molly, Fred Waring, The Nose and The Haircut (Jimmy Durante and Garry Moore), spintlingers like Inner Sanctum and The Shadow, and on Saturday nights the Lucky Strike Hit Parade and the Grande Ole Opry.

Pre-television, obviously. Along with a few other things like pre-furnace, pre-hot water heater, pre-den, and pre-underpinning. The kitchen was the place where all needs were met. It was warm; either a laundry heater or cook stove kept bath water hot; the table was for homework, and the ever-present radio provided entertainment one could study or bathe by. The kitchen was the place.

"Just a song at twilight, when the lights are low, And the flickering shadows softly come and go . . ."

No matter what the season or where I am, everytime I hear that song I'm transported back for a brief flickering moment. The season itself is sufficient to evoke this bit of nostalgia, but music can turn on the emotions anytime, anywhere.

The setting has changed now. Central heating, television, and deus have arrived, along with some new little faces, and hardly anyone bathes in the kitchen anymore. But the rest of the ritual remains the same as they hurry inside each night for supper, homework, and entertainment.

One thing bothers me. When they become adults what sort of nostalgia will they feel when they hear the strains of "Tulman?"

Davie Ties Monroe, 6-6

MONROE - Davie County High and Monroe High battled to a 6-6 tie in the North Piedmont Conference here last Friday night.

However, in a playoff Monroe grabbed a 13 - 6 verdict should it be needed to break a deadlock in the final conference standings.

Randall Ward plunged over from one yard away for the Davie County touchdown in the final period. Monroe got its touchdown on Spud Wilson's 35-yard pass to Donnie Skinner.

Score by periods:
Davie County 0 0 6 6
Monroe 0 0 0 6
