The final link of I-40 was scheduled last week by the State Highway Commission for July Contracting.

The State Highway Commission plans to ask for bids on the interstate segment ear-ly in July and open bids in Raleigh on July 25. Contracts would be approved by the highway commission at its meeting a few days later.

The project would include building of structures, roadbed nd other facilities for the fourlane superhighway on a 9-mile stretch across northern Iredell County. The interstate highway would take little more than 26 miles to replace the pres-ent meandering 32 - mile stretch. Contracts totaling more than $5 million have already been awarded:

Contracts for the first 10.3 mile section from the end of the present I-40 west of the Yadkin River to Mocks-ville were awarded in March to Harbert Construction Co., Birmingham, Ala., and Struc-tures, Inc., Greenville, South Carolina or $2,668,192.

-Contracts for the second 7.1-mile section from Mocksville to the Davie Iredell line were awarded in April to L. A. Reynolds Co., Winston-Salem, and Siler Construction Co. Franklin, for roadbed at $1,-840.147, and to James T. Triplett and L. R. Ryan, Chester, South Carolina, for structures at $594,118.

The third section covers nine miles from the Davie County line to the Statesville Bypass. The interstate highway will go over U. S. 64 with an in-terchange, (the present narrow bridge over the South Yadkin on U. S. 64 has been the scene of many accidents), under Cool Springs Road, un-der Flour Mill Road, under Cool Springs Road again, over Old N. C. 75 and over U. S. 64 a second time, with a combined interchange serving these highways.

Some clearing has already started on the highway route in Davie County west of the Yadkin River. The paving contract will be awarded when the roadbed and structures are ready. Its date depends on how last the work proceeds during the win-The entire stretch of high-
