Germany Fearing Starvation Calls On U. S. For Help! ENEMY NOW GETTING OUT OF INVADED TERRITORY! Army Draft Calls Canceled. Farmers Urged To Hold Cotton!

CHANGES IN TERMS OF ARMISTICE

Appeals of the German Envoys
Had Little Effect on Marshal Foch

Washington, Nov. 13.—Appeals of the German armistice envoys to Marshal Foch for modification of the terms of surrender were of little avail. This is indicated by the amended terms, which were published today. Close survey of the amendments show few deviations in essential details from the original draft which was announced Monday.

The amended terms in some respects favor the defeated enemy but other provisions completely offset the slight favors granted. Chief among the changes made by Marshal Foch was the inclusion of a provision under which Germany is forced to give up her entire fleet of submarines. The original term as to submarines provided for the turning over to the Allies and the United States of only 160 U-boats. The amendment further provides that the German submarine fleet must be surrendered within fifteen days.

Another of the eighteen terms which were amended provides that the designated units of the German fleet which are to be surrendered, must be prepared to leave their ports within seven days after the signing of the armistice. No time limit was fixed in the original draft. Instead of 50,000 railroad cars the Germans are required to surrender 150,000 cars. The number of machine guns to be turned over to the associated governments is reduced from 30,000 to 25,000. German troops in East Africa are requested to evacuate that territory instead of surrendering. Specific reference is made in the amended terms to repatriation of German prisoners at the conclusion of peace. Territories which belonged to Austria-Hungary before the war are added to those which must be evacuated. Russian provinces are to be evacuated "as soon as the Allies taking into account the internal situation of these territories shall decide that the time for this has come," instead of immediately. Provision also is made in the amended terms for an armistice commission.

Don't get the idea that because the terms of armistice have been accepted by the beaten German army that there's no need to help in the United War Work drive now on. The boys are still "over there" and will be for months yet to come; and they need the help given by the United War Workers just as badly now as when the war was on, because thousands of them are wounded, ill and far from home and loved ones. Give all you can when the solicitor comes.

AMERICAN ARMY WASTE NOTHING

Perishing and the Boys are Saving Over $100,000 Each Day. Are Helping America People to Save.

The salvage service, something entirely new in the American Army, is effecting a saving to the Government considerable in excess of $100,000 each day. This service was started last January and there are already several salvage plants in operation on the battle field of France, while several more are being organized. The activity of the salvage corps operating there extends from the front lines back through the training camps and lines of communication to every base port. All worn or damaged articles of whatever nature are collected and reported to the proper authorities for their reuse or disposal. Even tin cans are collected and the tin and solder salvaged.

General Pershing has sent the American people, through Secretary McAdoo, the following cablegram:

"The soldiers of the American Expeditionary Forces are deeply interested in the campaign for economy and avoidance of waste carried on in the United States. You, and those seeing under you, will doubtless be interested in the similar work being done on the battle field of France and the areas back of the battle line. This service is effecting a saving to the Government of over $100,000 each day. But the saving in money while of great importance is not the vital part of the work. We are saving material in important need at the front, material that no great expenditure of money can indelicately replace.

"The American Expeditionary Force express their gratitude to the millions of men, women and children in America who are doing without things in order that the war may be more efficiently prosecuted. We consider that those who save are a part of our Army and we want you to know that we too are saving."

No Worms in a Healthy Child
All children troubled with worms have an unhealthy child, which indicates poor blood, and as a rule, there is more or less stomach disturbance. GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC cleanses the system for two or three weeks will catch the blood, improve the digestion and get the General Health using Tonic to the whole system. Children will then grow off or dispel the worms, and the child will be in perfect health. Pleasant to take. See our list.

LAST CALL FOR WAR SAVINGS PLEDGES

House-to-house Canvass November 27—December 6. $11,500,000 More to be Pledged.

The last call to secure the balance of the State's allotment in War Savings will be made in a house-to-house canvass to be made between November 27 and December 6. The State still lacks $11,500,000 having pledged its War Savings allotment.

At a meeting of War Savings workers to be held on Thanksgiving Day, every township and ward will be divided into sections and each section will be assigned to a group of canvassers. Between Thanksgiving Day and Friday, December 6, every head of a family and other persons with an independent income will be asked to pledge his part of the $11,500,000 deficit.

Another reason why the house-to-house canvass has been found to be necessary is that citizens may perfect their War Savings records. It has been found that thousands of families have bought stamps for which they would not get any credit for the reason that no member of the family has signed any pledge card, and thousands more have bought more often many times more stamps than their pledge cards cover. So in the Victory Drive of the State, the Government has given an opportunity to state correctly their War Savings record up to date as well as bring their record up to the point needed to bring the balance of the State's allotment.

NEW GIFT REGULATIONS

A new regulation has been issued for sending Christmas gifts to the soldiers as follows:

In view of the approaching holiday season, it has been decided to accept packages up to and including November 20, without the need for an individual or special export license, when the senders make statements that the articles to be transmitted are not in the nature of a commercial transaction but are articles sent as gifts because of the holiday season and the packages are addressed to members of the Allied armies or individuals serving in the Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., Knights of Columbus, Salvation Army, or other similar organizations operating in connection with the military forces of the Allies in Europe, or in connection with any Allied expeditionary forces elsewhere abroad.

Packages described above may be accepted up to the limit of eleven pounds when fully prepaid at the international parcel post rate of 12 cents a pound or fraction of a pound. Each package must be fully and completely addressed; state the name and address of the sender, and, in addition to the words, "Christmas Package," or "Holiday Package."

Terms Call For Demobilization Of German Army. The Surrender Of Parts Of The First Army And The Evacuation Of Occupied Territory And Alsace-Lorraine. The End Of Autocratic Rule.

The greatest war in history ended Monday morning at a hotel in Washington time, after ten days of heroic, during which the victors the whole civilized world has been convulsed. Announcement of the tremendous event was made at the State Department at the capital at 2:45 o'clock and in a few seconds was flashed throughout the continent.

The terms announced by the State Department did not vary anything of the same at Marshal Foch's headquarters at the time the armistice was signed. It was stated, however, that at 5 o'clock, Paris time, the signatures of Germany's delegates were affixed to the document which embodied the terms in a struggle that has cost, at the very lowest estimate, 10,000,000 lives. When the war began the Prussian Alliance was headed by two of the greatest houses in history—the Hohenzollerns and the Hapsburgs. They were the he may still be in his country, has been stripped of power and has seen his empire shattered into pieces. Ferdinand of Bulgaria, another of the rulers in the Teutonic combination, has fled from his country and Mohammed V of Turkey, who also joined in the attempt of Germany to dominate the world, is dead, slain by the hand of an assassin.

While the curtain was rolling down on the most stupendous tragedy in mankind's history, events were moving with terrible swiftness in Germany, the nation about which revolved the plot and counter-plot of the draft. Berlin, Leipzig, Stuttgart, Cologne, Hamburg and Frankfurt are in the hands of the revolutionists who last week raised the red flag at Kiel. Germany's navy apparently is scattered into disjointed units, each seeking sanctuary in Danish ports or waiting in German harbors for the latest turn of events.

The crowds singing the Marseillaise are marching through the streets of autocratic Berlin, soldiers and workmen's council has taken over the government of the empire, Wurttemberg, Schleswig-Holstein and Prussia-Darmstadt have declared themselves independent republics following the action taken by Bavaria last Friday. William II of Wurttemberg is reported to have abdicated. Saxony is said to be near the declaration and the revolutionists are said to be in control of Prussia.

The republic of Poland has served official notice on Austria that Poland

Place Where The Kaiser Was Crowned Ruler of All Germany.

Paris, Nov. 13.—The great conference by the Allied powers is in progress, it is now one of the most historic places in Europe. It is a fitting place from which to dictate terms to the Hun, for here during the siege of Paris, William I, King of Prussia, was proclaimed Emperor of united Germany. What a fortunate thing for France and the whole world that the Hun did not get nearer to Versailles than they did. The beautiful place, with its palaces, gardens, fountains, statues and shady groves would have been destroyed as so many in France have been.

Verdun was founded by Louis XIV, and afterwards thoroughly restored by King Louis Philippe, who gave it to his country as a school of history. Its splendid rooms and corridors have been restored to their original beauty, and have been filled with an immense number of paintings, statues and historic monuments, commemorative of the illustrious deeds of great men who have given so much to the fame and glory of France. Three million dollars is said to have been expended in decorating the palace, halls and grounds of this historic place, and the result is most wonderful as all tourists can testify.

As a national museum it illustrates the history of France from the earliest times, and commemorates on canvas, marble, and bronze, the deeds of all her great rulers, poets, warriors and statesmen, from Charlemagne down to the unfortunate Empress Eugenie, who is still living and will rejoice to see France come into her own again. How terrible was the humiliation heaped on France by the mighty Bismarck, but the time for vengeance has at last come, and for all the mortification of the Franco-Prussian war, and the misery of this terrible conflict just ended there will be ample compensation.

It is well worth a trip to Versailles to walk through the hall of the Gallery of Battles and gaze on the magnificent paintings descriptive of the famous battles of the Great Napoleon. Many of these battle scenes tell of the terrible defeats administered to the Prussians by the victorious French arms. How the Huns would have delighted in defacing these historic paintings, but thanks to the genius of Marshal Foch, the "greatest strategist in Europe," this great pleasure was denied them.

When one walks through the shady dells, and listens to the soft splash of the fountains and the sad tragedy of Marie Antoinette is brought to mind. Here she was wont to retire from the arduous duties of the court life she so little liked and with all the abandon of a child chase butterflies and fish in the little lake.

Amid these lovely scenes, so eloquent of the past, the greatest conference the world has ever seen is going on. The whole world looks on with breathless interest and waits impatiently for the news that shall forfeit the respect of humanity. We may feel sure that such men as Marshal Foch, General Haig, Lloyd George, Balfour and Col. House will dictate the terms of peace. They no doubt will be so crushing to the Huns that they will never again be in position to take up arms and murder and pillage as they have done during this four years of the most unhuman war the world has ever seen. The world is weary of war and bloodshed. But it does not want this thing to end until it is fixed so that future generations can pursue their peaceful avocations without fear of some bloodthirsty ruler plunging them into war. I heard a gentleman say that the terms of peace will be so drastic, so overwhelming that in time the Allies will be disposed to relent and take back some of them.

This war teaches us that there is such a thing as right and justice still ruling as it has always done, and that power and force can never triumph, except for a brief period. Whenever a man says that such is his way, and today, and for many a year to come the Huns will reap a harvest of suffering, poverty and humiliation such as has seldom fallen to the lot of a whole nation.

YANKS DISCUSSING FUTURE OPERATIONS

With the American Armies on the Meuse and Moselle, Tuesday, November 12 (By The Associated Press).—The relaxation resulting from the cessation of hostilities resolved itself today into speculation among the men as to several questions:

They asked: "What will become of the army now. What part will Americans take as an army of occupation? When will we start for home?"

Along the front there was an absence of Germans today. Hundreds came to the American lines yesterday afternoon to exchange greetings, but according to reports most of them have started for home. American troops therefore, made themselves comfortable along the front lines and discussed the movements has been received. Action will depend upon the decision of the Allies, and the Americans are awaiting directions from Marshal Foch. Both the first and second armies are awaiting the word to carry out orders.

All dispatches in every branch of the service are being kept up to war time efficiency against order to move forward as part of the army of occupation. When orders arrive the Americans must be prepared to fill the bill in every particular.

WORK ON SUNDAY IN NAVY YARDS STOPPED

Washington, Nov. 9.—The Navy department this morning issued an order discontinuing until further notice all Sunday work in Navy yards and at other stations. The order, becomes effective tomorrow. Secretary Daniels stated that the action was taken to save the men from the strain of a seven day week now that the production is meeting the requirements. If increased production becomes necessary the order will be countermanded, he said.
