Governor Banks National Guard.
"I am firmly of the opinion that the backbone of the national defense will be the National Guard and I propose to make the guard of this state second to none," said Governor Bickett in a communication to all the former officers and enlisted men of the National Guard, in which he called upon them for co-operation in the reorganization of the guard in this state.

The governor expressed the regret that it is impossible at this time to appoint and enlist all the splendid officers and men who served with distinction and credit in the world war. He promised, however, that all will be called upon to undertake the organization of additional units next year.

Twelve of the companies of the First Infantry, North Carolina national guard, are now being organized.

Major Gordon Smith, assistant adjutant general, who is directing the reorganization of the National Guard, expects the forces allotted to North Carolina for the fiscal year to be completely organized by January, 1920.

Freight Reductions Granted.

Raleigh had a mild-sized jubilation over the winning of the freight rate discrimination contest before the Interstate Commerce commission, an investigation which began here before Commissioner J. B. Eastman in the spring and was concluded in Washington.

The fight then was for the Virginia differential. Over the long distance telephone J. H. Fishback, representing the North Carolina cities and chambers of commerce, announced that North Carolina places like Raleigh, Greensboro and Goldsboro, will get a reduction of 20 cents on that differential. Had the state collected 18 cents it would have been gloriously happy. It gets more than it expected.

Of course this is a separate issue from that presented September 15, when North Carolina protested raising the rates to make up a deficit created by the discriminations in favor of Virginia. The business men of the state expect to win that, too.

Sheep Industry Booming.

George Evans, sheep extension worker of the agricultural extension service, has just returned from a trip to the farms of pure bred sheep breeders in different sections of the county where he purchased 140 grade ewes and 40 pure bred rams and ewes at prices ranging from $50 to $100 per head.

This is one of the largest orders for sheep that has ever been placed by North Carolina farmers at any one time. Mr. Evans had orders for several more, but, because of the great demand for better sheep by farmers all over the county, he was unable to secure the animals desired at the prices which he was commissioned to pay.

Large Tobacco Yield.

That there is still a big tobacco yield in North Carolina, notwithstanding the great shortage in condition of the crop, is evident from the latest tobacco warehouse sales reports which showed 79,220,071 pounds were reported sold by 164 warehouses.

The 20 that did not report are estimated to have sold $235,000 pounds, making a total of 87,535,071 pounds of first-hand or producers' sales. This is much the same as the reports showed for last year.

To Award Rhodes Scholarship.

The Rhodes scholarship for North Carolina will be awarded October 30, according to an announcement made by President H. W. Chase, of the University of North Carolina.

Twelve applications have already been made for this scholarship, which is the largest number of any one year, and from the number of inquiries, President Chase said, there is a greater amount of interest among the colleges of the state than there has ever been before.

Post-War Reconstruction.

North Carolina's post-war reconstruction program got under way when Governor Bickett called the state reconstruction commission to meet here October 23 and forwarded to the members a tentative program of work for their consideration.

Legion Convention October 30.

The state convention of the American Legion, scheduled for October 24 and 25, during fair week, has been postponed until October 30, in order to relieve the delegates of the necessity of having to secure lodging in the city during the congestion incident to the state fair grounds. By postponing the meeting until the later date the necessity for a two days' session is also eliminated. The first session will probably be held in the afternoon of October 29 and the business concluded at a night session.

Job to North Carolinians.

It is estimated that the war department at Washington is due North Carolina citizens about $75,000 balance on account of administering the selective draft and J. Frank Mitchell, who was disbursing agent for the government in this work, is leaving for Washington in a few days to personally investigate the situation. In that accountants by such means were used and sent to Washington in May and the government claims in arrears of the citizens are the over $75,000.
