If you want to have the kind of home town

Like the kind of a town you like, You needn't slip your clothes in a grip

And start on a long, long hike; You'll only find what you left behind,

For there's nothing that's new,

It's a knock at yourself when you knock your town; It isn't the town-it's you.

You wouldn't expect, if you mined your soil, Bumper crops that you used to get; Nor aught but runts from feeding that stunts; Nor payment without a debt. One gets returns from what he

Something must first be due. If your town doesn't pay, look at it this way,

It isn't the town-it's you.

Real towns are not made by men afraid That others will get ahead,

When every one works and nobody shirks, You can raise a town from the dead, And if, while you make your personal stake, Your neighbors can make one of E. C. T. T. S. Greenville, N. C.

Your town will be what you want it to be:

It isn't the town-it's you. -Anonymous.

The secret of savory

meat-pie-

EPT-over meat blanleted under a crisp, tender biscuit crust is a dish to delight any family. Of course the secret of its goodness is a perfect crust. But that's so easily provided with Occo-nee-chee Self-Rising Flour.

Every sack of Occa-nes-ches Flour corries this Indian Read By adding water or milk and shortening to Occo-nee-chee Flour you get a. batter that is bound to bake into a light fluffy crust. And because the salt, baking powder and soda are already mixed with the flour there's no chance of mistake with Occo-nee-chee.

In the same way, you can be certain of making hot cakes, waffles and biscuits that are always tender and toothsome.

Get one of those plump, well filled sacks of Occo-nee-chee Flour from your. grocer. You'll know them by the Indian Head.

> Be sure to ask for Peerless when ordering plain flour.

THE SUMMER TERM.

is More Popular This Year Than Ever.

The outlook for the 1921 Summer Term of the East Carolina Teachers Training School is brighter than ever. For a number of years the Summer School at this institution has been exceedingly popular because stud ents taking the full eight weeks term get credit for one-third of a school year and thereby advance the grade of their certificate very rapidly. This is recognized as a place to go for real work for the Summer Term is run under the same regulations as the regular sessions of the school.

The 1921 Summer Term is more popular than ever because the Board of Trustees of this institution has recently approved and authorized a Four-Year Course of Study leading to a degree. One terms work of this course will be given this summer and already a large number of graduates of the institution has applied for admission. The Four-Year Course enables the teachers to secure the State's highest grade of certificate, thereby commanding the best salary. Not only the student body and graduates of this school, but , all who are interested in teacher training are delighted with this new course. This school already has a well earned reputation for turning out good teachers and now it is offering the teachers better opportunities as teacher training.

This is the one institution in | No one can say the present-day girl the State that devotes every energy to preparing teachers for the elementary schools. Its big problem is to train teachers for the rural schools and in this great work it has the hearty en dorsement and co-operation of yance that every room will be enlarged before the date of opening. June 14, because the report comes that applications for Under and by virtue of the rooms are going in rapidly. TESTS NEATHFOR SWEET NESS Officiary Nerves of the Plans Smellor" Must Be Ahvays at Their

To the long list of unusual occupations by which men live, there must be added that of the "ham smeller" in a packing house. Da duty is to inspect ment products and judge of their

The ham smaller's only tools are a long steel trier and bis nose. He stands in a barrel to keer his clothes from being soiled by the dripping brine, and the hams are brought to him by workmen. A ham is taid before him, and he plunges his sharppointed trier into it, withdraws it and passes it swiftly beneath his nose. The trier always goes down to the knuckle

In testing meat in that manner the man with the trier judges by the slightest shade of difference between the smell of one piece of meat and another. The smell of the meat is almost universally sweet, and that is what he smells; the slightest taint or deviation from the sweet smell is therefore appreciable. It is not the degree of tain; that he expects to find, but the alightest odor that is no

When he detects an odor he throws the meat saide, and if it is not unwholesome, it is sold as "rejected" mest, but if it is tainted it goes to the rendering tank. The ham tester smells meat from T o'clock in the morning until 5 at night, and his sense must never become jaded or inexact, or his usefulness would be at an end.

Ham testing is not a parsuit danperous to the health, as ten testing is supposed to be, but the ham smeller with a cold in his head is for the time being like a plane player who has lost his arms in a railway wreck.

HAS MANY IMPORTED TREES

No Other Country in the World Said to Possess Such a Variety as Does England.

The Portuguese boast of their forest at Basaco, where there are oven two hundred kinds of imported trees in full and gigantic growth. But there is no other country in the whole world where so many varieties of imported trees flourish as in the British isles, and Kew has specimens of nearly all of them. Not only original, or, rather, ly und parallel with Waverly natural varieties are to be seen at Kew, but others which owe their being to the cunning of man. The latter are graft-hybrids of extraordinary interest, In the year 1826 a French gardener grafted a purple-flowered cytisus on a laburnum stock. A branch developed, which produced flowers intermediate between the stock and the scion, You can see a specimen of this hybrid amour the laburaums. It bears not only the hyprid lowers but also flow-result. Three separate types of branch, flower, and fruit are to be seen on the same bush, - Montreal

Rifled Qil Pipes. The principle of the rifled gun is applied to piges for pumping oil. The crude oil of California is mostly thick, ous and difficult to pump through long lines. Heating cannot be successfully applied to a long pipe, and mixing with water results in an emulsion from which the oil cannot be readily separated. The best means of dealing with these viscous oils is by means of a pipe rifed on the inside, so that the oil, mixed with about 10 per cent of water, is caused to whirl rapidly. The water, belig heavier than the oil, seeks the outside and forms a thin film, which lubricates the pipe for the passage of the oil. The friction is thus so far reduced that the oil has been pumped easily through a line thirty-one miles long. The water and
