

OTHER MILLS NOW AFTER REDUCTION

SIX CABARRUS CONCERNS ASK SAME FAVOR AS GRANTED TO CANNON SYNDICATE.

NO DECISION IS ARRIVED AT

Order of Judge Boyd Continuing His Injunction Against Union Printers Is a Most Sweeping Document.

The Cabarrus mills appeal from the approval of the county commission, and evidence and argument in which cases were heard two weeks ago brought six other Cabarrus mills here to ask that they be reduced as low as the Cannon mills, relatively.

The board of appellants, which heard the Cannon case first, could not reach a decision because no two sets of figures agreed. Judge Manning, a member of the board of which Commissioner Watts is chairman and vice one commissioner, told the appellants that it did not appear to him that they had made much of a fight before the Cabarrus commission.

The six mills, having a valuation of about $5,000,000, declared that they would not ask any reduction if the Cannon were required to pay on the assessments made by the county authorities.

Judge W. M. Boyd's order continuing with the final hearing the injunction obtained against Raleigh printing and pressmen's unions and members was signed here last is one of the most sweeping documents in the annals of the state courts.

Address of Dr. Dandell.

Dandell, one of the most interesting after-dinner speakers of the southwestern states and who has become widely known during his association with General Scales, of the South Carolina agricultural and mechanical college, will be the principal attraction at the important event of Saturday Day at the Made in the Carolinas Exposition.

The Governor Asked Wistly.
Adjutant General Maize, reading Concord dispatches, and observing that the strike is not entirely settled, used the occasion to emphasize the weakness of Concord and Cabarrus governments, and to explain why Governor Morrison had found it necessary to interfere. General Maize declared that any opposition men will agree, when he surveys the local field, that Governor Morrison acted wisely. The local officials have not taken charge, and he says this after having reluctantly concluded that troops were necessary.

Answer Lacy is Absolved.
Dr. E. C. Brooks, state representative of public instruction, reading editorial criticism of his statement before the farmers and farm women, absolved Treasurer Ben Lacy from any dereliction of duty in keeping his accounts straight with the several sheriff's in the state.

Telegraphic transmission of the story, quoting Dr. Brooks as saying that the sheriff had not settled with the county commissioners for ten years, was slightly garbled. It was not clear whether Dr. Brooks meant the state or the county. He said the county and he said a lot of other things about the tax business methods of county officials. In brief, he drove home the point that the county administration ought to be subject to state control.

One sheriff, he states, has not made a complete settlement with his county board of commissioners for ten years. In another instance he knows one county in the state was recently "called" for interest on a bond issue, and there was no record anywhere of the indebtedness.

Mr. Lacy, however, gets the money from the sheriffs. They say the state, though they still the county along. It is this social indifference, Dr. Brooks points out, that is damning the statements of government.

Hotel Turns Over New Leaf.
The Capital hotel, alias the Belmont hotel, sometime the abode of people who lived not at peace with the guardians of the law turned over a new leaf in the thick and checkered book of its history when a lease was signed transferring tenancy to the state of North Carolina to be used by the State Board of Education, and perhaps the State Department of Revenue as office quarters until such time as the state may erect a structure adequate to the needs of its multiplying administrative staff.

Several branches of the department of education will occupy the second floor of the building as soon as necessary repairs can be made, and the revenue department move in on the third floor later. Details arranged for a lease on the hotel had not been made, but the revenue department must move out of its quarters before the end of the year, and the building to be occupied by a state office building.

SAN ANTONIO IS SWEEPED BY FLOOD

WATER STOOD 14 TO 15 FEET DEEP IN STREETS OF THE BUSINESS SECTION.

LOSS OF LIFE IS APPALLING

Property Loss in Central Portion of the City Will Run Well Up into Millions of Dollars.

San Antonio, Tex.—Four seven are known to be dead and property in the central portion of the city has been damaged to the extent of several million dollars by a flood which swept through San Antonio. Estimates of the loss of life and property are appalling.

Troops from Fort San Houston are patrolling the city and aiding in rescue work. The water supply is cut off, so is the electric light and telephone power. Estimates of loss of life run as high as 200 by police and the city.

Water from the San Antonio river, which winds through the city, and into its tributary, the Olmos creek, flooded the business section of the city for many blocks to a depth of from 10 to 15 feet. The San Pedro creek, on the west side of the city, which runs through the Mexican district overflowed and forced the water from the river and swept through the northern part of the city.

Water about 10 feet deep in the lobby of the Gunter hotel, which is a block from the river. The flood reached the Alamo place on the east, which is two blocks from the river.

Bridge Collapse; 34 In Mergue.
Chester, Pa.—Thirty-four identified bodies lay at the morgue and 28 seriously injured persons were at the hospital shortly before midnight. The cause of the collapse of a section of the bridge was a run bridge spanning the river.

MADE-IN-CAROLINA EXPOSITION OPENS

THE PRODUCTS OF 60 YEARS OF GROWTH MEET THE ADMIRING EYES OF VISITORS.

GRADY'S PROPHECY FULFILLED

At the Same Time Abundant Evidence Is to be Seen That the Carolinas Have Just Begun to Grow.

Charlotte, N. C.—The Made in Carolina Exposition, presenting in truly wonderful array the products of 60 years of growth in industry, was opened without ceremony or ostentation, the doors simply being thrown open to admit the crowd which had been gathering during the morning hours.

Great interest centered in the program of the opening day, that of the afternoon being featured by the address of Governor Cameron Morry.

A trip through the great building just before the opening hour showed that the long hard efforts of the exposition's employees and the employees of the exhibitors had brought their activities practically to the end.

When the visitor realizes that the Carolina Exposition is the same as the Carolina Exposition of 1861, the years ago was in the grip of poverty, and for years after the war between the states straggled against all manner of difficulties and adversity, the real story of the exposition stands out with vividness and impressiveness. For the first time the New South is truly presented in definite form. It promises that these two states in their progress and prosperity have more than fulfilled the brilliant prophecies of Henry W. Grady. At the same time, abundant evidence is offered that the Carolina has just begun to grow.
