BOX PARTY AT COX'S SCHOOL HOUSE

A box party was given at Cox's school house Friday night, November 7, which every visitor seemed to enjoy very much. There were visitors from Farmville, Greenville, Simpson and several nearby villages.

First, the fish pond was made ready for everybody to go fishing; then ice cream was sold. In the meantime Miss Nannie Peacock played the piano.

About 8:00 o'clock Miss Beulah Tripp, a young lady of Ayden, appeared dressed as a gypsy fortune teller. Several of the visitors visited the gypsy tent and had their fortunes told. This afforded much fun.

A contest was given for the prettiest girl. Five cents was charged for each vote. The girl who received the most votes was to be given a box of candy. After several moments of suspense Miss Grace Hardee, a charming young lady living near the school, was presented the box of candy.

Another contest was given—the corn grain contest. There was a jar of corn with a dollar bill inside. The one guessing the nearest the number of corn grains was given the dollar bill. Mr. Fountain Evans won this prize.

Several boxes were brought to the party by the pupils and friends of the teachers. The ones who brought boxes were: Misses Helen Brooks, Nannie Peacock, Mary Hoover Boyd, Geneva Pope, Mary Dudley, Grace Dudley, Ruberta Hardee, Annie Ruth Edwards, Lillian Stokes, Novella Evans, Margaret Marriner and Mrs. John R. Barrett.

The young men who bought the boxes were: Messrs. Kid Tyson, Raymond Tyson, A. C. Jackson, Wesley Moore, Loyd Allen, Van Carrol, Nyron Hardee, Brown, Leon Evans, Hubert Evans, Dewey Brooks and John E. Barrett.

Mr. Frank Stokes auctioned the boxes in a very pleasing manner.

After the boxes were sold a contest was given for the ugliest man present. Mr. Lee Corbett, of Farmville, was the lucky man to receive the prize, a cake of soap.

About 11 o'clock the successful party came to a close leaving the pupils and teachers of Cox's school very much pleased for they had taken in $94.00 for the use of their school.

MISS BARRETT HOSTESS

Miss Mildred Barrett was hostess to the Young Peoples' Circle on Thursday evening.

Miss Sarah Newborn led the devotional and literary programs which were unusually interesting. Misses Edna Earle Lewis, Mary Louise Hinson and Mrs. Boba Flanagan assisted the leader in carrying out a very successful program on "Prayer." A committee was appointed at this time to plan a Thanksgiving social.

A social hour proved very enjoyable. Games were played and delicious charlotte russe was served.

If you are right inside you can stand any thing from the outside.

A new radio set is being advertised "hardly larger than a watch." Yes, and the world hopes hardly any louder.
