TO KILL BUS SERVICE WHOSE FROZEN WASTES YES SIR, FROZEN FIGHT. HINDENBURG'S ELECTION.

Massachusetts considers a proposition interesting to other States. The idea is to oblige railroads selling competition annoying to them, but useful to the public, by interfering with omnibus passenger lines. The scheme is cleverly worked out.

First, owners of omnibuses using public roads would be compelled to get certificates of public necessity and urgency.

That isn't so very dangerous, because public opinion which would demand a convenient omnibus service could bring pressure to bear on the Legislature.

But it would also be necessary for an omnibus line to get a permit from the local authorities of every little town and village through which it might pass. With such a law in force it would only be necessary for the railroad to buy one or two little local bodies, and that wouldn't be difficult.

The railroads need something to wake them up, and they ought to be grateful for mild omnibus competition. By and by they will have real competition in the airplane routes. And even railroads will hardly suggest that a people haven't a right to fly through their own atmosphere without special permission.

The omnibus line as a medium of long-distance transportation is an established fact. You may ride to Seattle, the whole length of our Western coast.

If buses wear out the roads, part of their earnings should be used to keep the roads in repair. But omnibus lines should be encouraged everywhere.

Four nations are vying to reach the North Pole. Hindenburg hopes to arrive first with his American flag and his two airplanes.

Anyhow, whatever happens in this race, the United States reached the Pole first.

As to "winning" that contest there need be no quarrel. There is all things within reasonable limits it can produce it, although they do not mean to bring it out.

And as the Pole shifts, the different stars are after another pole, come our Northern pole, which is not at all "fixed" and unchangeable. Today's Pole lands will lose their carpet of ice, men will live there on fertile fields, and "Polar night" will be located elsewhere.

But what, by that time, will have become of the nations now claiming Polar lands? They have "vanished" since we learned that the 22 separate islands that the Conqueror when he landed in Britain.

And what we call civilization, then be part of a disappearing world, studied, as we now study the "lost" man, African pygmies, and "head hunters" of Borneo.

Man by nature delights in struggle. At Columbia, South Carolina, beside the railroad track, four barefoot colored boys, fifteen to six years of age, sat out, "thrown a nickel in the air and well fight for it."

The suggestion that the smallest boy would have little chance found no favor. All four boys were disappointed when each reached his nickel without a struggle. Even the smallest boy said, "Yes, sir, we'd rather fight for it."

There is a moral for employers. Give your men the same chance to make something extra by fighting for extra business and extra profit. Only profit sharing gets the best out of a man. A salary, no matter how big, seems like an insult after a few months.

The French declare the election of Von Hindenburg to be Germany's challenge to the world, and France especially. But the French should be the last to criticize the Germans in the selection.

When Napoleon was shamefully beaten and ran home from the Germans to save his skin, the Kaiser ran away from Germany to save his skin, the French elected as President Marianne Mahon, the best imitation of a military hero since William the
