Modern House of Tomorrow Will Have Cooling Plant for Summer and Furnace for Winter

Cambridge, Mass., Sept 23 .- "Shut the windows, turn on the electricity and keep cool."

lieves Professor Edward F. Miller, ty. head of the department of mechanical man energy in this age of swift prog- one. ress and keen competition call for new measures for physical comfort and protection," said Professor Miller. "Extreme summer heat shows human activity and lowers efficiency in all branches of endeavor, whether it be in factory, office building or home.

"The household furnace has overcome the cold of winter, but humanity still suffers from summer heat. It seems likely that within a few days cool rooms in which to work and live will be considered just as much a necessity as warm homes and buildings are in winter.

"It is not a serious problem now to produce air conditioning and cooling plants for domestic purposes. Those will consist of a refrigeration system for $20,000 actual and $20,000 puniin which air will be cooled and the tive damages was filed in superior moisture removed before it is put in- court today by Walter Clark, attorto circulation in the building,
