PENNSYLVANIA AND ILLINOIS PROVE NOTHING

Despite the efficacy of moneyed machinery in Pennsylvania and Illinois politics, which resulted in a mild clamor against the primary election system, direct nomination of public officials will continue. The people will not be rotten political bosses hurling their country back into the abyss of dirty politics, no matter how many millions were spent in two of 48 states.

Apprehension over the nomination of Vane in Pennsylvania and Smith in Illinois is unnecessary. It is doubtful if they will ever be seated in the United States senate, should they be elected. If it ever comes to a vote in the senate, most senators will remember what happened to those senators who voted to seat Newberry.

Nor should the corruption coming from these states influence the average decent voter's attitude toward the primary system. Good citizens, who vote without charge, now dominate politics. Some may claim that the primaries have not eliminated boodlers. Perhaps not, but the primaries certainly have made it harder to buy the majority of voters than to buy one crooked boss.

The primaries have crippled the argument of those who need to dominate conventions, whip office holders into line, and juggle governmental affairs to his own satisfaction. That, too, is worth while.

PROSPERITY REFLECTED IN CROP REPORT OF SEPT. 1

An answer to the racket about North Carolina's prosperity is reflected in the September 1 crop report released by the national crop reporting board September 10th. After an adverse spring and very dry summer period, we have a prospect of 83 per cent for corn; 73 for tobacco; 83 for cotton; 73 for apples; 73 for sweet potatoes; and, in fact, the average for all the crops shows 73 per cent of a full crop or normal condition. This means that in spite of adverse conditions recovery is not only possible, but, as viewed from past year's actual results, that the harvests are good.

The cotton crop shows the best condition in the southern cotton states. We have an outlook for a good and profitable tobacco crop. Wheat and barley showed the best yields for many years. Corn, with an indication of about 21 bushels per acre, showed a condition equal to any crop for several years in this state. The fruit crop is unusually good, as indicated by the production in the sand hills of probably over 3,000 cars of peaches, while the apple crop all over the state is unusually good. From a bad beginning the pastures and hay crops are now in good condition. The pecans, while off in stand considerably, seem to indicate fair results if favorable weather continues. Soy beans and cowpeas are looking better than for several years. Pecans indicate an unusually good crop.

A review of the September 1 crop report for North Carolina, as passed on by the state and Federal Departments of agriculture, is as follows: Condition of the corn crop 83 per cent of a full crop or normal promise. This indicates 7,981,000 bushels. This is considerably better than last year, but some under the five years average, and shows an improvement of 3,000,000 bushels during the past month.

A summary of additional crop conditions is: The late Irish potato crop 64 per cent; cultivated hays 77; meadow hay 9 for yield; clover hay, 88 per cent of a full crop promise; alfalfa 75; peanuts 73; cowpeas 83; soy beans 80; sorghum cane 83; pecans 73 per cent; while fruit crops show grapes 85, pears 67 and the peach production is 67 per cent of a full crop production.

An interesting feature of the report is that pertaining to the distribution of hays or cultivated hay average, soy beans occupy 29 per cent; cowpeas 27; peanuts 13; clover 15; sorghum and sorghum mixed 7; grain not grown in an unimproved condition 4; and all other tame hays 9 per cent. This shows that we have a large variety of important hay crops. In fact, more than the states to the north and to the west. Our alfalfa, millets, Soy and Johnson grass hays are estimated to be from 3 to 4 per cent of the total average. Every kind of hay can grow in needed hay in North Carolina.

Let's hope no more about financial extravagance. The army announces it has saved $10,000,000 by cleaning off the back of 3,500 white elephants made from the war to make lack-

Pains disappeared

SEVERAL years ago I was badly run-down," says Mrs. John Bunch, R. F. D. 8, Columbia, S. C. "I could not do any of my work. I was so weak I could not wash a dish. My back and sides hurt me at times dreadfully. I dragged around until I finally got down in bed."

Then, explains Mrs. Bunch, she happened to read about Cardui, the woman's tonic, and decided to give it a thorough trial, the results of which she describes below:

"It seemed to reach the cause of my trouble at once. I did not take it long before my appetite began to improve. I gained in weight from 114 pounds until now I weigh 125 pounds. I soon was able to be up around the house. I took up my household duties and was delighted with my returning strength."

"I now do all my own work. The pains in my sides and back have disappeared and I feel like a different person."

Cardui has been helping me feel young again for nearly 50 years, and by all means, I recommend it to all my friends."
