

CAN MAKE LIQUOR TURNER FAILS TO IN HOME AND NOT VIOLATE DRY LAW

Supt. McBride Agrees With Interpretation of Congressman Fort.

Washington, May 14.—The opinion that under certain conditions liquor can be made in the home without violating the prohibition laws was expressed yesterday before the Senate lobby committee by P. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League.

The statement was made in answer to questions by Chairman Caraway of the committee, concerning a speech delivered recently in the House by Representative York, Republican. Mr. J. McBride quoted Fort as saying that "the law permitted the making of liquor in the home."

"You don't agree with his interpretation?" Caraway asked.

"We think he made a very good speech that he made as a whole," the witness replied. "He is his interpretation. I think probably he is right."

"Do you think ought to be the law?" Caraway demanded.

"The law is not 100 per cent perfect yet," McBride said.

The examination of McBride took this tack when Caraway questioned him about a resolution recently adopted by the New Jersey Anti-Saloon League which said the drys were going to do their best to have a candidate in the Republican Senatorial primary for whom they could constitutionally vote.

"If that got in Dwight Morrow's way, it wasn't our fault," he asserted.

The reference was to Dwight Morrow, Ambassador to Mexico, who is a candidate for the Republican Senatorial nomination from New Jersey. His views on prohibition have not yet been announced.

McBride said he did not personally know former Senator Fralighusen, who is opposing Morrow for the nomination, and added that he had been surprised to receive reports that Representative Fort would enter the race. He said he did not know Fort personally.

The witness said that final action by the organization had been deferred to give the candidates a reasonable time to make statements as to their prohibition views.

"I think every candidate, wet or dry, should have his day in court before he is endorsed for or against," he explained.

At the conclusion of today's hearing, the committee adjourned until next Tuesday, when examination of McBride will be resumed. The adjournment was directed by Chairman Caraway because committee members would be tied up with other hearings for the remainder of the week.

McBride also was questioned about a proposed agreement between former President Coolidge, Secretary Mellon and the league whereby a prohibition commissioner was to be appointed in 1927 favorable to the league's views.

Senator Blaine, Republican, Wisconsin, the only wet on the committee, read from minutes of an executive meeting of the association a statement that Coolidge and Mellon "delicately reminded of the unkindness of understanding that was had in the re-organization bill."

McBride said he knew nothing of understanding and added that he did not know if it had been with Wayne Wheeler, late head of the drys.

"If the minutes say so, I should believe it did," McBride said.

Blaine also read a report made by McBride which said most of the duties of the Washington headquarters "have to do with securing the right kind of legislation."

He explained that the appomattox relates to "all offices having to do with prohibition enforcement" and that the league had transmitted information concerning prospective appointments to government officials.

McBride testified that he had interviewed members of the House in the United States growing louder for more, for example. Now 25,000,000 more vehicles have displaced the horses and the machines get their fodder from the oil-wells. The blacksmith and the wheelwright have disappeared, but in their place we have a million and a half men working for repairing drivers of motor trucks, to repair drivers of the garage workers and the people employed in looking after the needs of the great motor drivers.

Twenty years ago there were eighteen million tons of flour used in the United States, growing louder for more, for example. Now 25,000,000 more vehicles have displaced the horses and the machines get their fodder from the oil-wells. The blacksmith and the wheelwright have disappeared, but in their place we have a million and a half men working for repairing drivers of motor trucks, to repair drivers of the garage workers and the people employed in looking after the needs of the great motor drivers.

These men have been taken away from the farms. They no longer produce their own food. So there is an added to the farmer's loss on his hay and oats. He must grow more food for people, less for horses.

As a result, the product of a modern invention has almost ruined the cotton market; women winter silk, silk manufactured from wood pulp, and inventions has changed both kinds while incomes have increased so that tens of millions who used to have

STATE TO FREE ITS BEST-KNOWN WOMAN PRISONER 31ST

Reaches New York Almost Hour Under Record Of Lone Eagle And Wife

Carrie Field, N. Y., May 14.—Col.

Ronnie Turner, with a lion cub as his mascot, landed his express mail Lockheed plane here at 8:40 a. m. yesterday flying by more than an hour in his attempt to set a new record for a one-stop trans-continent flight.

The record Turner sought to better was that of 14 hours, 25 minutes and 27 seconds established recently by Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh. Turner's estimated time was 16 hours and 45 minutes.

The flier took off from Los Angeles at 2:23 p. m. Pacific time, which is equivalent to 5:23 a. m. Eastern daylight time. He thus would have had to reach here by 7:23 p. m. to establish a new coast-to-coast mark.

Turner had been expected to bring down his plane at neighboring Horsefield Field, but darkness had set in before he reached his destination and it was assumed he was unfamiliar with local fields. Virtually all of his fuel was exhausted at the time of landing, although gasoline was taken aboard during the one stop at Wichita, Kan.

Turner said that he was about 8,000 feet above this field when the motor began to sputter, indicating that his gas was giving out.

"The field was flood-lighted," so I nosed down and made for it," he continued. "On landing, the plane ground-looped, causing the rivets in one of the wheels to pull out. Otherwise the plane is undamaged.

"I had bad weather most of the way, running through storms over most of Illinois, Ohio and Pennsylvania."

He was asked if he intended to try again for the record.

"I can't say at this time," he replied.

LOCAL GIRL MAKING GOOD AS PAINT DEMONSTRATOR

The many friends of Miss Mary Calvin Caraway, who until a few months ago was connected with the Hub Paint company, but now is special representative for the C. H. Athey Paint company of Baltimore, Md., will be interested in the following article appearing in a recent issue of the Belhaven Times, under the heading "Circumstances! Evidence Should Be Ignored".

"There are many people who today are suffering from circumstantial evidence of some sort or individual.

"Yesterday while sitting by the window we noticed a number of people passing the office with paint thinner, jars, jugs and in fact, Jack Ridick with a one gallon jug. Knowing that Mr. Jones, Chief of Police, had made a raid only a few days ago, circumstantial evidence led the editor to believe that he might have opened up his heart, but upon investigating we found that the only thing drawing much attention was Miss Mary Calvin Caraway, demonstrator of the C. H. Athey Paint Co. of Belhaven. Miss Caraway Caraway, with her artistic demonstrations made a wonderful hit with the housewives of Belhaven, as well as many of the boys who had their faces recovered."

SELECT CLUB DELEGATES FOR NATIONAL CAMP

Mary Emma Powell of Turkey, Lula Early of Statesville, Paul Moore of Concord, and Ellison McDonald of Jonesboro, are the four official delegates selected by the State College Extension Service to represent the 20,000 4-H club of North Carolina at the Fourth National club camp to be held in Washington, D. C., June 18 to 24.

Each of these four club members has done excellent work over a period of from four to six years. Not only have they finished their projects with efficiency and success but they have served as officers in their local clubs and engaged in many community enterprises.

Miss Powell is president of the state 4-H club organization. She is 18 years old and has been a club member since she was 12. Her principal projects have been in clothing, foods and room improvement. She has also been helpful to her home agent in giving demonstrations in these projects.

Miss Early is 18 years old and has been a club member for six years. She has been especially valuable to her home agent, Miss Ruth Current, in conducting work in recreation among the club members of the county. Her principal projects have dealt with clothing, foods and room improvement.

Paul Moore is well known as a dairy and poultry club member. His chickens have won 183 first and second ribbons and $100.00 in cash premiums. He was a short-term member of the first Jersey Calf Club organized in North Carolina by County Agent

Ida Ball Warren Gains Freedom Early Because Of Good Behavior.

Raleigh, May 15.—State's prison board meeting in monthly session here yesterday, fixed May 31 as the date of freedom for the State's best known woman prisoner, Ida Ball Warren, the Pittsboro county murderer.

Miss Warren, after a number of unsuccessful efforts to obtain freedom, gained a commutation from Governor Gardner this year that cut her sentence from 30 to 20 years, and with the time off for good behavior the board decided that she should go free on May 31.

When the now middle-aged woman steps out of the prison gates three days early, it will be her first taste of freedom since 1915 when with her paramour, Sam F. Christy, she was jailed for murdering her husband, driving the body in a truck and attempting to destroy it.

With Christy, she was sent to the "Death Row" to await execution. But the idea of electrocuting a woman did not appeal to North Carolinians and tremendous pressure was brought to bear upon Governor Craig to save her.

Governor Craig did, and also that of Christy.

The sentences were commuted to life imprisonment. Then under Governor Bickett they were reduced to 20 years. Christy, favoring the commutation of Miss Warren, took full blame for the crime on himself and will continue serving on his 20 year sentence.

A model prisoner, Mrs. Warren has gained full benefit of time off for good behavior. Those close to her in the prison say she is deeply penitent, and only an even break in returning to the society she left abruptly 16 years ago.
