Gov. O. Max Gardner, who has been personally conducting the movement to date, announced that in the work of actual designation his reprementative will be George R. Ross. director of State-owned farms, who served for a year as public director of the old Tri-State organisation, under appointment of Gov. A. W. Mc-Lean.

The other important question is whether or not partial deliveries will be accepted during the 1930 season. The tentative contract adopted Monday contemplates full deliveries, but there is much division of opinion as to whether that course should be fals lowed, narticularly in Eastern North Carolina, where practically all of the tobacco is under control of time merchants and others through crop liens.

Beginning with next year anyone taking a lien upon the tobacco of a member will be required under the contract to obtain his money through the association.

As a result of Monday's meeting it seemed certain that there will be three associations, one for the border markets, another for the Eastern belt, and a third for the Old Belt. However, these associations will be all federated in the beginning, and it is the ultimate aim to secure a federation of all States growing bright tobacco.

"There is a great change apparent in time merchants and others toward a co-operative and toward a "live-athome" movement, declared Governor Gardner Monday.

Gov. Gardner Monday named two committees-a finance committee and a warehouse committee-to investigate the practical problems of launching the co-operative organization. These two bodies also will report to City- man, who disappeared about 3 the general committee Monday.

Hemphill, of this city, while on fishing trip pulled in some hair on his book-long blond hair, it was thought to be, from the body of some woman. An investigation was started by the coroner, W. C. Hightower, to logate the body Saturday afternoon the bed of the harbor was dragged with grappling hooks and Sunday afternoon four divers tried to locate the body. These men emplored the entire hed of the harbor but could find no body. However, if there is a body in the lake it could be under some rock ledges that are under the water, according to the divers. The body could also be covered with mod on the bottom of the lake and especially if it had been there any length of time. There are some who think that the body is not that of a woman but that of Willie Bridges. Forest years ago and has not been seen since There were ouite a few strange in-
