HIS MEMORY WILL LINGER ON

In the death of McD. Horton, North Carolina, and especially Farmville and this section of the State, suffers a great loss. Up until a few years ago, when ill health robbed him of his activities, he was a substantial asset to the financial and political life of this community, having served his town and county for a number of years in the capacity of a commissioner and the State as a legislator.

Mr. Horton was a man who numbered his friends by his asquaintances, daily ememplifying in a true and never-to-be-forgotten way the spirit of the poet who said, "Let me live in a house by the side of the road and be a friend to man." This Mr. Horton did, often denying himself in order to accommodate another. We shall all mourn his demise and not without cause, but the memory of the things for which he stood will remain an inspiration to our community for years to come.

TIME TO PLANT LESS

We think the realization that it is necessary for the farmers of the nation, as a whole, to reduce the acreage under cultivation has now become quite widespread.

Farmers understand that a large part of their troubles have come from retaining under cultivation marginal lands which were put to the plow during the war, when the utmost possible production was stimulated by the high prices fixed by the Government for agricultural commodities. With half the world at war the United States had to feed more than half of 'the rest of the world. But that condition could not be maintained, and the American farmers' export market has been steadily falling off for the past ten years, since the rest of the world got back to its agricultural operations.

Our belief is that this export market is going to continue to diminish. Country after country which formerly was a steady and reliable customer for American wheat, cotton, meat and dairy products, is now raising nearly all of its own necessities.

We think that 1933 is a good year for every farmer to begin to try to help himself and his country by cutting down his planting by anywhere up to 50 percent. If all farmers agreed to this they would find, by harvest time, that they were getting higher prices than they have dreamed of for years. They could pay off their mortgages, buy the new equipment they need, and so start the wheels of prosperity spinning again.

We don't know what is going to happen to the domestic allotment plan of farm relief which has been discussed in Congress, but we think that in offering an inducement to the producers of staple crops to reduce their output, it is headed in the right direc-

They will have very little baggage to take with them when they leave Washington on that day . Mr. Hoover will accompany the new President to he Capitol, but his plans do not conmplate remaining there to listen to nis successor's inaugural address. Instead, he will meet Mrs. Hoover at the railroad station, shortly after noon, and they will take a train for New York to catch a ship which is sailing that night for California.

Democrats in Control Twelve years of uninterrupted Republican control of the Federal Government are practically at an end. The Democratic Party is in more complete control than it has been since the first Administration of Woodrow Wilson, which began just wenty years ago. At that time only few persons on either side of the Atlantic anticipated the great European war, and fewer still had any emote idea that the United States would be dragged into it. Yet it is the events which occurred during the war which are at the roots of the conomic troubles from which the United States and all the rest of the world are suffering.

By all odds the biggest job ahead of the Roosevelt Administration is abolishing any number of civil ser- the following described Real Estate: the adjustment of the international vice posts. planting is under way in every part ing out of the war, and the effort to restore international trade upon which the prosperity of the United States still greatly depends. Mr. Hoover had asked for authority to make certain reorganizaions, which authority was denied im. He never requested any such broad powers as it is proposed to coner upon President Roosevelt, and he loes not believe that any President hould be exempted from the control and review of his acts by the Conress. relieved by Black-Draught

"I decided to take Thedford's Black-Draught, as I had been having bilious spells," writes Mr. Charles E. Stevens, of Columbus, Ind. "When I get bilious, I feel sleepy and tired and do not feel like doing my work. It is hard to tell how I feel, but I do not feel good. I get awfully dizzy. I know then that I had better take something. After I found how good Black-Draught is, that is what I have used. I guest it rids me of the ble, for I feel better - don't feel like I am dropping off to sleep every time I sit down. That, to me, is a very bad feeling." Now you can get Black-Draught in the form of a SYBUP, for CHILDRING,
