MAKE THE BANKS SAFE

It takes a long time for a democracy like ours to get into action. Once it does get into action, however, it sometimes moves pretty fast. It took the people of the United States a long time to make up their minds that the war which began in Europe in 1914 was our war.

It has taken the people of the United States and their leaders a long time to come to the realization of the fact that the banking and financial structure of the nation should be completely overhauled and reorganized.

We think that general agreement has now been reached in regard to the banking situation. We think the new Congress and the new Administration have the people of the United States solidly behind them in their purpose to put into effect such changes in the banking and fiscal laws of the nation as will not only straighten out the present difficulties, but prevent their recurrence in the future.

We do not think that the time has come for the Federal Government to go into the commercial banking business, but we do think there is a good deal of merit in the idea that all banks should be under Federal supervision and control.

The function of a bank is to furnish short term credit for productive business purposes. Practically all of the banking troubles of today are due to the banks' departure from that sound elementary principle.

If the new Administration can speedily enact measures which will restore confidence in the banks and eliminate from control all men who have not a high sense of trusteeship, that will do more to inspire confidence than anything else that could be done.

BACK TO THE FARM

We have heard a great deal of talk about the "back to the farm" movement and we have been somewhat skeptical about a good deal of it. But some actual facts disclosed by the report of the President's Research Committee on Social Trends show that there has been a very definite movement of population from the town and cities back to the farm since the present depression began.

Investigators report that the farm population of the United States is today as great as it ever was. It had reached its peak in 1910 and then began to decline, but has been increasing steadily in the past three years. More than ten thousand men who have gone back to the farm from the cities and large towns in the past two years were asked why they made the move.

Naturally, most of the families who leave the cities for the farm are those who were brought up in the country. City folk without any rural background are likely to have a pretty hard time of it in making a living at farming. But nearly 15 per cent of those who have migrated to the land lately were city people without any previous farm experience, and many of these are reported to be doing very well.

only real stability for the average citizen is in having his own land under his feet, that the only people who are reasonably sure of a living, regardless of general economic conditions, are those who get their own living from the soil.

Strives To Avert Threats Of War

Leading Statesmen Of Europe Will Seek Peace In Personal Conferences

London, March 15.—Statesmen of Europe sought desperately today to reach a common ground of understanding and dispel the threat of war which again imperils peace on the continent.

Premier J. Ramsey MacDonald, leading in this effort to bring the powers together amicably before it is too late, will hurry to Rome for a conference over the week-end with Premier Benito Mussolini, it was officially announced.

Rome reported that Chancellor Adolf Hitler, Fascist head of Germany's new regime, planned to attend the conference there. Premier Raymond Daladier, of France, was on his way to Geneva tonight, Paris reports, to confer with Premier MacDonald again prior to the Rome conversations.

The United Press bureau at Rome reported Hitler was to confer with Mussolini and MacDonald this week-end, but at Berlin the foreign office denied any knowledge of such a plan. Hitler recently was reported planning to confer with Mussolini alone, probably before the end of the month.

Premier Daladier's decision to proceed to Geneva was taken in Paris to confirm the gravity of the international situation, particularly the collapse of the preliminary world disarmament conference at Geneva.

Daladier will join Foreign Minister Joseph Paul-Boncour at Geneva in defending the French demand for security guarantees before agreeing to disarmament.

MacDonald has announced he intends to present new plans as a working basis for the world arms parley, and the French expect this British proposal will include huge sacrifices of French land and air armaments and recognition of Italy's claim to naval parity with France—a claim she has never admitted.

Meanwhile, tension grew along the Franco-German border, where German Nazi forces maneuvered in what the French insist is violation of the treaty of Versailles.

The French foreign office, however, announced at noon that France had "obtained satisfaction" from the German foreign office, as a result of energetic French protests on the German Rhineland activities.

A formal note to Germany is being considered by the French cabinet in the event the maneuvers, or occupation of barracks along the Rhine continue.

In Berlin, President Paul Von Hindenburg decreed further changes in the German flag. The decree eliminated the black, red and gold of the republic from the corner of the present imperial black, white and red war flag of the old empire, and retained the iron cross.

Senate Approves Economy Measure

(Continued from page one) some effective in three months, and the President would have two years to fix regulations covering the reductions.

After that period, no veterans' reductions could be made except by Congress. Many of those who voted for the bill asserted they did so only because of the urgent necessity to "maintain the government's credit."

Most of the opponents on final passage expressed doubt as to its constitutionality. Clark of Missouri, for instance, contended it involved an "abdication" of legislative power to the Executive branch.

Mixes Varieties; Gets More Hay

Mixing Mammoth Yellow and Laredo soybeans resulted in a larger crop of hay for P. E. Burch of Mountain Park in Surry County who has been following this practice for some time now with excellent results.

Last year Mr. Burch conducted a definite demonstration with County Agent J. W. Crawford. Six plots were used and the soybeans were planted on June 29. In the first plot, Mr. Burch planted seven pecks of seed per acre, using one bushel of the Mammoth Yellow beans and one-half bushel of Laredo beans.

The mixture of Mammoth Yellow and Laredo produced 4,771 pounds of cured hay an acre. The Mammoth Yellow alone gave 3,518 pounds; the Ototoans, 3,518 pounds; the Bilozi, 3,515 pounds; the Hollybrook, 3,181 pounds, and the Laredo alone gave 3,010 pounds.

The hay was cut on September 16 and weighed on September 23.

Under conditions in Surry County, the Mammoth Yellow beans usually give a good yield of hay, but Mr. Burch has found by mixing this variety with the Laredos, he secures an even better yield. This is due to the Mammoth Yellows supporting the more recumbent Laredos and thus enabling a better harvest.

County Agent Crawford says Mr. Burch has been following this plan of mixing his upright and recumbent varieties for some years but had never proved his point by a definite comparison until last season. He is convinced now that the plan should receive more attention in that section.

Some Timely Farm Questions Answered At State College

Question: Under present financial conditions would it be best to plant cheap seed or cut the acreage and plant only pedigreed seed?

Answer: Planting cheap seed is the most expensive investment a farmer can make under any condition. Plant a smaller acreage to the best seed obtainable. The smaller planting will, in many cases, produce as much as the larger acreage planted to cheap seed.

Shipments of Broccoli are going forward from Scotland County by express until the crop matures to the extent that carlot shipments can be made.

Build Up Health and Pains Go Away

WOMEN who suffer from weakness often have many aches and pains which a stronger state of health would prevent. Women in this condition should take Cardui, a purely vegetable tonic that has been in use for over 50 years. Take Cardui to improve the general tone of the system in cases of irregular menstruation, "stomach nerves," indigestion, nervousness, etc. Cardui helps them to overcome pain and makes the monthly periods easier. CARDUI is safe and wholesome for women of all ages. Try it! Sold at the drug store.

D. A. E. Chapter Made Excellent Showing '32

(Continued from page one) The membership of this chapter includes many of the representative women from Farmville and neighboring towns, with one chapter member, a native Tarheel who has lived in Washington, D. C., for many years, having been able to attend only one meeting.

Financial disbursements during the past year showed expenditures greater than any since 1927, totaling around $950, and proving that the true measure of institutions as well as individuals is the manner in which they face crises.

The hostesses tendered a luncheon to the membership prior to the meeting which was held at the home of Mrs. P. E. Jones.
