

Prize-Winning Cartoon Of Public School Pupil

The above is a first prize cartoon drawn by Herbert O. Griffin, of the Seabury school at Garfysburg, one of nine named as winners in the contest conducted by the North Carolina Association of Real Estate Boards among public-school pupils of the state. Over 200 drawings were submitted in illustration of the part the sales tax has played in keeping open the public schools and paying the teachers. While a fine degree of technical skill was shown by many of the aspirants, the awards were made more for originality than for mechanical excellence.

Along with Herbert Griffin as winners of the three first prizes of $20 each, are Bill Wetzel, Jr., Gastonia high school, and Cecile Corbett, Mebane high school. The three second prizes of $10 each were taken by Donavon Twyne, Manteo high school, Frank Post, high Point high school, and Frank V. Linden, Claremont Central high school, Hickory. Winners of the $5 third prizes are Bertie Bell McLeod, of Central high school, Fayetteville, Ward Callum, Greensboro high school, and Bobby Crowder, of the Marion school at Shelby.

Judges in the contest were Dr. A. P. Kephart, of Woman's college of the University of North Carolina, Dr. E. O. Watson, Greensboro college, and B. C. Siske, state councilor of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics.

The saving power of the sales tax in the state's fiscal emergency is the central theme running through the more than 200 entries, but each cartoon had novel features. Appearing most often was the figure, representing the schools, sinking into the sea of depression with the general assembly casting a "sales tax" life preserver. Farm life and modern invention came in for picturization by many of the young artists. Mother Goose and the Pied Piper were called on, the latter appearing as the sales tax to lure away the money troubles of the schools. The three little pigs and the big, bad wolf were used by one of the contestants. Another had Peter putting his wife (the schools) into a pumpkin shell (the sales tax) and "there he kept her very well."

Reproduction of many of the better drawings is being made and booklets containing these will be mailed to interested persons on application to the office of the North Carolina Association of Real Estate Boards, Greensboro. Matrices of prize-winning cartoons are available for newspapers, school publications and other organs.

Peasant Designs Grace The Breakfast Cloth

It may be because so many bright colorful importations from peasant hand workers in Italy, Spain, and the Balkan states have been shown in the shops, or because a cheery and engaging simplicity is the mark of the present day mode, but, at any rate, peasant designs—particularly for table napery, are very much in style now. Like the picture shown above, many of the most popular table covers are being made of lacquered fabrics that are washable, stain proof, pliable, soft, light and have surfaces that look like linen, or damask or other fabric.

The cloth pictured is used as part of a cheery breakfast ensemble, the peasant design being in bright red and blue upon a background of tan. This is in unusually good taste for a breakfast set. The bright lively design and colors bring a note of cheer into the dining room at a time when it is most needed and the material, superlatively clean and neat in appearance, holds no terrors for the inept member of the family who may spatter the cream a little or be remiss in his or her usual polite dexterity with the egg cup.

CHEVROLET Engineering facts prove it. Experience in building nearly ten million cars confirms it. And the record of over 3,000,000 Chevrolet Six owners removes any shadow of doubt about it: The only way to get real economy in a low-priced car is to insist on SIX cylinders and OVERHEAD valves.

SIX cylinders—no more!—because extra cylinders mean extra cost for gas, oil, upkeep and parts. OVERHEAD valves—nothing else!—for the same good reason that airplanes use them. And speedboats. And racing cars. They get the MOST power out of the LEAST gas. That's why overhead valves are the choice of leaders—and champions. CHEVROLET MOTOR CO., DETROIT, MICH.
