arrangement of the home and preparation of meals, and will also have actual experience in the management of a home, in opportunities presented by designated week ends of each month, when the entire home will be turned over to various groups.

Miss Coggins, who has taught here for the past two years, rendering outstanding service in her branch of instruction, is a native of Spartanburg, S. C. She is a graduate of Winthrop College, Rock Hill, S. C., has had graduate work in the University of Tennessee, and studied for six months in the Dietetics Consolidated Hospitals, of New York.

SCHOOL PRESENTS SPLENDID EXHIBIT

The annual exhibition of the work being done by the seventh grade and high school pupils, held near the close of the year, won well merited praise and commendation from the hundreds of patrons and friends in attendance.

The specimens exhibited, neat and finished in every detail, reflected the various phases of work being done by the students throughout the year, and the event proved to be one of much value to students and visitors alike.

Athletics

With no money in the school budget for a coach or equipment, last year, but a keen realization of the importance of athletics in the life of a school, representation was attempted under the direction of R. H. Casson, in the football and basketball fields, with a spirited team, the Red Devils, whose slogan was "never die." A large number of good, clean, hard fought games were played during the season, though few victories were won.

Only four players were lost by graduation of students, and the coming season shows great promise for the high school in the field of athletics.

Assists With Salvation Army Campaign

In December the Student Council launched a successful campaign for the Salvation Army, with tag day being observed under the direction of Miss Doris Flowers, the president.

The reorganization of the Junior Red Cross was achieved by Mrs. Sula Moore, of Greenville, the projects undertaken being the collection of Christmas toys for underprivileged children, the selling of Christmas seals, to assist in the fight on tuberculosis, and the preparation of an exhibit of native dressed dolls, toy American automobiles and pictures, illustrating the history and beauty of the United States, which was sent to a foreign country.

Salesmanship Week

During the annual Educational Salesmanship Week, the Juniors and Seniors entered a magazine contest, which resulted in surprising achievements. The high school was divided into two teams, the Flying Cloud and the Westward Ho, with David Harris and Hazel Bass as leaders. The last named team won.

Around $65 was collected, 50 per cent of which was placed in the school treasury to be used in completing payments on the Encyclopedias in use in the school library and for the purchase of new books.

Glee Club

One of the most important of the school organizations is the High School Glee Club, designed to develop the musical and dramatic ability of the members, which at present number thirty girls.

With Miss Vivian Case as organizer and director, and Mrs. Haywood Smith accompanist, a number of charming and entertaining programs were presented during the year.

An American operetta, "The Feast of the Red Corn," was given in the fall, the dramatization of "The Nativity" at Christmas and a Hawaiian fantasy, in the spring.

Two members of the club, Misses Cora Lee Patterson and Ruth Hayes Turnage, won a rating of 3 points each in the State Music contest held in Greensboro, in April.

First Closing Event

Climaxing the social activities of the scholastic year, and the first formal affair of closing events of the High School, which concluded on May 14, one of its most successful sessions, under R. E. Boyd, superintendent, was the Junior-Senior banquet, at which David Harris, president of the Junior class, presided, and Miss Hazel Bass, president of the Seniors, was accorded special honors.

The American Legion hall, scene of the affair, took on the appearance of a garden, the banquet table occupying the center with places laid for seventy-two and decorated with pink and green, colors of the Seniors and lavender and yellow, Junior colors, pleasingly blended.

Commencement exercises of the Farmville high school, marking the closing of a most successful year, under the superintendency of R. E. Boyd began Thursday evening with the presentation of pupils by Mrs. Haywood Smith, piano teacher; Miss Eugenia Gray, violin teacher, in a recital program in Perkins Hall.

The thirty-three students, engaged in the study of music, made a creditable showing, and the varied and well balanced program won much praise from the large audience in attendance.

The seventh grade exercises, which were held on Friday evening, at 8:00
