LITERARY CLUB STUDIES NEGRO MUSIC

Mrs. Madeline H. Rountree, of Farmville and Washington, D. C., who is visiting her mother, Mrs. Dora H. Keel, was gracious hostess to the Literary Club on Wednesday afternoon.

Interesting facts and traditions connected with Mt. Vernon were used by the members in response to the roll call.

The program of the afternoon was based on "American Negro Music," a paper by Mrs. J. L. Shackelford giving the establishment of the Afro-American institution with the events following in its wake; slavery, War Between the States, Emancipation, attempt to obtain a position socially, all of which influences were shown as a means of giving to the American Negro his folk music, which has "provided the world with the only considerable mass of folk-music discovered in modern times."

Illustrating the three classes of Negro music discussed—spirituals, social and work—were selections rendered by Mrs. J. W. Joyner and Miss Mary K. Jerome, with a number by pupils of the latter, Misses Frances Russell, Frances Beaman and Martha Rasberry.

Mrs. Bert McCullom and Mrs. Lath Morris assisted the hostess in serving a sweet course, the colors of which, together with the plate decorations of cherries, carrying effectively the suggestion of Washington's birthday.

JUNIORS ELECT NEW OFFICERS

Featuring the semi-monthly meeting of the Junior Woman's Club, held on Saturday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Judd Walker, with Miss Elizabeth Davis as joint hostess, was the election of the following officers, as recommended by the nominating committee, of which Mrs. Mack Carraway was chairman: Mrs. Ted Albritton, pres.; Mrs. Julian H. Rumley, 1st vice-pres.; Mrs. W. P. Easley, 2nd vice-pres.; Miss Mary Friar Rouse, sec.; Mrs. Mack Carraway, treas.; Miss Evelyn Horton, reporter.

Miss Elizabeth Davis, retiring president, spoke feelingly of her interest in the Junior club work, and was given a rising vote of thanks for her efforts in behalf of the local club particularly during the past months.

In a paper, the subject of which was "Negro Poets," Miss Rachel Monk compared the lives and works of Erwin Russell, Paul Lawrence Dunbar, Claude McKay, James Weldon Johnson, Langston Hughes and Countee Cullen, the program being brought to a close with readings, illustrative of the style of each, by Miss Hazel Monk.

Miss Mary Friar Rouse talked of Better English Week, conducted an interesting contest on words commonly mispronounced and misused, and announced the receipt of the children's books, which are to be a donation to the Farmville Library by this group.

Individual cherry pies served a la mode and hatchet shaped mints, suggestive of Washington's birthday, were passed, together with salted nuts and black coffee.

P-T. ASSOCIATION

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Hobgood, the February meeting of the Parent Teachers Association was presided over by Mrs. Mary M. Patterson, who called the meeting to order and asked the audience to join in singing the Battle Hymn for children.

The Girls' Glee Club under the direction of Miss Case sang a selection, "Night Shadows Falling," by Lamar, after which Rev. Wilson conducted the devotional.

Mr. Wilson later brought before the P. T. A. some comments on the educational program as outlined by Clyde A. Irving. After which he made a motion that the association send a request to our representatives to support the bill favoring Mr. Irving's recommendation for $22,500,000.

Miss Copeland presented an article from the Child Welfare Magazine on the subject of nutrition and this was followed by an address by Mr. J. W. Holmes, who was the speaker of the afternoon. Mr. Holmes talked on "Problems Facing Our School." He declared that the education of our children is the greatest problem ever having faced civilized people. He placed the major part of the responsibility for turning out moral citizens on the teachers rather than on the parents. In speaking of what the legislature is doing, he pointed out the fact that some other states have worse school conditions than North Carolina and suggested that we should not expect a complete school recovery in one year.

Dr. Smith gave a report of sanitary conditions in the school and made suggestions as to cooperation between teacher and pupil in reducing the amount of water used and in keeping grounds clean.

The room roll call was held and Miss Lucas' grade, four A, had more representatives. The highest attendance record for last month won the banner for Miss Copeland's grade, seventh-A.
