POPPY DAY TO BE OBSERVED MAY 25th

Saturday, May 25th, will be Poppy Day in Farmville. On that day the women of the Farmville Unit of the American Legion Auxiliary will distribute little red poppies on the streets to be worn in honor of the World War dead. The observance here will be part of the annual nationwide observance of Poppy Day, during which millions of Americans will pay tribute to the memory of the war dead by wearing Memorial poppies.

A large corps of volunteer workers will be organized to carry out the distribution of the flowers. The poppies which will be worn here have been ordered from Department Headquarters of the American Legion Auxiliary at Lexington, N. C. and were made by the families of disabled World War Veterans at Oteen.

In exchange for the poppies, the Auxiliary women will ask each person to make a contribution for the welfare of the war's living victims, the disabled veterans, the widows and the fatherless children of veterans. This money will be used entirely in the welfare work of the Legion and Auxiliary, the bulk of it in the work of the local Post and Unit.

FOUR PERSONS INJURED IN 3-CORNERED WRECK

Wilson, April 15.—Alton Earl Askew, of Farmville, is held for the April 30th term of court on a charge of reckless driving and assault with a deadly weapon growing out of the wreck of three cars and injury of four persons at Ballard's Cross Roads Sunday night.

The injured, James Askew, Milton Shirley, Coy Gates and Josh Dixon, Jr., all occupants of the Askew car, were rushed to the local hospital for medical aid. They are suffering from minor fractures, cuts and bruises.

Askew is charged with running into the rear of a car driven by Mrs. Preston Elks as she started to make a left-hand turn after giving signals. A car parked at the side of the road was also involved in the wreck. Mrs. Elks sustained shock and slight cuts and bruises.

Prepare To Plant,
Using Good Seed

The season is at hand for the planting of farm crops in North Carolina and alert farmers will see that they have a plentiful supply of good seed on hand.

"The recent continuous rains over most of the State will delay planting somewhat but will give farmers the needed opportunity to get all of their planting seed in readiness," says P. H. Kime, plant breeding agronomist of the North Carolina Experiment Station. "Usually it will pay to reclean cotton seed as well as the cowpeas, the soybeans and other seed now on hand. Only the best seed should be used because poor stands mean poor acre yields. Tests made of cotton seed, especially from the eastern part of the State, indicate a low percentage of germination. I would suggest that every cotton farmer give his cotton seed a germination test before planting."

Also before planting, Mr. Kime urges that the land be harrowed and well prepared for the seed bed. He says this preparation work is as important as cultivation later.

Those who are in doubt as to the most suitable varieties of cotton, corn and other crops to plant in their immediate sections can obtain the results of variety tests from Mr. Kime and it may be possible to yet obtain planting seed of the adapted varieties.

Mr. Kime says farmers in the southeastern portion of the State who may want to hog-off corn and soybeans this fall should plant Jarvis golden prolific corn and Herman soybeans for this purpose. These two varieties mature early and provide an excellent source of feed for pigs.

THE SAVIOUR'S BIRTH

The calculations of an Italian astronomer say that this is not 1935, but 1946. Read this unusual story, which tells interesting facts of the Christian era. One of many articles in the American Weekly (Issue of April 28), the big magazine which comes regularly with the BALTIMORE SUNDAY AMERICAN. Your favorite newsdealer or newsboy has your copy.

W. JASON TURNAGE

Having known the deceased for near a quarter of a century, I wish to gather a few of the graces that made his life so serene and weave them into a chaplet to place about the neck of youth, that there may be to them a Rosary.

Mr. Turnage was most industrious. He ate not the bread of idleness; for more than forty years he regularly rose early and worked to his place of business. It is said that the villagers set their watches by the daily walks of Emanuel Kant, in the Prussian province. So regular and punctual were Mr. Turnage's habits, that one might almost have done the same by him. His long and useful life was blighted by only a few months of sickness between his regular work and his demise.

Mr. Turnage was a clean man. Clean and neat in his dress and person. He always dressed tidily, not as "a Lord Chesterfield," but becomingly to his person and station in life. This carefulness of his appearance was but the expression of the inner life; for he was clean in his language and thoughts. Jesus said, "Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh." If his conversation flowed from within, then it came from a pure fountain; for in all my association with him I never heard him use an unchaste word nor speak disrespectfully of any human being. Nor did I ever hear him impugn the motives of any one. In an atmosphere so charged as ours with this deadly fault, it is heartening to find one soul not blighted by its poison.

He was a man of genuine culture and sincerity. To day much that is sheer veneer and patronage passes for culture. A philosopher has said, "One's character can be read in the purchasing of a toy." It is then the little things done, when in the ordinary course of duty, that tell what we are, not when on parade. Character is truth, honesty and reverence in our being flowing out through every deed and word. If this will pass for culture, he was most cultured indeed. I have observed him as salesman in the store many times as he waited on the elite and humble. His manner, service and conversation was the same to all. He wrapped his packages just as neatly (and all his work was very neat), and passed it over the counter with the same courtesy, when serving the humblest of God's creatures as when serving those more pretentious.

He was a citizen of the first magnitude; a husband devoted to his family; a father patient, loving and trustworthy and a believer in the higher destinies of life.

He loved his family ardently, labored willingly for their support, and when the "Day was done," he loved the easy chair under the evening lamp with his paper and surrounded by his family. No bright lights nor gay parties held the charm for him that the soft, quiet ease and peace of "Home Sweet Home." When day faded into twilight, you found him at home.

If I have understood the teaching of the Master anywhere, He came to build into men real character, and here He had not failed. "The elements were so blended in him, that you might say to all the world, there stands a man!" Such a life cannot die. He is not dead, but just gone on to a more glorious country, and to be with Saints made perfect.

—C. B. MASHBURN.

THROUGH STATE

ties in the Ninth Congressional District privately express the hope that Congressman R. L. Doughton will decide to remain the presiding officer of the House Ways and Means Committee instead of running for Governor. So many potential candidates are getting ready to run for the Doughton Congress seat, in the event he quits it, that the cautious are fearful of results in the Ninth District. They believe that too much competition for the Democratic nomination might cause splits that would throw the District to the Republicans.

CHERRY BLOSSOMS—Representative R. Greg Cherry, of Gaston, chairman of the House finance committee, fared better than Senator Newman in the revenue scrap. Cherry is all but an announced candidate for Speaker in 1937 and a lot of the boys are saying he can have it on a silver platter. Representative Morphew, of Graham County is also a strong candidate for the Speaker but the Cherryites say he would not oppose the Gaston lawmaker. These campaigns for Speaker start early and are carried on while you sleep.

TROUBLE—The forecast is that heavy seas are ahead for Senator R. R. Reynolds when he runs for reelection in 1938. The latest candidate to stick his head out is Representative Tam C. Bowie, of Ashe County. Judge Bowie is known in these parts as the dictator of Ashe and the man who led the economy bloc in the Legislature of 1933. But the Ashe man has not been quite as strong this session and a lot of his fellow members are saying nice things about him. It's not much trouble to find a Senator or Representative who claims to have discussed the Reynolds situation with Representative Bowie.

ILL WINDS BLOW GOOD—Recent investigations of conditions in the State's prison system are likely to be productive of some good after all. The attention of State as well as that of the Legislature was focused on conditions brought about largely by reduced appropriations of 1933. This General Assembly gave the prison a better break in order to correct the evils of its predecessor and placed a stamp of approval on the plan to fire-proof the fire-trap central prison in Raleigh. It also appears that some improvement in the parole system, will come as a result of better legislative knowledge of prison conditions.

WORKING—Col. T. LeRoy Kirkpatrick and John S. McRae, both announced Mecklenburg County candidates for Governor, have been working around legislative halls recently and it is probable that they may have asked some of the boys for a little assistance. It is noticeable that the State Capitol during sessions of the General Assembly is a favorite stamping ground for varying degrees of candidates.

Kept Taking Cardui Until She Got Rid of the Severe Pains

When Mrs. Ida Hago, of Edinburg, Ind., was in a painful, run-down condition, she took Cardui, with the results she describes below: "I had just been what one might say dragging around, feeling miserable and all out of sorts. I remembered how Cardui helped my aunt. I sent for six bottles of Cardui and when I had taken them, I was much better and stronger. I did not suffer so much pain. I continued taking Cardui until I had taken nine bottles. I do not have the severe pains. . . . Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician."
