NEW DEAL CLUB

Members of her card club and several other friends enjoyed an afternoon of contract at the home of Mrs. S. A. Roebuck Friday, which was most attractive with its decorations of fall flowers.

As the guests arrived they were served punch by Mrs. I. E. Satterfield and Mrs. W. Leslie Smith, and novel tallies, passed by Mrs. L. T. Pierce, directed them to places at the four tables.

Mrs. Grover H. Webb, received as a new member at this time, won the high score prize, dusting powder, and Mrs. I. E. Satterfield, winner of the visitor's prize, was awarded a doll duster.

A delicious salad course was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. D. R. Morgan, Mrs. P. E. Jones and Mrs. Judd Walker.

HONORS BRIDE-ELECT

Miss Mae Joyner entertained at a lovely party Wednesday afternoon at her home on Contentnea street, in honor of Miss Viola Etheridge, of Stantonsburg, bride-elect of the month.

Arranged in a setting of early fall flowers in varied colors in the reception rooms were four tables, at which bridge was played, the award for compiling high score in the games, a box of dusting powder, going to Mrs. W. S. Royster. The honoree was presented with an electric toaster.

A delectable salad course was served to the players and other guests invited for refreshments, by the hostess, assisted by her sister, Miss Lottie Lane Joyner, Miss Elizabeth Fields and Miss Evelyn Horton.

Quality Of Grapes Affected By Harvest

A mistake frequently made by vineyard owners is that of picking the grapes before they are fully ripe.

Gardner offered a few general observations before maturity it is not easy to determine just when they are ripe, he added. The ability to tell when a grape is ready for picking comes largely from experience.

Immature grapes lack the necessary sugar and solids to keep well and to develop a full, rich flavor after picking, says Prof. M. E. Gardner, horticulturist at State College.

Development of flavor and aroma, color according to the variety, the turning from green to brown of the ends of the stems on the bunches, and the easy pulling of berries from the stem. Tasting a few berries pulled at random from the vine is also a guide.

Small pointed shears should be used in removing bunches from the vines, with the stem being cut close to the bunch so the point will not puncture other clusters.

After picking, the grapes should be placed in the shade of the vine until they are packed or carried into the packing shed. All defective grapes should be removed from the bunches before they are offered for sale.

When the bunches are well trimmed and packed closely in the basket with the stems down, they will be in a good condition for shipping and will present an attractive appearance.

The muscadine grape, not of the bunch type, is hard to ship and therefore is used largely at home and in nearby markets for wine, grape juice and for fresh consumption.

Laxative combination folks know is trustworthy

The confidence thousands of parents have in good, old reliable, powdered Theford's Black-Draught has prompted them to get the new Syrup of Black-Draught for their children. The grown folks stick to the powdered Black-Draught; the youngsters probably will prefer it when they outgrow their childish love of sweets. Mrs. C. W. Adams, of Murray, Ky., writes: "I have used Theford's Black-Draught (powder) about thirty years, taking it for biliousness. Black-Draught acts well and I am always pleased with the results. I wanted a good, reliable laxative for my children. I have found Syrup of Black-Draught to be just that."
