FARMERS AND TOWNSEND PLAN

(Chariton, Iowa, Herald-Patriot)

One of the arguments advanced by supporters of the Townsend pension plan is that it would bring about a distribution of wealth.

The National Industrial Conference Board, in a study made public this week, agrees, but points out that it would be a "drastic" redistribution of the national income at the expense of millions of wage earners, salaried employes, farmers and owners of small businesses.

Taxes required under the Townsend plan, the board found, would amount to nearly half the total national income. It was further reported that the cost would be more than half of all wages and salaries, eight times as much as all dividends and more than three times the gross cash income from all farms.

Farmers would suffer, it was declared. The proposed two per cent transaction tax on gross agricultural income would take away a considerable share of profit from the small number of farmers who have net incomes and force others to reduce their standard of living, the board said.

Other findings were: Under the Townsend plan corporations would be forced to pass the two per cent transaction tax to the consumer in higher prices or go out of business. Even in 1929 most corporations had no net income or net income was less than two per cent, of the gross.

Wage earners and salaried employes would suffer a lower standard of living because their purchasing power would decline due to higher living costs, and two per cent of their earnings would be regularly taken away by the tax.

The adoption of the Townsend plan would cause a collapse of prices of all fixed income-bearing securities, and would make it impossible for the government to obtain loans at a reasonable rate of interest.

The Townsend plan would cause wholesale bankruptcies of real estate concerns, and destruction of capital on which the security of urban real estate mortgages depends, which in turn serve as a backing for life insurance policies, bank deposits and other forms of savings.

The total cost of government would increase to about $40,000,000,000. The necessary sums would have to be obtained in the end by means of general inflation of prices and depreciation of the value of money.

LIBERTY UNDER THE CONSTITUTION

(Plymouth, Wis., Review)

Today certain critics are subjecting the American Constitution to vigorous attack. They are saying it is outmoded and unable to cope with modern conditions. And they are suggesting changes and amendments which, in some cases, would amount to complete emasculatation of the rights and liberties we now enjoy under Constitutional protection.

Let us not be too hasty about changing this document of which a major portion is devoted to protecting our rights and liberties. The constitution has been amended many times, and may be again, but never in such a manner as to abridge the rights of freedom of speech, freedom of the press, and the other inalienable rights guaranteed within it.

It is usually easier to criticize than to defend, and the critics of the Constitution have found many listeners and not a few converts. Let us forget the virtues of this marvelous document, let us recall the words uttered in 1878 by England's greatest statesman, William Gladstone:

"The American Constitution is, as far as I can see, the most wonderful work ever struck off at a given time by the brain and purpose of man."

Some things are timeless. Among those things are freedom—freedom of action within the law, freedom of expression, freedom of speech. The Constitution has nothing to do with booms or depressions—nothing to do with partisan politics, nor have those who interpret it, the Supreme Court of the United States.

The Constitution guarantees us these essential liberties for which men fought for thousands of years. How much would the citizens of Germany, Russia, Italy or Poland give for a constitution such as ours? It is our most precious inheritance, and we have a duty to see to it that it remains as inviolable as the stars in the firmament.

THE HOMEMAKERS' WEEK END
by
Yours Truly Interested

Thrilling, enjoyable, and helpful, are descriptive adjectives which might be employed with equal emphasis in relating the experience of the first group of Homemakers, who were "at home" in the attractive and comfortable Home Ec Cottage last week end.

THRILLING? Was it thrilling to stuff your week end bag with your "hissarrest" pajamas, cold cream, tooth brush and other numberless and amusing articles, which the femininity cannot possibly dispense with while "tripping," no matter how short the time or distance may be? It was indeed thrilling to spend two whole days making play of work and three nights on a sleeping porch with some of your "veribest" friends.

ENJOYABLE? To sleep in the beds you had painted yourself, hang your clothes in the closet spaces you had helped plan and arrange, roll up the window seats, punch up the red cushions, wash and dry the dishes, sweep and dust—take care and use for an entire week end the varied furnishings, for which you had sacrificed your nickles and dimes and your time and efforts for months in their joyous assemblings? Oh, it was an enjoyable experience to live in this transformed and enchanting place, which is a dream house come true!

Enjoyable to hostesses and guests alike was the lovely dinner party, given the first evening when the Superintendent, Mr. J. H. Moore, and two other friends, Miss Russell Ward and Yours Truly Interested, who had eagerly accepted the invitation to dine, were present; and the informal tea the next evening, when Mr. and Mrs. Moore, the trustees, and their wives—Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Morgan and Dr. and Mrs. P. E. Jones, and the County Superintendent D. H. Conley were guests, and conversation and tea were so pleasantly combined.

HELPPFUL? Was it helpful to have the entire responsibility of the home, (though the "Miracle Maid," as vivacious and charming as she is intelligent and industrious, was "among those present"), to plan the menus, prepare the three meals each day, varying the service, family and formal style? To enact the roles of host, hostess, chef, cook and waitress?

Oh, it was a jolly week end to Edna Rasberry, Helen Willis, Mary and Effie Lewis and Elsie Mae Carraway, and to their instructor, Miss Alice Coggin, who is so zealous and capable in her teaching of the greatest of all arts—Homemaking.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS!

There are now many imitations of Orange. Success breeds imitation. But, there is still only one Orange, as every tobacco grower knows who has used it. Over a period of many years Orange has been challenging all comers. During the past four years 37 growers have tested it against 71 competitive plots, using every well known competitive brand on the market. What happened? Orange's 4 year average in these tests shows that it produced $49.40 per acre more—nearly $100 per ton extra!

Do you wonder that we say "beware of imitations"?

Do you wonder that we say—Orange will outgrow, outproduce, outqualify and outdo in every way any tobacco fertilizer known.

Do you wonder that we say—if you want the kind of tobacco Orange grows, you've got to buy Orange!

IF YOU WANT THE KIND OF TOBACCO THAT ORANGE GROWS YOU CAN GET IT ONLY FROM ORANGE!

The next best tobacco fertilizer you can buy is S-D JAMACA. Thousands of satisfied users prefer it to any other tobacco goods made.
