All of the shipment made to Farmville unit being disposed of by noon, with the sum of $80.00 realized.

CONTRACT CLUB

On Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. N. Neal Howard was hostess to her card club at the home of Mrs. G. M. Holden. Four tables were placed for the games, the artistic flower arrangement featuring sweetpeas, and ragged robins. A bridge set was awarded Mrs. H. H. Bradham, a special guest, who held high score after the usual number of progressions. A frozen salad course was served.

GARDEN CLUB

A program, of many interesting features, was enjoyed by the members of the Garden Club at the home of Mrs. Charles H. Moxing on Monday afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock. After the business session, Mrs. B. S. Sheppard, delegate to the state Garden Club convention, held in Raleigh in May, gave a vivid account of the meeting and especially of the lovely gardens opened to the visiting gardeners.

A paper on "Making the Backyard Livable," prepared by Mrs. G. E. Moore and read by Mrs. F. D. Warren, portrayed the uses and beauty of an outdoor living room as a place for pleasure, work, recreation and as an ideal place to enjoy delicious meals during hot summer days.

A selection, "Color in The Garden," depicting shrubs and plants for a succession of colorful charm, was read by Miss Tabitha DeVisconti, who also presented a gavel made of holly good to the Club. Mrs. Florence Thorne, in graciously presenting a book, "Gardens and You," by Molly Anderson Haley, to Miss Bettie Joyner, chairman, assured her the poem was applicable to her.

Mrs. D. A. Clarke was welcomed as a new member. The club song, with piano accompaniment by Mrs. T. E. Joyner, was used in the opening, and the Garden Club Prayer in closing the meeting. There was an enjoyable social hour, during which Mrs. Moxing, assisted by Mrs. J. L. Taylor, served a tempting ice course and wafers.

The oat crop of Gaston county has been damaged approximately 50 per cent through the attacks of aphids. The wheat crop shows practically no damage.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON CLUB

Mrs. H. H. Bradham entertained the Wednesday Afternoon Club at an afternoon of contract, enjoyed at three tables placed in a setting of summer flowers. Mrs. J. G. Spencer, high scorer, received a lovely blue tinted vase, and Mrs. R. A. Lindsay, who is leaving soon to make her home in Tarboro, was presented with a lovely gift. Mrs. Van Staton assisted the hostess in serving a delectable salad following play. Special guests were Mrs. Lindsay, Mrs. J. Branch Bobbitt and Mrs. W. Alexander Allen, Jr.

BROWNIE GOES WEST!

A little boy's heart is sad! He goes about his small tasks halfheartedly; laughter and his gay whistling call have left his lips; the light of happiness in his eyes has been overshadowed by a lonely cast, which is pathetic to his family; bones, scraps and a choice morsel of meat are still collected after each meal, through force of habit; a strained listening for the patter of tiny paws on the veranda and at his bedroom window is observed; his wagon, once drawn so proudly through the streets, is forsaken, and the ball, thrown for retrieving, has to be chased by himself now; the once favored game of hide-and-seek is avoided, and a narrow trail, which leads to a certain cleared and shady spot in the cool depths of a nearby wooded glen is fast becoming a beaten path.

A little dog is dead! (Brownie, pal of Wallace Barrett was killed by a hit-and-run driver Sunday, May 30, 1937.)

LITERARY CLUB

The Literary Club met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Minnie S. Warren as gracious hostess. The vice president, Mrs. John B. Joyner, presided and requested reports from Miss Annie Perkins, chairman of the program committee, and Mrs. W. M. Willis of the book committee.

The program, unusual and interesting, dealt with famous pirates, men and women, and was developed by the hostess and Mrs. B. S. Sheppard, who used the discussion method in presenting their subjects.

At the conclusion of the program the hostess served sandwiches, ham, beaten biscuit, iced tea and a variety of cookies.

Soil-Building Crops Are On The Increase

North Carolina farmers who cooperated in the soil conservation program last year increased their acreage of soil-conserving crops by 550,000 acres, according to E. Y. Lloyd, of State College.

After tabulating figures compiled from the work sheets covering the cooperating farms, the State AAA office announced that 1,800,000 acres of conserving crops, mainly legumes, were seeded last year as a direct result of the program or in connection with it.

An even larger acreage is being seeded this year as farmers take advantage of the opportunity to build up their soil, check erosion, and balance their farming operations while earning payments from the government, Floyd stated.

He also pointed out that last year some 550,000 acres of cotton land were diverted into conserving crops; 200,000 acres of tobacco land and 40,000 acres of peanut land were also diverted.

By diverting cash crop acreage and carrying out soil-building practices, North Carolina farmers earned $12,403,903 in 1936. Similar rates of payment are offered again this year, Floyd added.

In 1936, more than 127,000 work sheets were signed, covering 14,500,000 acre of farm land. Of this acreage, 5,750,000 acres were considered "top land."

With additional work sheets signed this year, it is expected that 150,000 or more work sheets will be in force for the 1937 program, Floyd pointed out.

The deadline for signing a work sheet is June 12. However, farmers who had work sheets last year will not need to sign again.

Strip-Cropping Helps In Soil Conservation

Farmers in the Huntersville area of the Soil Conservation Service report that they are finding it much easier to establish rotations where strip-cropping is practiced, according to John C. Shiver, assistant soil conservationist.

Such crops as small grains, sorghums, legumes, and grasses are readily adaptable to the strip cropping and fit in well in strip rotations with clean-cultivated crops. Strips can be used to establish terrace lines, making it possible to build terraces at a more convenient time.

Width of the strips is dependent upon the slope of the land and requirements of the individual farmer, Shiver said. On gentle slopes it is considered good practice to lay off the strips 20 to 30 feet wide and on steep slopes 40 to 50 feet wide.

Stokes County farmers report one of the best small grain crops in history. With favorable weather until harvest they expect higher acre yields than in several years.

REPORT ON TUBERCULOSIS SEAL FUND

Mrs. K. B. Pace, Treasurer of the Pitt County Tuberculosis Seal Sale Fund, has just released a report through the Pitt County Health Department of the expenditures from January 1st to June 1st.

The Seal Sale Fund is used in an effort to control tuberculosis among patients who are unable to provide proper control for themselves.

A summary of the Treasurer's report is as follows:

	White	Col.	Total
Sputum cups			$11.75
Clothing	$ 8.96	8.96
Pneumothorax	$15.00	15.00	30.00
Moving picture films			22.00
(on T. B. control used in the schools.)
Milk	$45.15	$38.80	$83.95
X-Ray	38.00	81.00	119.00
Miscellaneous			2.14

This makes a grand total of $273.10. The Treasurer also reports that the total amount raised during the last Seal Sale was $1,002.15. The State Tuberculosis Association received 20 per cent of this or $200.43 and the National Association received 5 per cent or $50.11, leaving 75 per cent or $739.11 for local use.

The total amount raised the previous year, 1935, was $80.40. This means that the sale for 1936 showed a gain of 25 per cent over 1935.

The Health Officer declared that the Seal Sale Fund, which, of course, was contributed by the generous citizens of Pitt County, was proving invaluable in the control of tuberculosis among the poor people of the County.

Since the two terracing units were bought by Rowan farmers 165 farms have been partly or completely terraced covering 4,062 acres with 374 miles of broad base terraces constructed.
