"DUD" SHELL INJURES 4.

Camp Riley, Minn.—A "dud" shell exploded within a foot of where four Iowa National Guardsmen were standing. Flying fragments struck them in the legs, painfully, but not seriously, wounding them. The shell had been picked up by the men and passed from hand to hand and laid on the ground nearby when it exploded. It is believed to have lain on the ground for several years from previous drifts on the reservation.

Cleveland County crops appear to be unusually good this year, reports John L. Reitzel, assistant farm agent.

The largest corn crop in several years is in prospect for Durham county this year, according to W. R. Pace, farm agent.

MISS TYSON HOSTESS

Miss Mary Thorne Tyson entertained a number of friends at a delightful party on Wednesday evening at her home on Grimmersburg street. Various games and contests were introduced by the hostess, who served a sweet course at the close of the merry evening.

JOINT HOSTESSES

Misses Elizabeth Coppedge, Frances Newton and Julia Dean Tyson were joint hostesses at a lovely party held at the home of Mrs. J. M. C., Greensboro; Joe Joyner, Ras Jones, Carolina; George Patterson, A. C. C., Wilson; Bob Wheless and one of the hostesses, Miss Coppedge, will attend Mars Hill.

The spacious veranda was arranged with flowers and lights and four tables were arranged for bingo and monopoly. A sweet course was served at the close of the games by Misses Becky Wheless and Elvira Tyson.

Guests were in addition to those honored by the affair; Miss Frances Smith, Miss Doris Rouse, Miss Marjorie Nicholas, Miss Lillian White Gardner, Howard Harris, Jack Yelverton, Julian Smith and Jim Satterfield.

LITERARY CLUB

The Farmville Literary Club held its initial meeting of the new club year on Wednesday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. W. C. Askew, who had as special guests the chairmen of the various women's groups here; Miss Bettie Joyner, the Garden Club; Mrs. J. W. Parker, representing the United Daughters of the Confederacy; Mrs. Wesley R. Willis, the Merry Matrons; Mrs. W. M. Willis, the American Legion Auxiliary; Mrs. Henrietta M. Williamson, the Daughters of the American Revolution, with Miss Tabitha DeVivanti, the retiring president, officially representing the Literary Club and giving its history. The other chairmen gave the achievements of their respective groups during the past year and objectives of this. Several of the honored guests were members of the Club.

Mrs. J. H. Darden led an interesting study of the life of Margaret Deland, from her book, "If This Be I."

A contest relating to prominent people was conducted by the president and hostess, Mrs. Askew, who afterwards served a delicious salad course assisted by her daughters, Mrs. Bert McCullum and Mrs. J. W. Joyner. Marigolds and other fall flowers in shades of yellow were artistically arranged throughout the Askew home near Farmville.

Well Managed Birds Pay Biggest Profit

The poultryman who has a well managed flock is the poultryman who will receive the biggest returns from the fall increase in egg production.

A few pointers on good flock management have been set forth by Roy S. Dearstyne, head of the State College Poultry department.

Pullets should be about ready for the laying house in September, he said. The house should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected before the birds are placed inside.

Broken window panes should be replaced, and if drop curtains are used on open-front houses, these should be checked for needed repairs.

Cull all pullets carefully. Market all sub-normal birds, especially those with excessive bleaching of shank and face parts. These birds are usually carriers of coccidiosis.

Do not change pullets from growing mash to laying mash until they have reached 25 per cent production. Then change the mash gradually over a period of two weeks.

Don't buy cheap mash—it is the most expensive in terms of results produced for money spent. Keep a good grade of mash before layers at all times. See that they have plenty of fresh water.

Practice rigid sanitation to keep the death rate down. Keep accurate records on the flock. Without records, the poultry business is a hit-or-miss affair, mistily miss.

Good breeding males are essential but scarce. If these have not been secured, get them at once.

September is a good month to plant grazing crops. A mixture of Italian ryegrass and crimson clover sown in September will provide excellent winter and spring grazing.
