WASHINGTON FARM NEWS-WAR FEARS COSTLY NEW FARM LAWS IMPORTING FARM PRODUCTS

(By Hugo S. Sims, Washington Correspondent).

If the nations of the world could get rid of their war fears then the price of American farm products would go up immediately and our surplus production would have a Surplus Commodities Corporation. market abroad.

It should be realized that Germany and Italy have been paying enormous subsidies to increase wheat production in order to be assured of a supply in event of war. Something along the same line has been apparent in pork and lard production.

Foreign cotton markets have been leges. lost largely because of cheaper production elsewhere but they can be regained, very probably, if subsidy payments here enable American cotton to sell abroad at world prices. This solution, however, it not without serious Time To Plant Fall difficulties.

It might be worth while to recall that the world used less American cotton than in many years although season. Exports of lard, pork and ganic matter. other hog products - representing part of our corn crop-have fallen to the Nineteen Twenties.
