SHARING

TO SHARE WITH OTHERS—how many times have we dreamed of the blessed privilege of contributing such sums as would really count in strengthening the agencies which are laboring for the happiness and welfare of the most people. What a dream! What an impulse! Worthy and commendable. Would we seek its fulfillment now or wait until our eyes are dimmed and our ears are stopped to mortal needs and cries? The answer is now.

Now, indeed, for thrice blest is the benefactor who yields immediately to the generous impulse—to share; first, in the giving of course, second, in the privilege of seeing happiness unfold itself to others through the fruitage of one's generosity, and the third blessing—an inevitable outgrowth from personal sacrifice.

A generous spirit, demonstrated so forcibly, during the past week by one of Farmville's foremost citizens is not a new thing to this community. Since he came here a young man of modest means some years ago he has never shown a miserly impulse. The members of his church will tell you that even then he often contributed his largest bill from a rather thin purse when special causes were presented. Heading the list of relief movements and civic undertakings here he has never turned a deaf ear to a meritorious effort for the betterment of the community. This does not mean that he gives promiscuously or would not resent an imposition of any sort.

We hope these words will not be construed as an eulogy or a special tribute of praise, we know this kindly, genial person would be embarrassed by either, it is simply an expression on our part of grateful acknowledgement for having in our midst in these days when Greed and Selfishness are rampant in the land, a spirit, alert to the need, and one which exemplifies the noble grace of sharing.

THE BRITISH LAY THEIR KEELS

During 1937 the British government had under construction 5 battleships, 21 cruisers, 5 aircraft carriers, 49 destroyers, 19 submarines, 3 depot ships, 24 escort, minesweeping and patrol vessels, 3 gunboats, 17 motor torpedo boats and 2 surveying ships—a total of 148 vessels.

There is talk of a program to be announced in a few months that will include three to five battleships, seven cruisers and a generous quota of destroyers, submarines and other light tonnage.

What are the British up to? It's easy; they plan a "two-hemisphere" navy, able to protect their interests in Europe and the Far East at the same time. That's what they built the base at Singapore for and there is no reason to believe that the British are going to try to make peace with the belligerent nations by crawling into a hole and hiding their heads.

TYPICALLY AMERICAN

Nineteen Governors, eighty United States Senators and two hundred Representatives recently signed a message congratulating the Irish government upon its new constitution.

Aside from the fact that most American citizens are hopeful that the British and the Irish will be able to settle their differences in friendly fashion we fail to see just exactly what business these officials have in sending such a message to President Eamon de Valera.

The American people are very quick to insist that the British mind their own business but, as this incident shows quite willing to take a hand in other people's affairs.

We do not criticize anybody for wishing the Irish republic the best of fortune but officials in this country should leave such affairs in the hands of the Department of State.

Never spend money before you have it and you will always have money.

Nearly the amount of food for livestock coming into Farmville County is decreasing as farmers realize more and more the savings they can make by growing their feed crops at home.

Roger Pollock of Trenton, Route 1, Jones County, produced 115.5 bushels of corn on a 100-acre acre of land last season with the county 4-H corn showing up. His labor income from corn amounted to $12.25.

Roosevelt's Message

said, "presupposes the cooperation of what we call capital and labor." Declaring that "the overwhelming majority of businessmen and bankers intend to be good citizens," and that "only a small minority" have engaged in practices which are dishonest or definitely harmful." Mr. Roosevelt asserted that "if attention is called to or attack made on certain wrongful business practices" the "condemned minority" distorts the criticism into an attack on all business. This, he termed, a "wilful deception that will not long deceive."

The President listed certain practices "which most people believe should be ended," including; 1st, tax avoidance through corporate and other methods; 2nd, excessive capitalization, investment write-ups and security manipulation; 3rd, price-rigging, the collusive bidding in defiance of the spirit of the anti-trust laws; 4th, high-pressure salesmanship, creating cycles of over-production and consequent recessions in production in given industries; 5th, use of patent laws to enable larger corporations to maintain high prices and withhold the advantages of scientific progress; 6th, unfair competition which drives smaller producers out of business; 7th, intimidation of local or state governments to forestall laws to protect labor by threatening to move elsewhere; 8th, the shifting of production in pursuit of the cheapest wage scale; 9th, abuses arising out of concentrated economic control of other people's money, labor and lives.

The President insisted that the "ownership of vast properties or the organization of thousands of workers creates a heavy obligation of public service" and those who seek "freedom from such responsibility in the name of individual liberty" are fooling themselves or trying to cheat their fellowmen." He insisted that "the nation has no obligation to make America safe for incompetent businessmen or for businessmen who fail to note the trend of business and continue to use the machinery of economics and practices of finance as an outgrowth as the cotton spindle of 1870." He pledged the cooperation of Government provided "the component parts of business abandon practices which do not belong to this day and age and adopt prices and production policies appropriate to the times."

While definite progress in collective bargaining has been made and the right of labor to organize has been recognized, "difficult situations have arisen" and "unfortunate divisions among the workers" have retarded production and the construction of homes and buildings has been hindered "not only by unnecessarily high prices for materials but also by certain hourly wage scales." For economic and social reasons, the President thought it desirable, 1st, to increase the wages of the lowest-paid groups in all industry, and 2nd, to begin thinking more in terms of the workers' total pay for a year rather than by the hour or by the day.

Mr. Roosevelt warned that "no Government can help the destinies of people who insist on putting sectional and class-consciousness ahead of general weal" and declared "there must be proof that sectional and class-interest are prepared more greatly than they are today to be national in outlook."

While some matters have been improved by remedial legislation, there are some particulars where the legislation has failed and "we cannot be sure whether it fails because some of its details are unwise or because it is being sabotaged." Nevertheless, "if private cooperative endeavor fails to provide work for willing hands and relief for the unfortunate, those suffering hardships from no fault of their own have a right to call upon the Government for aid; and a Government worthy of its name must make fitting response."

"I GROW TOBACCO"

I HAD A FINE TOBACCO CROP LAST YEAR... MY BEST YET. AND THE CAMEL PEOPLE BOUGHT THE CHOICE PART. PAID ME MORE THAN EVER GOT BEFORE. SO I KNOW THAT CAMELS USE FINER, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCO. CAMELS ARE THE CIGARETTE I SMOKE MYSELF AND MOST PLANTERS FAVOR CAMELS CAUSE A MAN WHO GROWS TOBACCO KNOWS TOBACCO SURE ENOUGH.

THE man who really knows tobacco—the growers themselves—pick Camels as their favorite cigarette, according to George M. Crumback. If you are not already a Camel smoker, begin now to enjoy Camels—the cigarette that is made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCO, Turkish and Domestic.
