

Farmville to Have New Warehouse This Season

Merchants, Planters and Bankers To Become Warehousemen Also.

Fountain's new warehouse, modern and equipped with the newest of facilities, was built as a means of continuing the progress and development of the market and is a brick and mortar testimonial of R. A. Fountain and Sons' tremendous faith in the future of Farmville as a tobacco sales center.

Starting as a small country store-keeper, thirty-seven years ago, at a cross roads, which later developed into a wide awake and progressive town and was named for him, R. A. Fountain proved to be an honest, dependable friend and merchant. As a consequence Mr. Fountain's business grew by leaps and bounds until the Farmville section as well as his own and others nearby began to recognize the owner's qualifications as a successful and efficient business man, who lent his energies to promote the welfare of his customers and community.

As the years went by Mr. Fountain's sons, Robert A., Jr., and John, grew to manhood and took their respective places as assistant managers in the business, which has continued each year to produce a greater volume of patronage under their guidance.

As Farmville citizens have expressed from time to time their appreciation to R. A. Fountain & Sons for this expansion of warehouse space which will doubtless bring many new customers to this market, stimulate interest and friendly competition and serve as an avenue of progress, so we bespeak for them the liberal support they deserve from citizens of Farmville and community.

Tobacco Honey Scarce

Washington, D. C. — There is no surplus of honey. Officials of the Agriculture Department said a check-up on supplies showed that virtually all the 1937 crop had been consumed. Honey producers no longer must depend on a breakfast table market. Large quantities of honey are now used in making pipes, including that for casing and flavoring tobacco.

Recent heavy rains damaged the Martin County tobacco crop considerably.

Tobacco Market Opens Aug. 25th

Five more days before the opening of the Tobacco Market. Bring your tobacco to the Farmville Market where the highest prices prevail.

Raleigh Bachelor Leaves $97,700.00

Raleigh, Aug. 19. — Legacies totaling $97,700 were provided under the will of James Moore, 80-year-old Raleigh bachelor who died Tuesday.

The largest single bequest went to Moore's housekeeper, Miss Lalen Wood, who will receive the income from a $30,000 trust fund.

George Boddie Gatling, will receive the income from a $10,000 trust fund.

A total of $5,000 was left to the University of North Carolina, and a similar amount will go to Christ Episcopal church, of Raleigh. The remainder was willed to relatives and friends.

Hard Storm Hits At Morehead City

Morehead City, Aug. 19. — Morehead City's storm warning system was the target of a terrific rain and thunder storm which crashed along the coast Wednesday night on winds of gale-like force.

Lightning struck the high tower from which storm flags are flown but only minor damage was reported.

The storm was accompanied by a heavy rainfall which proved a boon to crops which have suffered sharply from dry weather during the last several weeks.

Who's Who In Farmville

A Directory of the Farmville Merchants Who Invite You To Sell, Buy and Bank In Farmville With Assurance of Their Friendly Interest In Both the Market And You.

B. S. and R. L. Smith

Filling an important place in the community and serving one of its greatest needs are the stock stables of B. S. and R. L. SMITH, where the buying, selling and exchange of farm animals goes on throughout the entire year. This business, one of the oldest in the town of Farmville, is run by B. S. Smith, an experienced stock dealer, and his son, Robert Lee, who is an aggressive and successful young business man.

B. S. AND R. L. SMITH always have a large and dependable lot of mules and horses on their yards and are ready to assist you at any time in selecting the most necessary part of your farm equipment, first-class stock.

Rose's 5c, 10c and 25c Store

The Farmville ROSE'S STORE was remodeled several months ago, modernized, expanded to include double floor space and filled to the brim with select goods of almost every conceivable kind at unbelievable low prices.

The local branch was the 28th of the 103 ROSE'S STORES to be opened, and has received the hearty support and patronage of the entire community since being established. This is a city like store in size, appearance and stock.

W. H. Fisher, the present manager of the local store in Farmville has, during the year and a half he has served here, built up for himself a reputation for honesty and friendly dealing, which is a great asset to the business.

Wheelers Drug Company

Twenty seven years of high class service has given a distinctive position to the WHEELERS-DRUG COMPANY, conducted and managed by J. M. Wheeler and a standard excellence marks the complete stock of drugs, and sundries to be found here with the handsome, sanitary and fountain a popular feature.

The prescription business takes precedence over by other phases of service rendered the public, the training and experience of "Jim Wheeler" and his son, J. M. Wheeler, Jr., resident druggists, eminently qualifying them for this high vocation.

Robert Patterson, another son, and Miss Mary Barbee assist in rendering prompt fountain and counter service.

Pender's Grocery

The Farmville branch of the nationally known grocery firm, D. Pender, moved several months ago to a new location—the R. L. Davis Bros. office building remodeled to suit their needs opened with a modern sanitary meat market and an enlarged stock of heavy and light groceries and fruits.

A guarantee of fresh and varied table supplies, together with courteous and ready service have contributed largely to Pender's position as a food center in Farmville.

Corbett's Garage

The business of repairing and caring for automobiles, which extends life and power, is a stupendous one that requires knowledge, experience and painstaking effort.

CORBETT'S GARAGE, which was moved to new quarters, next to the Post Office, this week, is widely known as a garage of superior workmanship, being owned and managed by J. C. Corbett, a skilled and conscientious mechanic whose work can always be depended upon as being finished in every particular when he "O'Kays" a job.

Mr. Corbett says his policy of dependability and fair prices will continue to prevail in the new shop. He invites you in.

During the past 19 years, North Carolina has developed from an insignificant lespedeza state to a present acreage of probably over 800,000 acres and millions of pounds of seed produced, reports the State Department of Agriculture.

HALF HOLIDAYS OVER

The half holiday period, observed by business firms here on Wednesday during the summer months for the past few years, have come to a close for this season, and doors are now open every Wednesday afternoon, with "business as usual."

Business will doubtless be much busier than usual now with the market opening and thousands of visitors coming in daily.

Never forget that public education is the bulwark of democracy.

A Message To Farmers of The Bright Leaf Belt

Fountain and Sons Ask Opportunity To Serve.

The warehouse firm of R. A. Fountain and Sons is new this year but we come with years of experience, individually speaking, in growing, selling and active connection with auction sales on warehouse floors right here in Farmville.

Realizing the great possibilities of the FARMVILLE TOBACCO MARKET, we cast our lot with it, the Farmville people and farmers of the section.

It is far from our policies to advance a single, unfounded claim but we earnestly request all tobacco growers to visit us, bring a load and watch our sales.

Owing to the short time in which we had to complete our house for the opening we could not take the time to visit our many farmer friends this season, and so we ask you to visit us instead. We came to Farmville to serve you and request of you the opportunity.

We will guarantee Service, Satisfaction and Highest Market Prices.

We are interested in the FARMVILLE MARKET ALONE, we are giving it our entire thought and effort and we plan to make a record for our warehouse. (Adv.)

Survey Of Crops Near Completion

Raleigh. — The North Carolina department of Agriculture's annual farm census survey, giving complete information on the acreage for all 1933 crops, will be completed by September 15. Farm Census Supervisor S. M. Hines announced yesterday.

Farmers desiring copies of the Farm Census, which will appear in the fall "Farm Forecaster," should write the Statistics Division, N. C. Department of Agriculture, Raleigh.

Tabulations of the crop reports furnished by county tax listers, were begun May 15. North Carolina is the only Southern state rendering this service.

Although the number of exhibitors was doubled last year, officials of the State Fair, to be held at Raleigh October 11-15, expect a further increase this year.
