MEDICAL AID PLAN IN THE DAKOTAS HELPS 84,000 FAMILIES NOW IN 18 STATES

(Huge S. Sims, Washington Correspondent.)

The Farm Security Administration announced today that with the cooperation of the state medical associations and other professional groups of North and South Dakota it has worked out plans to provide emergency medical care for eligible low-income farm families of the two states at a cost of $2 per month per family.

Dr. W. W. Alexander, Administrator, said the medical aid plans for North and South Dakota were based upon the experience of the FSA with similar plans in these and 16 other states. Already, he said, 58,000 low-income families are being helped to obtain medical care at a cost they can afford through the cooperation of state medical associations in those states.

The state wide programs in North and South Dakota, which should increase this total to more than 80,000 families, went into operation November 1. They have been approved by Dr. R. C. Williams, Medical Director of the FSA, and the state medical, dental, pharmaceutical, nursing and hospital associations of the two states.

About 37,000 families in North Dakota and 40,000 in South Dakota or about half the farm families of each state, will be eligible to participate. Already 25,000 families in North Dakota are participating in a program now being superseded by the new plan, which will be open to all families who are now being, or have been aided by the Farm Security Administration.

The Administrator said the FSA would loan to each family signing up for the medical aid program $16, or the equivalent of $2 per month for the balance of this fiscal year. This money will be placed in the hands of special corporations in each state composed of federal and state officials and members of the state medical associations.

The fund will be allocated by each corporation on a pre-arranged basis between physicians and nurses. It also will be divided into equal sums for the eight months covered by the program.

Families signing up for the program will then be eligible for emergency medical, dental, or hospital care from any organizations. Bills for the services will be paid by the state corporations set up under the plan, and if the funds available for a given month are not sufficient to cover the bills, they will be prorated.

In each state an officer nominated by the professional organizations, but paid by the state health departments, will serve as general medical supervisor and arbitrator. One of his duties will be to check the bills submitted by the professional practitioners to prevent excessive and unnecessary charges.

Dr. Alexander explained that the Farm Security Administration had embarked upon medical aid programs in the Dakotas and 16 other states because it had found medical attention was required in its efforts to rehabilitate low-income farm families and make them self supporting.

"Quite aside from any humanitarian purposes," he said, "the Farm Security Administration has found, as a leading agency, that a family in good health is a better credit risk than a family in bad health. It has developed plans for medical care because it has found that good health is a necessary part of a family's rehabilitation."

Plans developed by the FSA in other states to provide medical care for its borrowers are similar but on a smaller scale than those provided in North and South Dakota. In all cases they have been worked out only after understandings have been reached with state and local medical associations.

In some cases the funds in the hands of trustees are kept separate for each family. Doctor Alexander said, however, that experience with the two plans clearly indicates that for low-income families the program being applied in the Dakotas is preferable. In case of catastrophic illness it is impossible for any family in this income level to pay individually for hospitalization and special medical care without financial ruin; yet it is unfair to ask a physician to handle such cases on the nominal fee available.

The pooling of funds, he added, serves as a form of voluntary insurance against disaster for the patient and against unreasonable hardship for the doctor.

The medical aid plans, Doctor Alexander said, have encouraged a same assistance of more effort in the way of preventive medicine. In many areas, local physicians have served the families with little or no compensation and families have responded with more interest in preventive medicine.

Dr. Alexander said the plan is being applied in other states. He said the plan is being applied in other states. He said the plan is being applied in other states.

plans are now in operation in 26 of Arkansas; 70 counties in 13 counties in Missouri; 12 counties in Mississippi; 9 in Texas; 5 in Alabama, Georgia, and Ohio; 4 in Tennessee; 3 in Indiana and Oklahoma; and 2 in Iowa. Agreements have been reached with state medical associations in those states.

The program brought in North and South Dakota have made wide plans necessary. The influx of migrants from the "dust bowl" area into California has required setting up a special medical care program in that state, also.
