Trade, based upon taking advantage of another, rarely proves profitable.

The more prejudices a man has the louder he talks about his individualism.

Almost anybody can tell a man what he thinks about him over the telephone.

Careless Advice: Pray to be delivered from the man who knows it all.

Americanism: When you win at bridge, it's brains; when you lose, it is the cards.

We do not know the answers to all questions; in fact, we haven't heard all the questions.

When American interests coincide with British interests we see little sense in denying it.

It is about time for all of us to pay more attention to our diets. This is true but, first, get yourself a diet.

The individual who settles all problems on the basis of his, or her, personal experience settles no problems.

You can't imagine what is the matter with the world until you listen to the sidewalk solons give their views.

You can get more sense out of newspapers when you realize that they report what human beings do and think.

The world might be better if people would practice their own religion more and try less to force it on other people.

The United States supplies Japan with what it requires in order to wage war upon China. For one, we are getting tired of it.

Correct this sentence: "I would like the job but I understand that my friend wants it and he needs it more than I do; give it to him."

Now that the commencement oratory is about over, the nation can take the next eleven months to try out the theories propounded:

A girl, despondent, jumped out of a window on the tenth floor of a hotel. She says she fell gave her a new interest in life—go ahead and try it!

If the law of supply and demand is operating anywhere in the world scientists might hasten to the spot in the interest of discovering how it works.

Farmers are undoubtedly injured by the protective tariff, which makes them pay more for the things that they buy and tends to rob them of their foreign market. Even so, there are business men, who benefit from the tariff, to denounce the benefits that the government is paying to farmers.

FIREWORKS DANGEROUS

Early next month the people of the United States will celebrate Independence Day. Some of them will give vent to their feelings through the use of fireworks.

It may be worthwhile in this connection to point out that in 1938 there were eighteen deaths due to the celebration of the Fourth of July with fireworks and other explosives, and seven additional deaths indirectly due to the same cause. In addition, the records of the American Medical Association show nearly 5,000 serious injuries of all kinds from fireworks accidents during the observance of Independence Day last year. Among the accidents were 200 eye injuries, 43 of which resulted in blindness in one or both eyes.

Farmers Who Burn Woodland Penalized

No benefit payments will be made to a farmer who burns his woodland.

FIXED INCOMES FLUCTUATE

With the Federal Government entering its tenth year of unbalanced budget next month, and with the average American keenly interested in individual income, it might be a good idea for us to understand just what income amounts to.

Ordinarily, one would suppose that an individual who had an income of $2,500 in 1938 and the same amount in 1939 received the same compensation for his contribution to society. This, however, is not the case. Because the cost of living in 1939 was about nineteen per cent in what is known as "real" income.

Actually, the purchasing power of his $2,500 in 1938 was nineteen per cent greater than in 1939. This fluctuation in the buying power of the dollar often raises and lowers income.

The average individual, however, makes no allowance for the variation in the buying power of his wages or salary. The man who receives $100 a month measures his income almost entirely by the number of dollars he receives. In fact, he should be just as acutely aware of a drop in the buying power of his dollar as he is in a reduction of the number of dollars that he receives.

It is interesting to point out in this connection that in 1938, the national income dropped eleven per cent, being estimated at $64,000,000. This compares with $82,700,000,000 in 1929. However, due to the fact that the cost of living in 1929 was about nineteen per cent higher than in 1938, the buying power of the 1938 national income was equivalent to $76,000,000,000 in 1929.

Farmers in Pitt County should not lose sight of the importance of the buying power of the money that they receive for farm products. They have a tendency to judge their condition by the price of the products they sell. It is just as important for them to measure the purchasing power of the dollars that they receive.

Realizing these facts, the progressive farmer of today keeps up with the index number of prices received by the farmer for the products sold and also checks up on the cost of the commodities that the farmer must purchase. Not only must the farmer know the price that he gets for his products, but he must learn to measure this price in terms of purchasing power. In a word, there is more to agriculture than growing and selling crops.

STATE COLLEGE ANSWERS TIMELY FARM QUESTIONS

QUESTION: How soon can tobacco be harvested?

ANSWER: Harvesting should begin when the bottom leaves begin to turn yellow. The first leaves can be pulled a little greener than later pickings, if the leaf is mature. Only uniform, ripe, well-developed leaves should be pulled as this uniformity in priming will add much to the quality. In normal seasons tobacco should be primed each week for best results. Proper care in handling the leaves so they will not break or bruise will pay dividends in a better quality and grade of the cured weed.

QUESTION: What can I do to control red spiders in my cotton?

ANSWER: Dusting sulphur, applied at the rate of ten pounds an acre to the infested plants, will give good results. The treatment should be repeated one week after the first application. If the cotton is infested with plant lice (aphids) one application of a dust prepared by thoroughly mixing one pint of commercial 40 percent nicotine solution with each 20 pounds of the regular calcium arsenate dust used for boll weevil will control this pest. The application should be made when the cotton foliage is dry and the temperature high.

QUESTION: How can I keep cream from spoiling between shipments?

ANSWER: Immediately after separating, place the can containing the cream in cold water so that the cream is below the surface of the water. The cream should be stirred occasionally to hasten cooling. Keep the container in cold water and in a storage place free from dust and odors until ready for market. Do not add warm cream to the cream that has been cooled as bacterial action of the cold cream will be stimulated and the quality of all the cream endangered. During the summer months the separator should be adjusted to deliver a 35 to 40 percent cream as high test cream keeps in good condition longer than that with a low test.

Farmers Who Burn Woodland Penalized

No benefit payments will be made to a farmer who burns his woodland.

WOODLAND NOT ONLY DESTROY VALUABLE TIMBER, BUT IT KILLS VEGETATION WHICH CONTROLS EROSION AND PREVENTS WASHING OF ADJOINING CULTIVATED FIELDS.

The AAA officer said the State Triple-A Committee will act in cases where a farmer owns land in counties other than the one where the offense occurs.

"The county committee will consider each case of burning woodland in the light of information furnished to it by community committeemen, local and State supervisors, representatives of the State and U. S. Forest Services, and any other person who is in a position to furnish satisfactory information. The Forest Services are requesting their representatives to report all such cases coming to their attention directly to the appropriate county AAA office," Floyd said.

The penalty for burning-over woodland is a part of the Federal Farm Act of 1938, and applies to all parts of the Nation.
