Merry Matrons Celebrate Twenty-Second Birthday

Valentine Season Suggested in Motif and Colors Used by Hostesses This Week

Hostesses, at parties and meetings of this week, continued to use with pleasing effect the red and white color combination in floral decorations and refreshments and the heart motif of the Valentine season. Red and white carnations, narcissus, and Japanese quince have predominated in the arrangements of flowers, used as a setting.

A lovely affair of the week was the birthday celebration by the Merry Matrons on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. A. W. Bobbitt. More than half of this group of twenty women, who celebrated the 22nd birthday of the organization, were charter members. The Bobbitt home was beautifully decorated with Japanese quince, daffodils and winter jessamine.

Mrs. M. V. Horton conducted the entertaining program. Comic Valentines were passed and read by the members, after which the game of hearts was played with Mrs. A. W. Bobbitt winning the high score award, a heart shaped box of candy, and Mrs. B. O. Turnage receiving the consolation, a red and white nosegay.

Heavenly hash was served, followed by coffee and cheese straws. Mrs. George Monk was a special guest of the hostesses.

Mrs. L. O. Moseley and Mrs. J. M. Mewborn, of Kinston, were hostesses at the February meeting of the Major Benjamin May Chapter, D. A. R., held in the Chapter house. Mrs. Henrietta M. Williamson presided and Mrs. C. S. Eagles, of Saratoga, conducted the meditation.

Mrs. Joel Moye, of the National Defense committee, talked briefly of activities of her group and the committees appointed in connection with the State meeting to be held in Wilson, March 4, 5, 6, reported plans underway to assist in entertainment of the delegates and visitors.

The program of the afternoon was featured with a talk by James Fleming, of Greenville, on the subject of "Applied Christianity." Mr. Fleming, who resided in France until a few months ago, gave the Chapter members an insight into religious activities of a country, the name of which is synonymous with gaiety. Mr. Fleming illustrated his talk with pictures and portrayed the French people on the whole as a nation interested in its soul.

Refreshments were served in the banquet room on the second floor. A red and white runner with white candles in silver holders graced the colonial table, which had a centerpiece of mixed cut flowers carrying the chosen colors. Ices with the heart motif, cake, salted nuts and cranberry punch were served by the hostesses.

The monthly meeting of the Rebecca Winbourne Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, was held this week with Mrs. Charles Mazingo as hostess. The program, continuing a study of noted statesmen, was developed by Mrs. J. W. Parker and Mrs. G. M. Holden, who discussed the lives and careers of Edward Carey Walker and James E. George, of Mississippi. Stuffed angel cake, coffee and nuts were served after adjournment.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Hubert Joyner were gracious hosts to the Couple Club this week, when Mrs. Arthur F. Joyner and Dr. W. M. Willis won the club prizes, and Mrs. Pat Ruffin the guest award. The Valentine idea was carried out in detail in table appointments and the delectable salad course. Mr. and Mrs. Pat Ruffin were special guests of the hosts.

Members of the Lamrad Club played several interesting progressions in the club tournament series this week at the home of Mrs. Ted L. Albritten. Seasonal suggestions were noted in the refreshments. Mrs. E. E. Pickett was a special guest at this time.

Mrs. T. S. Ryan and Miss Frances Winstead delightfully entertained the Junior Woman's Club at the attractive new home of Mrs. Ryan, in which spring flowers were used in pleasing arrangements.

Mrs. J. Leroy Parker presided and discussed the Diphtheria Immunization movement, which is being undertaken in a cooperative effort by Farmville club women, and the sewing project, which is to be among the spring activities of the club. The club voted to send letters of approval to Representatives and committee-men regarding the proposed $100,000 Library appropriation for North Carolina.

Featuring the program of the afternoon were papers read by Mrs. C. W. Blackwood and Miss Mary Frier Rouse on Argentina. During a pleasant social hour, a fruit salad course, heart shaped sandwiches, coffee and candies were served.

Mrs. W. Watson Kaffer was a special guest of the hostesses.

One of the loveliest parties of the late winter season was that of Wednesday afternoon, at which Mrs. Alton W. Bobbitt entertained members of the New Deal Club and honored Miss Eva Mae Turnage, bride elect. Attendants, Mrs. Roy Fiser, Miss Mary Frier Rouse and Miss Geraldine Gardner, the mothers of the young couple, Mrs. B. O. Turnage,

FATHER AND SON NIGHT

The Father and Son Night, anticipated by the Farmville Boy Scout Troop and their Scoutmaster, C. L. Ivey, for some weeks, was held Wednesday evening in the Rotary room with Irvin Morgan, Jr. acting as master of ceremonies. Rev. B. B. Fordham gave the invocation and Charles F. Baucom led in the singing of National songs.

A. L. Hodges, assistant Scout Executive for Eastern Carolina, entertained the group with amusing stunts and contests. Henry Davis made a talk as Son to Dad, to which his father, George W. Davis, responded.

R. LeRoy Rollins, P. K. Ewell and George W. Davis, composing the Scout committee, J. H. Moore, of the Rotary Club and the mothers of the Scouts, who prepared the excellent chicken dinner, were given a vote of thanks for their part in making the occasion a splendid success.

The meeting came to a close with the Scout Oath by Milton Williamson. Those present were; C. F. Baucom and son, C. A. Lilly and son, J. A. Gregory and son, A. C. Turnage and son, E. C. Carr and son, Bobby Smith and son, J. N. ElRamey and son, J. S. Gates and son, M. G. Thorne and son, L. E. Walston and son, M. V. Horton and son, Sam Hobgood and son, C. L. Ivey and son, George W. Davis and son, J. H. Paylor and son, Milton Williamson, Thurman Joyner, Rufus Skinner, Billy Batton, Edward Beckman, Jack Lewis, Lath Morris, R. LeRoy Rollins, Irvin Morgan Jr., P. K. Ewell, A. L. Hodges and Linwood Russell.

ANNOUNCES MARRIAGE
Mrs. Lila Smith Shirley, of Farmville, announces the marriage of her daughter, Mary Shirley, of Farmville and Raleigh, to Mr. Zack White, of Raleigh. The marriage took place on November 1, 1940, in the Baptist parsonage in Lexington. Mr. White is the son of Mr. and Mrs. K. A. White, of Marion, S. C. The couple will reside at 501 Capital Apartments, Raleigh.

WAGES
The general level of farm wages on January 1, at 124 percent of the 1910-14 average, was five points higher than a year earlier, says the U. S. Agricultural Marketing Service.

MAKES HONOR ROLL
Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Kemp are receiving congratulations from friends due to their son Vernon Douglas Kemp, making the First Honor Roll for the semester at Mars Hill College.

BIRD CLUB
Bruce Skinner reviewed the interesting life of John James Audubon, the great American Woodsman at the last Bird Club meeting. Bruce revealed the fact that Audubon's father was a French Naval officer and though the boy was born in New Orleans, he spent his boyhood days in France. At the age of 17 he returned to America and began his travels for the study of birdlife. His works, "Birds of America" was published in England in 1839. His paintings were exhibited in Edinburgh and he was elected to membership in the most prominent societies of Science and Art in England. The home of the naturalist, Mill Grove, Penn., is a fine example of 18th century country homes.

An article on the Jack Miner Bird Sanctuary in Canada, was read, which related to the sending of young mocking birds by plane several years ago from Manteo, N. C. in the hope of establishing them in this sanctuary, and thus the wings sent to a sister country have carried a burden of song and friendship.

DR. C. E. MOORE BURIED THURSDAY

Wilson, Feb. 12.—Dr. Charles E. Moore, 86, one of the first surgeons in Eastern Carolina, and the guiding hand in building one of Eastern Carolina's first hospitals here, died Wednesday afternoon from pneumonia. He had been ill for several weeks.

Final rites were held Thursday afternoon and interment was made in Maplewood cemetery.

Mrs. R. A. Parker scored high and Mrs. D. R. Morgan had low count among the club members in the games, and received floral gardens as awards. Miss Geraldine Gardner won the guest prize, a baking dish. Miss Turnage was presented with silver in her chosen pattern by the hostesses.

Heavenly hash was served on angel cake and hostess plates of candy hearts, salted nuts and cheese straws were passed with demit tasse.

Mrs. W. Alex Allen was gracious hostess to the Wednesday Afternoon Club. Sprays of lovely Japanese quince were used in the floral decorations of the Allen home on Church street. Mrs. James B. Lang was winner of the high score prize for club members, a Farmville cook book, and Miss Frances Joyner received the guest prize, a heart shaped box of candy.

Heavenly hash, angel cake, coffee, nuts and candies were served after the games.
