

Washington Notes

SALUTES.
Depending upon intelligence, sportsmanship, individuality and co-operation to develop proper morale and discipline in the Army, the War Department announces that the rule requiring the saluting of officers off post has been abandoned.

GRAND COULEE.
The first generator will begin operating at Grand Coulee Dam on the 22nd of March, which means that the dam will go into use two years ahead of schedule. Containing 11,500,000 cubic yards of concrete, the dam, 4,900 feet long and 550 feet high, is said to be the largest structure ever built by man. The eighteen generators are installed and will produce 1,974,000 kilowatts of electricity, compared with 1,322,800 at Boulder Dam and about 850,000 at Dniebrostroy, Russia, the third largest dam in the world.

GREENLAND.
Radio communication between this country and Greenland will be effective sometime in April. Two Coast Guard cutters will go to Godthaab, Greenland, to maintain communications.

DEFENSE.
Defense savings bonds, stamps and certificates will go on sale about May 1st at postoffices, banks and department stores functioning as outlets for the new financing.

AIR TOUR.
Major-General Frank R. McCoy and three companions recently left Washington on a 28,000-mile air tour of the American Republics. During the trip, the General will visit aviation leaders in twenty republics to discuss the future development of aviation. After visiting Cuba, Haiti, Dominican Republic and Puerto Rico, the plans will travel down the east coast to South America, return along the west coast route and go through Central America and Mexico. It will return to Washington June 2nd.

AVERAGE FARM.
The average American farm in 1940 was seventeen acres larger than in 1930, according to the Census Bureau. The merging of farms in the Mid-west due to drought, increased mechanization, higher taxes and lower farm land prices, explains the increase to 174 acres.

GAS MASKS.
A Government-owned plant to make charcoal for gas masks will be constructed at Fostoria, Ohio. The plant will cost about $1,000,000. Meanwhile, the War Department has placed "educational orders" with five companies for the manufacture of low-cost civilian gas masks.

MAIL.
The Postoffice Department reports that eight ships, carrying mail from this country to foreign destinations, have been sunk during the war, causing a loss of $8,501 sacks of mail. With one exception, the ships went down in the Atlantic. The other ship hit a mine in the Indian ocean.

NEGRO BRIGADE.
For the first time in the Army's history, a field artillery brigade is being organized to include three all-Negro artillery regiments.

STEEL.
Speculation about the adequacy of steel production capacity has been answered by a report from the OPM, showing ample production facilities to meet domestic, defense and civilian needs, as well as those of nations trying to uphold democracy abroad.

"WESTERN UNION"
Latest best-seller brought thrillingly to life on the screen by 20th Century-Fox is Zane Grey's "Western Union." Technicolor production which starts Sunday at The Paramount Theatre. A trigger-fast action film of the roaring West, it depicts the building of the telegraph line from Omaha to Salt Lake City. Produced on a spectacular scale, "Western Union" has a superb cast headed by Robert Young, Randolph Scott, Dean Jagger and Virginia Gilmore.

"Western Union" opens in the boom days of Omaha. Answering the East's plea for a rapid means of communication with the West, a Western Union caravan under Edward Crofton (Dean Jagger) is headed Westward across prairie and plain where death stalks swiftly and silently as the answer of the wire is sent.

Drama and romance are deftly combined with the thrilling adventure as Robert Young and Randolph Scott vie for the affections of Virginia Gilmore. Told by the incomparable Zane Grey, this greatest story of the West has been filmed with compelling realism and is recommended entertainment for all.

Looking at Washington

Specific objection was made to the wide discretionary power granted the President and same sentiment was evident for a straight-out loan or gift in money which would enable the British to buy supplies in this country.

It is almost impossible to estimate the potential effect of the American decision to place its immense productive capacity in the service of nations fighting the aggressors. No country in the world can approach the output of the United States, nor has any country wealth or resources that compare with ours.

Once the policy is fully implemented, as will be the case in the event that the war continues for two or more years, the weight of material and equipment provided by the United States will gradually overcome the preponderance now possessed by Hitler. Even so, military experts are divided on the question whether the British, together with the other fighting nations, can successfully organize an attack which will overcome the combined forces of the dictators in Europe.

Our policy will continue "short of war" unless Germany, Italy and Japan declare war upon the United States and, even in this event, it is possible that, as far as Germany and Italy are concerned, our efforts will be confined to defensive action, including the possibility that our ships may be used to carry supplies to Great Britain and our warships and planes may be used to defend them.

In regard to Japan, the situation is somewhat different. Undoubtedly the action of the American Congress has produced a profound impression upon Tokyo statesmen. It is generally recognized that the Japanese are afraid of the tremendous industrial strength of this country and that Nipon shrinks from a war with us.

If, however, in compliance with the Axis Treaty, Japan goes so far as to declare war against the United States in the Pacific, there is a distinct possibility that offensive action against Japan will be initiated. In our opinion, it is doubtful that Japan will declare war upon the United States and if Germany and Italy provoke a clash by attacking us, Tokyo will likely avoid engagements under the Axis by declaring her Axis partners the aggressors.

"Build-Up" Relief Explained to Women

A simple method has saved many women a lot of suffering. It is based on the fact that head-aches, nervousness, cramp-like pains and other symptoms of functional dysmenorrhea are due to malnutrition.

Help for this condition so often follows the use of CARDUI because it usually increases the appetite and the flow of gastric juices, thus aids digestion and helps build physical resistance. Good results are obtained quickly.

Many who take CARDUI a few days before and during "the time" find that their next periods are better. Women have used CARDUI for many years.

COCORUETS NOW ENROLLING

Greenville, March 19.—According to instructions received at the Department of Public Welfare, the next enrollment for the C. C. C. will be from April 1, to April 30.

Places for 2,500 juniors will be made available for the Civilian Conservation Corps in this state. Pitt County will no doubt get a liberal allotment of placements.

It is anticipated at this time according to instructions that few colored boys will be called, general instructions as to age and allotment remain the same. Unemployed youths between the ages of 17 and 28, whose services are not needed in the community may enroll. Preliminary application blanks are available and registration for the next enrollment may be made at any time at the Welfare Department.

Japanese statelessness revolves around the central idea of taking what you can grab while the grabbing is possible.
