One of the easiest things in the world to do is to stand to one side and tell the rest of the people what to do.

It is rare that a man, sitting down to a good meal, suggests that, maybe after all, his wife cooks too much.

HALF THE LEGS IN THE NATION.

The critics of the government's foreign policy have something to shout about, at last!

Here we have a virtual stoppage of the import of raw silk, without regard to the welfare of half the legs in the nation.

The ladies, we know, simply cannot get along without silk stockings. Nobody blames the good ladies. Certainly, the men of the country do not.

So it has come to pass that this nation takes a more serious consideration of vague rights in the Far East and the halting of aggression than it does in the appearance of the well-turned calves of America. What an issue!

BOMBS AND U. S. GUNBOATS

Japanese bombs have been dropped upon an American gunboat, anchored across the river from Chungking, China.

Damage was superficial and there were no casualties. The Japanese have apologized and this apparently ends the incident.

In 1937 another gunboat, the Panay, was sunk on the Yangtze river by Japanese bombs which were dropped in a deliberate attack upon the American warship. The testimony of officers and newspaper correspondents, like Weldon James, definitely demonstrate that the Panay attack was intentional.

We do not know whether the attack upon the Tutuila was plainly deliberate or not but the incident illustrates the danger of the Far Eastern situation and the willingness of the Japanese to take risks.

A TREND IN THE WAR

The trend of the war in Europe may be judged by the fact that London had only one air alert in the month of July.

It was the most peaceful month the British capital has enjoyed since the Germans began bombing the great city in August, 1940.

In the months of May, June and July there were only twenty alerts and some of these were bomb free.

In the meantime, the German capital, Berlin, has probably had more alerts and received more bombs than for any similar period in the course of the war. This is indicative of what lies ahead of the Germans, who have yet to show that Berlin "can take it."

The occupation of much of the German airforce in Russia gives the British a distinct edge in bombing attacks and, what is more important, offers them the opportunity of surprising the numerical strength of the German air arm.

The United States, through the production of heavy bombers, is playing a big part in bringing about this new condition, which will mark an epoch in the conflict.

DEFENSE AND RURAL UNEMPLOYMENT.

There was an idea once that the Government of the United States in locating new plants for war industries would be able to do something toward establishing a balance between agriculture and industry.

Due no doubt to the speed required it has been almost impossible to plan the location of defense industries to take advantage of available labor supplies. It is not too much to hope, however, that future expansions in the defense program will result in some improvement of the situation.

C. D. Baldwin, Farm Security Administrator, recently told a congressional committee that the reemployment of millions by the national defense program has not yet made any substantial inroads into rural poverty. He pointed out that forty-five per cent of defense contracts were said to have been placed in North-eastern States where less than three per cent of the Farm Security Administration's needy rural families are located.

Mr. Baldwin, we are sure, was not complaining or attempting to interfere with the speedy development of national defense. He was engaged in making a congressional committee aware of the need of the Government of those States in which the Federal Government is doing the most.
