Mary Friar Rouse and R. D. Harris United in Home Ceremony Friday

Society Editor Weds Young Tobaccoist

Impressive in its beautiful simplicity was the marriage on Friday, June 19, of Miss Mary Friar Rouse and Richard Dixon Harris, which was solemnized at the home of the bride. The Rev. Marvin Y. Self, pastor of the Farmville Methodist Church, officiated, using the ring ceremony.

The vows were taken at sunset in the presence of relatives and intimate friends. Tall baskets of Picardy gladioli and ferns were used to enhance the beauty of the nuptial scene, and a white satin prieuxidieu was placed before the improvised altar for the final blessing.

A program of bridal music was rendered by Mrs. M. W. Lincke, of Nashville, aunt of the bride, prior to the ceremony, and Mrs. J. Knott Proctor, of Greenville, aunt of the bridegroom, sang "Because," by D'Hardelot, and "I Love You," by Grieg. The traditional wedding marches were used. Macdowell's "To A Wild Rose" was softly played during the ceremony, which was brought to a close with the singing of Lutkin's Benediction by Mrs. Proctor.

The bride, who was escorted and given in marriage by her father, George Alexander Rouse, wore a wedding gown of heavenly blue marquisette, fashioned with a yoke outlined with narrow folds of the material. It was made with a high neck and fastened down the back with self-covered buttons. The full skirt fell in a slight train. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls. A veil of blue illusion was held in place by a tiara and was of fingertip length. She carried a colonial nosegay of pink roses tied with pink satin ribbon.

The best man was John D. Dixon, uncle of the groom, and ushers were Allen Moore, David T. and Howard Harris, his brothers, and Edward Dixon, of Wilson, an uncle.

The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. William Howard Harris, wore an afternoon frock of French blue chiffon and a corsage of pink roses.

Following the ceremony an informal reception was held. Punch was served by Mrs. B. O. Turnage and Mrs. G. M. Holden from an ice punch bowl in which red roses were frozen.

Delicious chifon-pie salad and cheese straws were served. Centerpieces were old fashioned nosegays, which were given as favors.

LIBRARY NOTES

BIRD NOTES

The reading circle has chosen for its name Victory Reading Club. The Club met Friday at 4:00 o'clock and elected the following officers: Ann Moore, president; Joyce Tyson, secretary; Jennena Elkins, program chairman; Nancy La Moore, membership chairman.

It is requested that each member read and report on ten of the best books, but this is not compulsory for membership. From time to time a picnic lunch will be enjoyed at the swimming pool, under the chaperonage of one who is interested.

The meetings will be held on Friday afternoons at 4:00 o'clock at the municipal building. Boys and girls are eligible for membership and are invited to join.

At the Bird Club meeting Saturday, Frank Gerald Dupree discussed the Goldfinch as belonging to the canary family but of a different species. Of corresponding size and with the males as brilliantly colored as the canary, these birds are distinguished by their black wings and caps. They cannot sing as well either.

Gooseberry and raspberry patches and plum orchards are favorite nesting places for them; they do not nest until August . . . just when other birds have finished their year's brooding, the goldfinch begins to think of rearing a family. They raise their young in a veritable bed of down gathered from milkweed and thistles, with the bottom cushioned an inch thick. The female usually does all the nest building but her mate assists in carrying materials and feeds her while she is brooding.

Goldfinches are sociable minded and fly in flocks of at least a dozen. They feed largely on weed and grass seed.
