4-H Wildlife Camp Scheduled Aug. 4-8 Farm boys and girls who have conducted outstanding 4-H Club wildlife conservation projects during the past year have been invited to attend the annual Wildlife Conservation Conference at the Millston 4-H Camp in Richmond County the week of August 4-8. L. E. Harrill and Miss Frances MacGregor, State 4-H Club leaders of the N. C. State College Extension Service, are in charge of arrangements for the camp.

WALSTONBURG NEWS

Mrs. G. C. McIntyre and daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Beach, of Hopewell, Va., spent the week end here with Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Reddick. Imagine Reddick, Mr. and Mrs. Reddick's daughter, returned with them to spend a couple of weeks.

BIRD CLUB

At the Bird Club meeting Saturday James Thorne read an article regarding the distress signals given by birds when an enemy cat or snake invades their domain. Their distressed cries bring other birds in the neighborhood ready to sympathize, if not to join in the attack.

North Carolina Leads Region In Farm Income

North Carolina led all other states in the East Central Region, AAA, in total farm income, including cash income, value of products consumed in farm households, and government payments for 1941, according to a report received by E. Y. Floyd, AAA executive assistant of N. C. State College.

The report shows North Carolina's total farm incomes for last year as approximately $384,000,000, as compared with $288,000,000 in 1940.

Second in the region was Kentucky with a total of $266,000,000, and Tennessee was third with $264,000,000. Other states in the region, and their total farm income, were listed as follows: Virginia, $223,000,000; Maryland, $110,000,000; West Virginia, $82,000,000; Delaware, $42,000,000.

"These figures," Mr. Floyd said, "reflect a steady improvement in the financial position of North Carolina farmers. This can be attributed to several factors, among which are improved farming practices, soil conservation practices, and the marketing quotas programs of the AAA."

"Conservation practices carried out in the state during the past several years under the AAA program have helped increase the per acre yield of cotton and tobacco, two of North Carolina's principal money crops. Through the AAA marketing quota programs, farmers have produced farm commodities in line with demand and therefore have received better prices for their money crops. Removal of land from production of these crops has made land and labor available for production of crops which were used on the farm."

Recent figures show, he said, that per acre yields of cotton have increased from about 250 pounds during the 1928-32 period to more than 350 pounds in the past three years. Likewise, tobacco yields have been increased from 685 to 980 pounds per acre in North Carolina.

Waste Fats Needed To Make Explosives

Fats make glycerine and glycerine makes explosives to down Axis planes, stop Axis tanks and sink Axis ships. Dean L. O. Schaub, director of the State College Extension Service, says housewives can help supply the vital war material.

Dean Schaub has accepted the post as Chairman of the Consumer Division of the State Salvage Commission. Mrs. Martha T. Smith, assistant to the State home demonstration agent, is chairman of the Women's Division of the Salvage Commission.

The Federal Cartridge Corporation has provided funds with which the 60 delegates from 15 North Carolina counties will receive free scholarships to the conference. The Department of Conservation and Development and the U. S. Soil Conservation Service will cooperate with the Extension Service in providing instruction.

Lewis Cannon, permanent camp director, and Vernon Jeter, waterfront director at Camp Millston, will be on hand to help with the program. Recreation will play an important part in the week's activities.

Mrs. Charlotte Hilton Green, widely known Raleigh author and naturalist, will conduct nature hikes and teach courses in bird and plant life. W. J. Barker, assistant Extension forester of State College, will give forestry instruction.

E. Y. Floyd, educational director of the Division of Game and Inland Fisheries of the Department of Conservation and Development, will conduct a class in "Game Management on North Carolina Farms." R. B. Armsfield, field biologist of the Department of Conservation and Development, will conduct a tour to the nearby game and fish hatchery.

Counties which will be represented at the camp are: Caldwell, Alamance, Guilford, Wilson, Pender, Catawba, Nash, Jones, Carteret, Cleveland, Buncombe, Wake Robeson and Surry.

STATE COLLEGE ANSWERS TIMELY FARM QUESTIONS

Question: What is the final date to make application for certification of soybean, peanut, corn and cotton seed? Answer: A. D. Stuart, secretary of the N. C. Crop Improvement Association, the official certifying agency for seed, says farmers who want their fall-harvested crop seed certified should make application to the State College office of the Association before August 1st.

Question: How can our old paint brushes be reclaimed? Answer: The old, hardened paint brush may be reclaimed by soaking it overnight in paint thinner, or if not too hard, in gasoline or turpentine, says Howard Ellis, Extension agricultural engineer. After the old paint is softened, scrape it off with a putty knife or comb it out with a steel comb or brush. Next, wash the brush in warm water with a mild laundry soap. Allow it to thoroughly dry by wrapping—not too tightly—in heavy paper or cardboard.

Question: Is it possible to save vegetable seed for next year's Victory Garden? Answer: It is quite simple to save seed from self-fertilized crops such as tomatoes, beans and peas, but more difficult to save seed from such cross-fertilized crops as corn, squash, cucumbers and melons. For detailed information on saving Victory Garden seed, write to the Extension Horticulturist, N. C. State College, Raleigh.

have united in an appeal to all North Carolina housewives to save waste fats. "Don't throw away a single drop of used cooking fats," they urged. "This includes bacon grease, meat drippings, frying fats—every kind you use. After you've got all the cooking good from them, pour them through a kitchen strainer into a clean, wide-mouthed can. Store in a cool dark place."

Dean Schaub explained that meat dealers are patriotically serving as collectors of the waste fats. They have asked that waste fats be brought to them in one-pound lots, preferably early in the week. They will weigh the fats, pay the housewife for them, and start them on the way to the war industries.

Mrs. Smith lists four things "Not to do." (1) Don't take less than one pound at a time to your meat dealer; (2) Don't take your fats in glass containers or paper bags; (3) Don't allow fats to stand so long that they become rancid, because, if they do, the glycerine content is reduced; and (4) Don't take your fats to the meat dealer on week-ends when he is usually the busiest.

A WEEK OF THE WAR

(Continued from page 1) as chief of staff to him as Commander in Chief of the Armed Forces. Gen. MacArthur reported from Australia that the new 2,500-man Japanese invasion force landed in the Buna-Ambai-Gona area in New Guinea on July 22 has been subjected to such damaging raids that few, if any, Japanese ships are left in the vicinity of the invasion. The Navy announced 17 more United Nations merchant vessels have been lost to enemy submarines.

Army. The nine army corps areas were recognized and renamed "Service Commands." The reorganization will further decentralize the operation of Services of Supply activity and eliminate duplicating facilities. War Secretary Stimson said 28,000 Jaundice cases developed among Army personnel in the U. S. and abroad between January 1 and July 4, apparently due to the use of the Yellow Fever vaccine. Sixty-two deaths resulted. "There has been a change in the form of Yellow Fever vaccine now used which the Surgeon General thinks will eliminate the whole trouble," Mr. Stimson said. Director Hobby of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps said 20 companies of 150 women each will be trained by the end of this year and 25,000 women will be trained by April 1943.

Taxation and Profits. The House passed and sent to the Senate the War Revenue Bill, estimated to yield about $6,300 million, providing a 45 percent normal and surtax income rate on corporations, and a 90 percent excess profits tax. Treasury Secretary Morgenthau, however, said a tax program of less than $6,300 million of additional revenue would be inadequate. He recommended removal of these "special privileges" tax exemption for State and municipal securities, exemption from taxation of 27 1/2 percent of income from oil wells and mines, and separate income tax returns by married couples.

The House Naval Affairs Committee, after investigating 40,000 contracts, said "95 percent of the War Contractors are doing an honest and effective job and receiving only fair and reasonable profits," the average being 8 percent.

Scrap Salvage Campaigns. President Roosevelt reported the recent scrap rubber collection drive added 454,000 tons to the Government's stockpile—exclusive of rubber in small piles still at service stations and junk dealers. WPB Chairman Nelson asked State and Local Governments to lend their trucks and workers to local salvage committees to help transport scrap material collections before winter sets in. To keep steel furnaces going at full capacity, more than 750,000 freight cars will be required to carry scrap iron and steel, most of which must be moved by trucks to rail points.

The WPB extended the tin can salvage program to 104 cities in addition to 36 Metropolitan areas previously announced, because de-tinning plant capacity requirements have been increased from 250,000 to 400,000 tons. The Board said the Government will requisition from junk dealers all useless automobiles—those that cannot be repaired on a practical basis—to maintain the present peak movement of automobile scrap to mills.

On the basis of a questionnaire to 350 firms, the Board estimated 100 million pounds of essential chemicals could be realized in the next 18 months if manufacturers of war equipment began now to recover wasted spray paints.
