Lovely Bridge Parties Feature Social Calendar

Seasonal Suggestions Used By Hostesses At Club Affairs

Among the loveliest of the fall bridge parties here was that of Wednesday, at which Mrs. R. A. Parker was gracious hostess. Members of the New Deal Club and additional friends shared in the pleasures of the afternoon.

Mrs. Parker entertained in her home. Chrysanthemums, roses and marigolds were in effective arrangements in the living and sun rooms, where the six tables bore Halloween appointments.

Scoring high for members and guests, Mrs. J. L. Shackelford and Mrs. C. H. Joyner were awarded handsome scarfs, and Mrs. D. E. Morgan and Mrs. R. D. Rouse received the consolations, cocktail forks. Mrs. Fay Smith and Miss Sallie Norwood, of Greenville, out-of-town guests, were remembered with lovely gifts by the hostess, Mrs. Smith receiving a luncheon cloth and Miss Norwood handkerchiefs.

A congealed salad and sandwiches in Halloween motifs were served with coffee. Candies also carried the seasonal suggestion.

Contract Club. Members of the Contract Bridge Club and additional friends, Mrs. L. E. Walston, Mrs. J. Y. Monk and Mrs. Frank Davis, Jr., enjoyed an afternoon series of progressions on Tuesday, with Mrs. M. V. Jones as hostess. The home of the hostess with its lovely arrangements of lovely lavender chrysanthemums and lupins provided a colorful setting for the tables.

War Stamps were presented as club and guest awards to Mrs. Lath Morriss and Mrs. Frank Davis, Jr.

A variety of sandwiches and a grapefruit salad, congealed in the rind, were served with pickles, crackers and coffee after the usual number of progressions.

Wednesday Afternoon Club. Mrs. A. C. Monk, Jr., entertained at a lovely club party, Wednesday, having as guests members of her card club and additional friends, Mrs. Herbert Acton, Mrs. P. K. Andress, Mrs. Ted L. Albritton and Mrs. Walter Jones. Pink dahlias were used with pleasing effect in the rooms where bridge was played.

Between progressions guests were invited into the dining room for refreshments. White chrysanthemums were used as a centerpiece for the dining room table. The salad was molded in Jack o' lantern design and the Halloween season further emphasized in the plate decorations and other refreshments.

Mrs. Robert Lee Smith won the club prize, a crystal egg server, and Mrs. Ted L. Albritton the guest award, a crystal swan flower container.

Literary Club. The Literary Club held an interesting meeting at the home of Mrs. G. M. Holden on Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. J. H. Harris as hostess. Lovely chrysanthemums carried a color note of yellow and pink.

Echoes of the recent meeting of the 15th District, North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs, held in Powellsville, were brought by a delegate, Miss Tabitha DeVisconti.

An informative talk, based on the current book, "You Can't Do Business With Hitler," was given by Mrs. H. Neal Howard, president of the group.

At the conclusion of the program, a delicious sweet course was served, followed by black coffee and cheese straws.

ACCEPTS POSITION. Miss Helen Willis, who was graduated from Duke University and Miss Hardbargers Secretarial School, in Raleigh, during the past year, left Sunday to accept a position with the Navy Department of the Marine Base at Edenton.
