Earlier Marketing Of Calves Advised

Getting the steer calves ready for market a year or more earlier than usual has been suggested to 4-H Club members and livestock men by L. I. Case, in charge of animal husbandry extension at N. C. State College.

The club members, by feeding out the calves for six to eight months instead of handling them in the usual way, will aid in increasing the total amount of meat available from North Carolina farms.

Home grown steer calves are the best to feed, Case explained. Next best are thrifty animals purchased as near the home community as possible at commercial prices. Under present conditions, show yard standards are of less importance than economy in production.

The State College specialist explained further that calves from two to 16 months old and in reasonably good flesh are recommended. The animals should be started each February or March for Fall sale, and in August or September for sale the next Spring.

Fifty bushels of corn or its equivalent in concentrated feed are required to put a calf ready for market, which will account for gains of from 400 to 500 pounds. In addition, it will require from 1,500 to 1,700 pounds of good roughage to feed a calf six to eight months.

If possible, Case said, the calf should be marketed as near before the start of the next year as possible. In the winter and spring months, the market is best and the price is highest.

State College Hints For Farm Homemakers

By Ruth Current

Winter weather brings special problems to the job of doing the family washing. Freezing cold and a stiff wind mean more difficulties in saving clothes from strain.

Some ways to meet these problems are: Plan on as much hot water as you can manage. It helps soap do its most efficient cleaning.

In winter, when everything from the atmosphere to the washtub is icy cold, you need extra hot water to offset the chill and this means extra fuel.

Careful soaking and sorting of the clothes before washing will save hot water as well as work, time and wear on clothes. If soaking clothes overnight is most convenient for you, put the clothes in the tub the night before. But, the home economists say that soaking a short time is really better than soaking a long time.

They find that 15 minutes of soaking is long enough to loosen dirt. Soak clothes in lukewarm water, but never hot water. Add soap to the water, or rub soap directly on the garments, especially on those places that show the most soil. For example, when you put a man's shirt to soak, rub soap on collars and cuffs.

White clothes often take a dingy look in winter for lack of that good bleach—sunshine. One way to keep clothes white is to take great care in rinsing. Be sure all soap is out. Soap or washing powder left in the fabric often discolors it. A small amount of boiling often helps whiten clothes, but too much will turn them yellow. Boiling in fresh soapy water for no longer than 10 minutes is sufficient. Very dirty clothes boil whiter if you add 2 or 3 tablespoons of kerosene or turpentine for each boiler or water. Rinse afterward to remove the odor of kerosene or turpentine.

BIRD CLUB

Johnnie Barrett and Zeb Whitehurst read an article about the wood thrush—it has a wonderfully sweet voice which is clear and musical as a silver bell. He is well named for he loves the deep woods. He is very shy and resembles the brown thrasher but has a shorter tail. He is cinnamon brown above and the under parts are white. The sides of his head are dark brown, streaked with white, and he is about eight inches long. Their nests are usually built in low bushes but very thick ones and are lined with moss and soft fine grass in which four light blue eggs are laid.

Joseph Smith read an article about the senate bill in regards to the selection of the Cardinal as the Official State Bird. George Monk read a poem, Bird Song for the Spring by Glenn Ward Dresbach.

An 82-year-old Galesville, Wis., mechanic, with a single machine in his home, turns out parts for naval ordnance as a war production subcontractor.

IN THE ARMY BOMBER SQUADRONS
they say:
"LAYING THE EGGS" for dropping the bombs
"BROWNE OFF" for board
"PIECE OF CAKE" for an easy job
"CAMEL" for the Army man's favorite cigarette

A BRAVE MAN

One of our bravest soldiers is our Commander-in-Chief. To risk his life in North Africa To ride in and open Jeep.

He is just a man the Just like you and I, But what a man, what a man To attract the public's eye.

He is a mighty brave man And a great leader for our Nation, We will gladly fight, and fight for him

Always, and not for just the duration. All the people in service Wearing Kaki and Blue, Are fighting and fighting daily For their loved one and you.

But don't forget the homefolks Who are paying their dollars and cents, To buy Stamps and War Bonds To help in National Defense.
