State College Hints For Farm Homemakers

By Ruth Current State Home Demonstration Agent, N. C. State College.

The thrifty housewife should know food grades. This war period is no time to buy a "pig in a poke." When shopping for the family's food, it is very important that you know as much as possible about your groceries before you part with either your money or your ration stamps.

One way to know what you are buying, is to get foods with U. S. Government grades, whenever possible. Government grades are accurate. By purchasing such graded foods you can get what you want at the price you want to pay. Take canned fruits and vegetables, for example. If you get the grade-labeled can, the label tells you whether the food is A, B, or C quality. The growers consider size, ripeness, freedom from blemishes, tenderness and uniformity in making up the grades.

Grade C canned goods are of good quality but they are not as carefully selected as the first two grades. However, they may have the advantage in food value because the fruit or vegetables may have been more mature when harvested. You don't need high-cost, Grade A peaches, if you are going to cut them for a salad or cobbler.

Buying the grade that suits your use is a simple way of cutting down on the food budget. It is the thrifty buyer, who buys the lower grades, which are less expensive, when the fruits and vegetables are to be cut up or combined with other foods.

Butter has just been put under grading. It previously had been graded, but the grades were in numbers instead of letters. Today all butter comes in five grades—the top grade is A, next A, then B, then C, and the lowest grade for butter is "U. S. Cooking."

Symbolic of the role the Red Cross is again playing, the 1943 Red Cross War Fund poster depicts the organization as a mother ministering to the needs of the men of the United States armed forces and the victims of war throughout the world. The poster is an appeal to all men and women for contributions to the War Fund. Lawrence Wilbur, noted illustrator, designed the poster. Helen McAllister is the model.

Red Cross Needs $125,000,000 To Finance Wartime Program

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Faced with the greatest wartime program in history, the American Red Cross will launch its 1943 War Fund appeal for $125,000,000 on March 1. Chairman Norman H. Davis has announced.

Pointing-out that the bulk of the fund will be used to expand Red Cross services to the men of the armed forces and their families, Chairman Davis urged every American man and woman to contribute to the fund.

With the approval of President Roosevelt, who also is President of the American Red Cross, the month of March is being observed as Red Cross Month. Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, is chairman of the Red Cross 1943 War Fund.

"Red Cross services to our armed forces and to the needs of distressed civilians on the battle and home fronts can be supplied only by great expenditures and sacrifices," Chairman Davis said. "We are exerting our utmost efforts to accomplish these tasks with the least possible drain upon the resources of the people in funds, time and energy. We must never falter in our determination to meet these delicate obligations. The Red Cross is confident that all our people will be generous in their support of the 1943 War Fund."

LARD

Packers are required to reserve 50 percent of their weekly production of lard for purchase by the Food Distribution Administration. Civilian supplies of lard will be slightly larger than last year.

FOOD

Civilian supplies of canned vegetables from next summer's estimated pack will be increased about 10,000,000 cases under new food orders. Most of the increase will be canned tomatoes and snap beans.

SOYBEANS

The purchase and use of whole or ground soybeans for food or fertilizer is prohibited. The need is for oil, meal and cake.

We have no prejudice against big business; when it gets to be the underdog in this country, we will be fighting for its welfare. Just now, it can, and does, take care of its own interests.

FARM 'TRENCHES' ON THE CONTOUR

Soldiers fighting in trenches and foxholes on foreign soils may not be interested in the contours of the land, but farmers back home find contour farming a very vital thing in food and fiber needed for victory, according to Earl B. Curran, State Conservationist of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service and a member of the State USDA War Board. Conservation practices carried out in the past 10 years have done a great deal toward increasing per acre yields on North Carolina farms, Curran says, and contour farming is one of the modern conservation methods which will help farmers meet their food production goals this year.
