COTTON SEED

Feeding cotton seed is a wasteful practice, says Extension livestock specialists at State College. They urge growers to deliver their cotton seed to the crushers and take cottonseed meal in exchange.

Alfalfa Requires Borax Fertilizer

An application of from 20 to 35 pounds of borax per acre, along with the regular fertilizer, is one of the chief secrets in successfully growing alfalfa, reports Extension agronomists at State College.

This small application of borax cures "alfalfa yellows," which is a leaf trouble, and it keeps the plants in vigorous condition. The result is increased yields and the maintenance of a much better stand, according to the agronomists. Borax response is so outstanding that failure to get uniform distribution will result in streaks through the field.

One application of borax will last for several years. Growers are warned not to apply more than 35 pounds per acre because relatively large applications produce a toxic effect and damage the crop.

In planting alfalfa, the agronomists recommend that a leguminous cover crop be disc'd in with a "bush and bog" harrow or the grower can use an application of 5 to 10 tons of manure per acre. An application of 700 pounds of a 2-12-6 per acre and 24 to 35 pounds of borax is also needed.

The heavy yields of alfalfa remove large amounts of minerals and tests have shown that the crop needs an application of about 400 pounds of an 0-12-12 per acre in the spring, the agronomists point out.

They say that alfalfa is not a "leaf crop" but should be planted at only a fourth, well-drained soil and in a sunny place. If it is planted in a shady place, where the water table is high, the crop will not do well.

Buying War Bonds to the point of temporary personal sacrifice is the most direct way you can comply with Secretary Knox's appeal.

"Temporary sacrifice" is the correct phrase because you are only lending your money when you buy War Bonds. This government which never has defaulted on an obligation will pay you back $4 for every $3 invested if you hold the bonds for 10 years.

The least you can do is to back the attack with War Bonds today. Buy extra Bonds above your normal Bond buying.

Save Home-Grown Pork Without Loss

By following a few simple rules, growers can easily save a good supply of home-grown pork without loss, says Dr. D. E. Brady, in charge of meat research for the Agricultural Experiment Station at State College.

He suggests that since it will soon be time to butcher and cure pork, growers should write to the Agricultural Editor at State College, Raleigh, for a free copy of Extension Circular No. 262, entitled "The Farm Pork Supply."

This publication lists the equipment needed; describes the best method of butchering and cutting; and gives two plans for curing—dry curing and brine curing. Information on smoking and a recipe for making sausage is also included.

The secret of pork curing, according to Dr. Brady, is to use good sound meat, the correct curing ingredients, and clean containers. Of course, it is necessary that there be cool weather for curing.

Salt is the agent primarily responsible for curing. Excessive amounts of salt injure the flavor of the meat and cause a too great hardening of the muscles. Too small an amount of salt, according to the expert, allows bacterial action to set in, causing subsequent spoilage of the meat.

Sugar is used in the curing process to counteract the hardening effect of the salt and to improve the flavor and texture of the meat. White or brown sugar, or even molasses, may be used, Brady said.

Best Prices Paid For Quality Eggs

North Carolina eggs should reach the market in the best possible condition because high quality eggs bring the best prices, says C. J. Maupin, Extension poultry specialist at N. C. State College.

There are several fundamental rules of management for growers to follow in producing highest quality eggs.

"Proper production methods should include laying stock, bred for good egg production, free of disease, properly fed and housed, together with good sanitation and proper care of eggs after they are laid," Maupin says.

High grade eggs should weigh 24 ounces per dozen, have a good shell texture, be reasonably free of watery whites, and otherwise possess good internal quality.

"It is important that the flock be properly fed on a balanced ration, since the egg is manufactured from the food given the bird. Proper housing and equipment is needed to avoid production of dirty eggs. Clean eggs are not only in demand by the consumer of fresh shell eggs but also by the drying plants," the poultry specialist advises.

The best temperature for storing eggs is between 40 and 50 degrees. He suggests that they should not be exposed to temperatures below 28 or 29 degrees in winter because of the danger of freezing. In summer the temperature should not be allowed to go above 68 degrees for fertile eggs.

"Every farm, which produces any considerable number of eggs, should have a specially prepared egg cellar or storage room," Maupin says.

If you'll save your money now you will have plenty to spend after the war for what you don't want and can't get.

The word "damn" may become obsolete. It is too mild for a curse word and isn't used anymore in connection with socks.

A long line of these birds sailing and flapping alternately and often in nearly perfect unison is an interesting sight.

The natural home of this bird is on a sandy island and they often breed in large colonies. Their nests are built of sticks on the ground. The eggs are two to five in number. At eating time the mother opens her mouth and the whole head and neck of her nestling disappears down her capacious maw where he finds his dinner.

State College Hints For Farm Homemakers

By Ruth Current, N. C. State College.

If you're looking for a good place to use honey, you don't need to go any farther than your breakfast toast or waffles. Hot biscuits, dripping with honey have been a morning delight since way back. Honey can also be used to sweeten fruits, beverages, and cereals. Honey sauce, with nuts or orange juice and orange peel, is good on ice cream. For a sandwich filling, use honey which has been creamed with butter, nuts, grated orange peel, cream cheese, cottage cheese or peanut butter.

Many cooks sometimes use honey to give their old recipes new life and flavor. When you cook with honey, remember a part of it is water. You can't substitute honey for sugar, measure for measure, without making some other change in the recipe. For one thing, you'll have to use less liquid than the original recipe calls for.

For honey cakes and quick breads, mix the honey with the liquid called for in the recipe. Also, be sure to bake at the lowest temperature possible, so the honey won't scorch.

For gingerbread, brown bread, and stouped puddings, you can use honey in place of molasses. In that case, the home economists say you can substitute them, measure for measure. If you use honey, be sure to omit the soda that you would use with molasses.

Honey takes up moisture as it stands. That may not be so good with some candies and frostings but it helps to keep your fruit cakes and stouped puddings moist.

Be sure to store honey in a place that is dry and fairly warm. Don't let it get too cold, or it will turn into a solid mass.

STOCKYARDS ALMOST EMPTY

CHICAGO—Photo made at the Union Stock Yards, here, world's greatest live stock market, of pens which normally hold thousands of cattle awaiting processing for human consumption in the world's largest packing houses. Shipments arriving currently are one-third those of a year ago, and city butcher shops report scarcity of beef.

Because of the existing food shortage, laying flocks should be closely culled and all non-layers removed. The protein supply for feeds is particularly short.

The sweet potato crop in the U. S. is estimated to be one-fourth larger than last year and growers should plan to grade, cure, and store the crop.
