Soaring on foot in Tunisia, Pvt. Charles H. Evans was captured by 50 Italian infantrymen and marched to the rear. A bayonet at his back, Evans whirled, slumped his march, and escaped. Although wounded by rifle fire, he hid in a cactus patch all nightfall, slipped back to our forces with valuable information picked up as a prisoner. For this he wears the Purple Heart and the Silver Star. (Colburn Photo) Evans' escape with another War Hero.

Postwar Plan
Is Approved
Senate Subcommittee
Votes Seven to One for Proposal

Washington, Oct. 13.—A Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee approved 7 to 1 today a postwar foreign policy declaration which would pledge the United States to "join with free and sovereign nations in the establishment and maintenance of international authority with power to prevent aggression and to preserve the peace of the world."

The resolution, voted over the opposition of Senator LaFollette (Prog-Wis), goes to the full committee next week, Chairman Connally (D-Tex) predicted the full committee would approve it soon and expressed the opinion that the senate also would concur.

LaFollette's opposition to the measure was presented by Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) in the absence of the Wisconsin Senator, ill in a Madison hospital. LaFollette had sent instructions to vote his name against any resolution at this time.

The resolution, which represents a compromise in viewpoints, is as follows:

"Resolved by the Senate of the United States:

"That the war against all our enemies be waged until complete victory is achieved;

"That the United States cooperate with its comrades-in-arms in securing a just and honorable peace;

"That the United States, acting through its constitutional processes join with free and sovereign nations in the establishment and maintenance of international authority and to preserve the peace of the world."

Those who voted for the resolution were Senators Connally, George (D-Ga), Barkley (D-Ky), Thomas (D-Utah), Gillette (D-Iowa), Vandenberg and White (R-Me).

Barkley told reporters he thought the proposal was "very constructive, brief and to the point," adding that in his opinion "it will meet with the general approval of the country."

Connally summed up his views like this:

"The resolution is the best possible action that could be secured. Unity and harmony are vital if the senate is to pass a resolution of a substantial majority. The resolution is a substantial advance toward international cooperation and the establishment of peace machinery."

In the form voted by the subcommittee, the resolution differed both in wording and in form from the Fulbright "lasting peace" resolution adopted by the house. It was a simple senate resolution which would not require action by the house or in the case of the Fulbright proposal.

There seemed no doubt Republicans, led by Vandenberg, had forced some revisions in the original Connally draft of the resolution, which called for the use of economic, military and naval sanctions to enforce the peace if arbitration and negotiation efforts failed.

Inexperience Is Causing Government Bottleneck
Committee Deplores
Lack of Employment
Control in Washing-

Washington, Oct. 13.—A congressional committee charged today that "inexperienced youngsters" holding some of the top personnel jobs in Washington "constitute a real bottleneck" to the government's war effort.

The youthful executives lack "the experience and tact" necessary in "top-notch management officials," declared the House Civil Service Committee headed by Rep. Ranspock of Georgia, the Democratic whip.

Experienced executives "have been turned down completely or ignored by these younger personnel officers," the report added.

Other findings in the committee's unfinished investigation of federal jobholders:

Government workers are "blowing up" their own descriptions of their jobs and getting salary hikes ranging from $600 to $1,200 a year for doing practically the same work.

Some administrators build up "personal machines" of friends on the payroll who move with them from job to job, "their salaries usually being boosted on the doubtful excuse that their duties have been increased."

"The bald fact is — the uncoordinated departments of the executive branch of the federal government lack an over-all, centralized authority with powers of management control," the committee said. "Until this situation is corrected the taxpayers can expect a continuance of needless hiring and duplication of effort."

"It is too obvious to state that the chief executive lacks the time to give to general management. It simply would be humanly impossible even in peacetime. Improper management, therefore, cannot be laid at the doorstep of the chief executive."

The investigators centered their

WAR IN BRIEF

Biggest air force assembled by Allies in Southwest Pacific area makes first fighter-scouted raid on Rabaul in New Guinea. 177 Jap aircraft destroyed, 17,800 tons of shipping sunk, including three destroyers.

Italy declares war on Germany. U. S. Britain and Russia accept Italy as co-belligerent. Allied troops advance nine miles on Volturno line and big battle nears. "San Groce in mountains taken and British Eighth Army captures Riccia.

fire on the young personnel executives and the "blow up" method of boosting salaries.

"As the result of the apparent over-emphasis on the importance of a college degree for personnel officers," the report said, "numerous highly efficient men and women have been lost to the war effort. The (investigating) staff has been told that many of these would-be applicants have walked away in despair, a despair born of the personnel officer's lack of tact and understanding."

As an example of rapid advancement the committee outlined the case of "Miss B" who was a part-time clerk in a dime store five years ago. She was graduated from college two years ago and went to work for the OPA as a "junior classification analyst" at $1,200. Now she is "associate personnel officer," making $3,200 a year.

All similar case histories show "the common denominator of a college degree and few years, if any, in practical business experience," the investigators said.

EQUIPMENT

Growers should protect their farm machinery from the weather, and check and adjust it for maximum efficiency, says David S. Weaver, in charge of Agricultural Engineering at State College.

WOOD

"Military equipment, supplies and food must be packaged and shipped to our armies and allies. This makes timber and pulpwood just as important as food," says R. W. Graeber, State College Forester.

HEREFORDS

Thirty-seven buyers from three states paid an average of $290 per head for 66 registered Herefords from Watauga County at a recent sale at Boone, reports County Agent H. H. Hamilton, Jr.

HOLSTEINS

Cottonade Farm at Fayetteville and Happy Hill Farms at Matthews purchased outstanding females at the Dunloggin sale of Holsteins in Maryland. Sale of 208 animals brought $888,700.

BIRD CLUB

Claude Tyson gave notes on the Hermit Thrush at Saturday's Bird Club meeting. He said this Thrush is smaller than the robin and has an olive-brownish back and a dullly speckled breast with a short, reddish brown tail.

The Hermit Thrush is a singer of the purest natural melody to be heard in this or, perhaps, any land. He is sometimes called the "American Nightingale." Many competent critics contend that in purity and sweetness of tone as well as in technique the Hermit's phrase is really finer than that of the celebrated English bird.

In spring and summer, the Hermit Thrush feeds mainly on insects but in fall and winter it partakes largely of various wild fruits and berries. On the whole his diet is remarkably free from useful products.

YOU CAN HELP

"Weapons require steel, and steel requires scrap. Scrap metal must be found." General George C. Marshall, Chief of Staff of the United States Army, said recently in urging civilians to salvage every bit of scrap they can find.

"There will be no end to requirements for weapons until the final battle is completed to victory. Tanks, jeeps, trucks, airplanes and artillery are inevitably destroyed by the hundreds on the battlefields, even when the going is good.

"The weapons and equipment must be replaced without delay if the advance is to continue and if we are to give the soldiers who depend on these weapons a fair break on the battle field.

"Scrap metal must be found. You can help find it.

CHICKENS

In poultry-raising, the use of wire-mesh floors has simplified the care of chicks, and for older birds, the use of a deep, highly absorbent litter saves changing it so often.

State College Hints
For Farm Homemakers

By Ruth Current,
 N. C. State College.

Buy a pressure canner now and be ready for next season's canning, suggests the War Food Administration to housewives and community canning groups lacking this useful equipment.

Rationing of pressure canners has been relaxed so that housewives can now buy a canner even if they are unable to share it. Apply directly to local agricultural War Boards for a certificate. Applications previously turned down by local boards will be reconsidered on request. Certificate holders may buy from any dealer without the trouble of locating a canner before applying. The new pressure canner is very satisfactory. See your County Home Demonstration Agent if you need help in operating your canner.

Keep your clothes fit: Choose the right fabric for the purpose. Air-cleaning frequently and use dress shields to prevent harmful effects on fabric from either perspiration or the deodorant you use.

Keep clothing clean—take care of stains and spots. Use cute threads and will shorten the life of your garment. If clothes have contact care, they'll wear. Follow cleaning instructions carefully.

Use correct heat for pressing your clothes. Be sure your iron is adjusted to the correct heat for the fabric. Get instructions when you buy a garment.

Place garments on hangers when removed, choosing the right hanger for the garment.

Watch for small repair jobs, don't put off doing them. If you let it go that small tear may grow too large to mend. Watch hems and seams, too.

Shoe clothing properly.

BUTTER

The saving of only one-half ounce of butter per capita per week would have provided enough butter to have supplied out entire army last year.

Process 1,100 Acre Bean Crop

"MISS" LAKE MILLS of 1943, 83-year-old Mrs. Augusta Georgia, with one great-grandson and three grandsons in the Navy, is typical of Lake Mills, Wis. community of 2,000 citizens who left their households, closed shops, jail and banks and went to work in the Libby cannery to help harvest and process one-third of Wisconsin's production of lima beans.

SHORTS-CLAD Barbara Greenwood, senior Lake Mills Wisconsin High School girl, is one of the many students who volunteered to help process 1,100 acre crop of lima beans. Barbara is sorting beans in the picking room of the Libby cannery.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS and housewives worked side by side in the cannery in response to an appeal for volunteers made by S. G. Sorensen, manager of the Libby cannery. At a earlier date, an appeal was issued from the U. S. Employment Service for nearby Army camps.

SOMETHING FOR THE BOYS

At the largest U. S. heavy bomber base in North Africa, fliers and ground crew members of the Army Air Forces are entertained by Martha Raye, screen and radio singer, one of the leading figures in the show world wherever American boys are stationed, by USO Camp Shows, a member agency of the National War Fund.

In addition, it is estimated that by 1944 there will be 650 clubs organized by groups of local citizens in metropolitan centers and small towns, bringing to 2,733 the total USO operations by the end of the year. This means that 52 new clubs and centers will be opened each month in 1943.

According to Mr. Little, the new clubs and centers will be divided as follows:

1,500 clubs and smaller centers near Army camps and Navy stations; 125 mobile units serving guard detachments on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts; 200 troops-in-transit lounges in railroad and bus stations; 170 travelers aid units in stations and near camps; 150 clubs and mobile units in hemisphere bases from Alaska to Brazil; 650 locally-managed clubs.

"When the people of Farmville and Pitt County contribute to this great human cause they may be sure that somewhere boys from this very community are enjoying the recreational welfare or social activities provided by USO for their off-duty hours," said Mr. Little.
