Weather Affects Yield of Peanuts

Weather conditions and disease have caused poor yields of peanuts in many parts of Eastern Carolina this year, reports Dr. Luther Shaw, State College plant pathologist. The rains in July, after cultivation had ceased, caused the land to pack hard. The crown crop of nuts was set during this period. During the following dry weather the plants bloomed and produced pegs more or less normally. With the soil packed, the pegs either could not penetrate the ground, or the embryos were killed in the pegs by the high temperature and dry atmosphere before they could enter the ground. Consequently, the plants did not "peg down" during the normal fruiting period of August. "The earlier set of 'crown nuts' proceeded to mature in the normal, possibly maturing slightly earlier because of the dry weather. It was too late for the second crop of pegs, which was produced following the rain in August, to produce nuts that would reach maturity," Dr. Shaw says. The high temperature of August also was favorable for the development of the nut and peg decay organisms, particularly the one causing Southern root and stem rot. "This organism as well as others continued to develop during September. The effect was bad rotting of the early 'crown sets' of nuts and immaturity of the few late nuts that set. The net result was an extremely poor yield in many cases," Dr. Shaw commented.

550,000 Honorably Discharged Approximately 550,000 officers and enlisted men were honorably discharged from the Army between December 7, 1941 and August 31, 1942, according to the War Department. Approximately 200,000 men over 35 years of age were released to accept employment in essential industry or agriculture. Of the remaining 350,000 discharges a large majority was for physical and mental disability.

No Coupons Rationing Of Coal There will be no coupon rationing of coal during the coming winter, according to OPA. Deliveries are being curtailed so as to spread supplies as evenly as possible. The coal shortage is primarily in anthracite, the Solid Fuels Administration for War reports, and anthracite users are urged to supplement hard coal with bituminous coal. Copies of "Supplementing Anthracite With Fuels For Home Heating" (information circular 7260) may be obtained without charge by writing to the Division of Information, Solid Fuels Administration, Interior Department, Washington 25, D. Bans Harmful Antifreeze To protect motorists and truck operators, the War Production Board last Saturday halted all sales of an estimated half million gallons of destructive antifreeze. WPB warned motorists who already have filled their radiators with any of the banned products to drain and flush the cooling system immediately and refill with the alcohol or ethylene glycol type. Harmful types are those compounded with inorganic salts, including calcium, magnesium or sodium chloride and petroleum distillates. Trade names of the products, whose sales were halted are: All-Winter, Chem-A-Cool, Frezone, Wonder-Solv, Lo-Zone, Alcotex, Ever-Flo, Bird Antarctic, Flexo, Gold Seal, Security, Anti-Arctic, Neva-Freeze, Anti-Frost, Bond (Top Line), Fro-Zex, Ne-Freeze, 60-Below, Lo-Tem, Never-Freeze, and No-Boil.

Consumers Get More Egg Products Consumers will be able to get more egg products since restrictions on liquid, frozen, and dried whole eggs have been removed by WPA. Increase will be reflected primarily in the production of noodles, macaroni, prepared flours, and prepared ice-cream powders and mixes. North Africa Holds Food Troops North Africa now is delivering fruits, vegetables, and meats to allied forces, supplying the new French army and feeding essential civilian workers, it was revealed recently. Flour, fruits, and vegetables from North Africa are being used in the Italian campaign, and French authorities are accumulating food supplies for use during and after the liberation of France. Following liberation of North Africa, allied authorities supplied carefully indented seeds, fertilizers, sprays, binder twine, spare parts for farm machinery, and tractor fuel—supplies which have saved many times their weight in shipping space by enabling North Africans to get quickly back into agricultural production. Aviation Gas Output Quadrupled Production of 100-octane gasoline needed for war operations is now four times greater than in the early months of 1942 and within a few months will be eight-times greater, according to the Petroleum Adminis-
