YESTERDAY, TODAY AND TOMORROW

(By H. B. Sugg)

When we consider the time element in the span of human life, taking the day as the unit, we have our yesterdays, our todays and our tomorrows. Of these, our greatest concern should be about what we are doing with our todays, for each today brings its own yesterday and tomorrow. If we see to it that our todays are thoughtfully and wisely used, we may have little concern about our yesterdays and our tomorrows, for yesterday can bring only pleasant memories and tomorrow hopeful and happy anticipations.

If we could spare a few moments to observe nature at its work, we might readily conclude that all life upon the earth is a give and take proposition. There is even an inter-relationship between the two great life kingdoms, the plant and the animal, such that neither could exist without the other.

If we should study the fundamental laws of all human society, we should see that in any highly developed and complex social order, all of its members are very interdependent. In an economic order capital and labor are likewise mutually dependent. Both are indispensable. There must be sufficient capital at the disposal of leaders who have the vision and push to explore the community and discover its possible and immediate sources of wealth and provide suitable situations for their development and distribution. There must also be sufficient labor with the necessary skill and intelligence to develop and utilize these sources of wealth for the advancement of the community and ultimately for the benefit of humanity as a whole.

Somewhere in these processes there is a place that every normal member of the order could and should fill. Finding and effectively adjusting one's self to this place is the basic purpose of all education. No one, however conspicuous or insignificant, has a moral right to expect more from his community than he is willing to put into it. If so, he ceases to be a factor in its development and reduces to the status of a human parasite which is disdainful to self-respecting men and women.

During the darkest days of our recent depression, we all must confess that, in our community, capital met its responsibility voluntarily and cheerfully. Those that were blessed to have were happy to share with those who were less fortunate to the extent that there is no knowledge of any extreme suffering. Now labor is in demand and is faced squarely with this question: Is labor meeting its responsibility cheerfully and up to its capacity? Every one should stop and think. If the answer is yes, then all is well. If the answer is no, then a readjustment should be the next move. Remember, "The pendulum will swing back". We might have another economic depression even in our day. Finally, it behooves all of us to live today so that yesterday can bring only pleasant memories and tomorrow happy anticipations.

BIRD CLUB

At Saturday's Bird Club meeting, Billy Russell read an article about the Pygmy Nuthatch. The Pygmy is the smallest and most boyish of the Nuthatches. He is gregarious and good-natured; he travels in small but noisy flocks through the woods, making a great disturbance over the business of getting something to eat, and enjoying life meanwhile.

The Pygmy has the upside-down habits of his near relatives and does most of his hunting for food in coniferous trees. He is four and one half inches long. His upper parts are gray and underparts are white and buffy white. He builds his nest behind crevices in the bark or in holes in trees twenty feet up. It is constructed of feathers, plant down, bits of wool and animal fur. The eggs are 6 to 9, crystal white, speckled with Indian red.

LET'S KEEP UP THE GOOD WORK

THIS community has every right to be proud of the way it is meeting the appeal for more pulpwood. We are proving that we can get out the wood. Now let's keep it coming!

This war isn't won yet—not by a long shot. Our boys will be fighting for quite a while. They will be needing ammunition, food, medical supplies — and all these things that are shipped in paperboard containers are made from pulpwood.

Pulpwood is our wartime job. Pulpwood can still be a bottleneck, holding up America's war effort. Our responsibility is to see that it does not. No boy shall die because we have failed.
