BONDS OVER AMERICA

Confederate Home

Near Blount, on the Gulf of Mexico, stands the last residence of Jefferson Davis and the home where the Confederate president completed his memoirs. Restored now is a home for Confederate veterans.

Defeated men may live in peace and honor under the Stars and Stripes, but under the crooked cross of Nazism there is only ignominy, persecution, death for those who will not bend the knee.

THINK IT OVER

How about doing a little cold turkey thinking after you lay aside this newspaper tonight? You've got a good job. The chances are there is someone else in your family, perhaps two or three, working. Your son or your brother—may be away at war.

This war must end sometime. Your whole family, your neighbors, are praying it ends soon and those fighting boys of yours will come home safely.

But will you be ready for whatever happens when peace comes? Will you have something laid away? We're all hoping there'll be jobs aplenty, jobs which mean making something for somebody's happiness and not for somebody's sorrow. That's where your War Bonds come into the picture. Sure, Americans own billions of dollars of War Bonds now; and before this 4th War Loan ends they will have put away billions more. But how about you? You're the one that counts. The bigger the pile of War Bonds you have when peace comes, the bigger chance you'll have to slip right into the post-war world you're dreaming about tonight.

So "Let's All Back the Attack."

STATE COLLEGE ANSWERS TIMELY FARM QUESTIONS

QUESTION: Why do I have to buy new hybrid seed corn each year?

ANSWER: Hybrid seed do not breed true like a purebred variety of corn and in the second generation undesirable qualities that were covered up in the hybrid may show up with decreases in yield, says Dr. E. P. Moore of the State College Experiment Station. He points out that the N. C. Crop Improvement Association is carefully guarding basic seed stocks of hybrid corns and that these hybrids are undergoing through tests by the Experiment Station. He urges growers to buy hybrid seed corn only on performance records in North Carolina, which are given in Circular No. 134.

State College Hints For Farm Homemakers

By Ruth Current, N. C. State College.

If candle wax dripped on the holiday tablecloth, use a dull knife, a warm iron and cleaning tissues to help remove it. First scrape off as much of the hard wax as possible. Then, place the stain between cleaning tissues or paper towels, and press with a warm iron, changing the paper as it becomes soiled. Finally, sponge with a grease solvent. If color still remains, sponge with a liquid made up of denatured alcohol and water in equal parts.

One of the resolutions that American housewives may well make this new year is to put up food only by scientifically approved canning methods. Canning specialists say that for safety from spoilage, all such non-acid foods as meats and most vegetables, except tomatoes, must be canned under pressure. Now that pressure cookers are no longer rationed, no one should be tempted to take a chance on putting up foods by risky methods of canning.

Greasing the surface of the ham with lard or oil will help prevent mold on the meat. Oil or lard is especially useful for keeping mold from the cut surfaces of hams that have been sliced and then stored in the refrigerator or pantry.

Is there any good way to keep dry bread crumbs so they remain dry but don't get moldy or rancid? Home economists say that bread crumbs must be dry when you store them. Dry bread crumbs keep best if air reaches them, so instead of putting them in a tight container like crackers, punch holes in the cover of the jar or tie a piece of cheesecloth over the top. They keep best stored in this way but, even so, will not keep indefinitely.

QUESTION: Can I produce cabbage seed in North Carolina?

ANSWER: Research horticulturists of the State College Experiment Station are testing several methods for producing cabbage seed here and the results of these experiments will not be available until the summer of 1944, says J. Y. Lassiter, State College Extension specialist in horticulture. "We think cabbage seed can be produced in North Carolina successfully by growing a fall crop of cabbage, harvesting the heads for market, and selecting and saving the stalks that are true to variety over the winter so as to produce seed from them in the spring," Lassiter reports. The stalks should be fertilized and cultivated just as if you were growing a spring crop of cabbage.

QUESTION: When is the best time to seed lespedeza.

ANSWER: Korean or Kobe should be sown between February 1 and March 15 in the Coastal Plain, between February 15 and March 15 in the Piedmont, and between March 15 and April 15 in the Mountains. Seedlings before these dates must run the risk of being killed by spring frosts, while later seedings may be destroyed by dry weather, say State College Extension agronomists. Volunteer stands often suffer from freezing but there are generally enough seed left on the land to produce another stand.

BISCUITS

The exercise the cook gives the dough affects both the shape and texture of baking powder biscuits, report research scientists. A little kneading usually produces the best biscuits.

THE PROPHET VINDICATED

I can predict with absolute certainty that within another generation there will be another World War if the nations of the world do not concert the method by which to prevent it. — Woodrow Wilson in Chicago, September 5, 1919.

On this eighty-seventh anniversary of the birth of Woodrow Wilson he stands before the world as a prophet vindicated by the literal fulfillment of a prophecy made when a blinded people followed the ancient example of stoning the prophet, so they could worship the idol of selfish Normalcy.

Not in history, sacred or profane, has any prophet obtained greater belated honor, even by those of his own country, who in their partnership and isolationism stoned the League he brought back from Versailles.

The spirit of Elijah was upon Woodrow Wilson as it stood with his people to take the place the valor of their sons had won for them. In fashioning an instrument to inspire lasting peace.

This birthday, as Wilson is proclaimed the savior and prophet of his country, the Woodrow Wilson Foundation is sponsoring the stoning of the prophet.

War heroes make personal pleas to woodmen to devote extra days and extra effort to overcome present shortages of both pulpwood and saw logs vital in the fight for freedom.

ENSIGN J. L. SMITH STILL WINNING CAGER HONORS

From the New Year's issue of "Harbor News," a mimeographed sheet, containing news of activities of service men at Dutch Harbor, Alaska, we find that Ensign Julian L. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Smith, continues to win basketball laurels and is captain of his team, the Detectors.

The "Harbor News" account of a game during the holiday season, in which Ensign Smith's team won a trophy is as follows:

"Among cheers from the crowd that spurred both teams to a tough tussle, the Detectors caught a glimpse of the champion's trophy and really turned on the steam in the last period to take home 1st place. Leading 20-11 at halftime, the winners never let (Sir Walter's) the other boys get within striking distance. (Smithy), Smith and Pierce paced the champions with 8 points.

"Lt. Muhl, of the Welfare department, had the trophy placed on the timer's table at half time. After the game, Commander Com, NOB, Commandant, came out on the gym floor to make the presentation.

"Speaking to team captain Smith and the Detectors players, he said, 'to you men of the Detroit, I present this trophy. We are glad to have had you with us during the holiday season and we are pleased that you have taken advantage of the recreation facilities we have to offer.'

The news item was headed, "Detroit Officers Capture Fleet Trophy From Raleigh 40-29."

Farmville has always been proud of Julian's record, both in the field of sports and in the class room and we are glad to learn that he is so situated in the military service that he can continue playing the cager game, in which he excels.

BIRD NOTES

George Monk read an article on the "Western Tanager" at the Bird Club meeting, Saturday. The Tanager is a forest bird and often builds its nest in fir or pines. It is of flat saucer-shaped structure, generally hanging low on a horizontal branch, and is constructed of twigs, grass and bark strips, lined with similar, finer material and horse hair. Three or four pale bluish-green eggs, lightly spotted with brown is laid.

The Tanager is handsome and striking in plumage and elegant in form. The male is yellow, black and red and the female is olive-greenish, yellow and dusky. Their tails are shorter than their wings.

These birds feed their young chiefly on insects, which they are expert in catching, both on trees and on the wing, and has a fair claim to consideration at the hand of the farmer and the orchardist.

DOMESTIC AND OTHER TYPE WORKERS AVAILABLE HERE

Individuals wishing to secure domestic help and other types of workers may be able to find suitable help for positions by applying in person at the City Hall, second floor, each Tuesday morning at 9:00 o'clock, when a representative of Employment Service will be here for that purpose.

SWEET POTATOES

Buy certified sweet potato seed stock and improve the yields and quality of the crop, suggests J. Y. Lassiter, Extension horticulturist at State College.

When President Roosevelt went into office he installed a new cabinet. Now parts of that cabinet need replacements.

Lespedeza Tests Give Varied Data

Preliminary studies indicate that Kobe and Korean lespedeza yield approximately the same amount of forage under the same grazing conditions, reports Dr. R. L. Lovvorn, in charge of forage crop investigations at the State College Experiment Station.

Tests revealed that when planted together, the total yield was approximately the same as either variety alone, but Kobe contributed only one-third of the combined yields. Common and Tennessee 76 made much less growth.

The yield of a mixture of Kobe with either common or Tennessee 76 was intermediate between the two. On the other hand, where Korean and common were seeded together, the result was decidedly different. The combined yield was equal to the yield from a pure stand of Korean, but was made up of 90 percent Korean and 10 percent common.

"These results would raise some question as to the advisability of seeding common or Tennessee 76 with either Korean or Kobe," Lovvorn says.

He suggests that growers purchase their supplies of lespedeza seed for planting this season as early as possible because there are shortages in certain areas and seed are hard to get.

He points out that the need for lime and fertilizer becomes greater the longer lespedeza is grown on a farm, due to the depletion of the soil's natural supply of plant nutrients by removal of the hay. For this reason it now pays to fertilize lespedeza on lands where formerly it did not.
